Bobby Rush Will Speak On Black Panther's Work

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism: Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

'Fringe' Pay for Fire Guard

Fire protection, as Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett can attest, costs a lot of money.

The village's figure of $403,451 doesn't even tell the whole story, Hulett said.

Village residents are paying this amount for fire protection in 1969-70; residents in unincorporated areas around the village are not. But they both are receiving fire protection from the Elk Grove Fire Department.

However, this situation is changing, Hulett believes. "We're beginning to negotiate contracts with the unincorporated areas," he said.

"These homes on the fringes of the village do not really have fire protection. If they need help they get our service but we get nothing in return," he explained.

HULETT, who has been fire chief for the past year, made a survey recently of the total cost of fire protection for the village and how much it costs the village to supply fire protection to the unincorporated areas.

From this detailed report Hulett determined that it would be necessary to charge fringe areas for their fire protection.

"We're attempting to bring about the return in money for our extension of services," he explained.

Apparently the only area to date that has been charged for fire protection is the Forest View Homeowners Association.

HULETT explained that this section has been charged because they established their own fire protection district. Since it has no fire department it must receive services from outside the district but is able to tax the homeowners to pay for the protection.

Hulett added that there is no Elk Grove fire protection district, but an area that former Gov. Otto Kerner charged the Elk Grove fire department to protect.

There is no means of taxing people outside the village for these services although we are responsible for providing them with fire protection, according to Hulett.

The question of fire protection arose when the Forest View Homeowners Association decided last week to circulate a petition to obtain permission from the homeowners to discuss annexation with the village.

THE ASSOCIATION rejected an $11,000 contract with the village for one year's fire protection and claimed that the village was forcing them to annex in order for them to receive fire protection at a reasonable cost.

The $11,000 was determined from his detailed study of fire protection in the area, Hulett said. "They're perfectly reasonable in asking questions about the figures I provided them," he said. "I'd be glad to explain them to the homeowners."

Hulett added, "They're first being charged what they should have all along, but even I would question a bill that jumps from $3,000 to $11,000." The $3,000 is the amount the association paid for fire protection from last March to this February.

Richard McGrenera, village trustee who recommended the $11,000 figure based on Hulett's study, said "the figure is very fair."

"These are the facts. We're not making money on it," McGrenera said.

He reiterated Hulett's statement about fire protection costing more than what appears in the $403,451 budget, listing additional pump costs and a more costly fire protection rating.

2 GOP Precinct Captains Named

New Republican precinct captains have been named for two Elk Grove Township precincts by Republican Committeeman Carl Hansen.

James A. Courington, 102 Ridgewood Road in Elk Grove Village, is the new captain in Precinct 4 and James Vanek, 266 W. Dover in Des Plaines, is the new captain of Precinct 38.

Courington will work with Jack Stouffer, deputy committeeman, who handles precincts in the northern part of Elk Grove Village. Vanek will operate under Al Steil, deputy committeeman, who supervises precincts in the Algonquin Road area of the township.

Teeters Receives Valparaiso Award

Richard W. Teeters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Teeters, 437 S. Lynn Court, Des Plaines, was awarded the president's honorary scholarship at Valparaiso University.

A graduate of Elk Grove High School, Teeters was president of the national honor society and president of the chess club. He also received varsity letters in football and baseball.

Teeters is also a member of St. John Lutheran Church and of the Campus Life Youth Organization.

Joseph Wellman Resigns From NAW

Joseph Wellman, a member of Neighbors at Work (NAW) organization in Elk Grove Village, has resigned from that group.

Wellman played a key role last month as chairman of an ad hoc committee on housing to put 15 mobile homes for displaced Mexican-American families in the village.

The plan failed, however, when the village board voted down the proposal after a public hearing attended by some 800 persons.

WELLMAN SAID HE resigned from NAW because of an increased workload in his job as a social studies teacher in Elk Grove High School.

However, the Herald learned that Wellman did not agree with some of the methods used by NAW to solve the housing problem of the families.

Wellman still remains a member of a task force which plans to solve the housing problem by bringing moderate cost housing to the area. The task force is chaired by William Koretke, 81 Walpole.

Camp Fire Girls Set Father-Daughter Fete

The Camp Fire Girls of Elk Grove Village will have a father-daughter banquet Feb. 10 in Elk Grove High School starting at 6:30 p.m.

The menu is: Italian beef or fried chicken, mashed potatoes, molded salad, vegetable, rolls, coffee, cake and punch.

The theme is Valentine's Day.

The girls have made centerpieces and nut cups with help of their group leaders. The girls will also provide entertainment.

Faces Burglary Count

Richard Senour, 20, of Des Plaines, was arrested by Elk Grove Village police last week and charged with last month's burglary of Litton Medical Products, 777 Nicholas Blvd. in the village.

Senour's bond was set at $5,000. He is scheduled to appear in the Niles branch of Circuit Court Feb. 17.

BLACK PANTHER leader Bobby Rush will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday night. Appearance of Rush was arranged by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

Group Will Air Pollution Issue

Elk Grove Village may not have a serious pollution problem according to Village Pres. Jack Pahl, but residents are still concerned.

A number of them are meeting today to discuss the problem both locally and nationally at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the Grantwood School Parent Teachers Club.

Scheduled to speak on water pollution is Mrs. Arthur Brady, water chairman of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters.

THE TOPIC of her talk is, "Water — Is it fit to drink and will there be enough of it."

The league has been studying water pollution for 10 years on a national and local level.

Mrs. Brady's talk will be preceded by a skit in which fifth grade science students will dramatize the pollution problem.

Unlike many communities with large industrial parks, Elk Grove Village does not have a serious pollution problem, according to Pahl.

Pahl said the village does not have a pollution ordinance, but is in the process of including one in a comprehensive zoning ordinance under consideration by the plan commission.

THE ORDINANCE sets forth performance standards for noise, vibration, smoke, toxic matter, odors, fire and explosion. Most complaints the village receives regarding air pollution are a result of odors emitted by Chicago Magnet Wire Corp., 901 Chase Ave.

Pahl said odors from the plant are detectable only 12 times a year.

There are some polluters outside the village, Pahl said, but the village does not have control over them.

A major source of pollution in the area, according to Pahl, is from jet aircraft using O'Hare International Airport.

Pahl predicted there will be a dramatic decrease in pollution from jet aircraft when pollution control devices are put on planes.

PAHL SAID THAT if a statement Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott made is true, "one jet contributes as much pollution as 10,000 cars" the airline sare the biggest polluters of our air.

Cars remain a big polluter, said Pahl, pointing out that more motorists should use public transportation instead of their cars when commuting.

Female (Dog) Lost; Wants to Go Home

Help wanted: a friendly, four-month-old female collie is lost and can't find her way home.

The collie, who answers to practically any name you call her, found a place to come in out of the cold last weekend, but she is still looking for her owners.

Mrs. Leah Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, told the Herald she found the pooch wandering around outside and took her in to get warm. Since then she has been trying to locate the dog's owner, but so far has not had any luck.

The dog is black with a tan face and paws and white under the neck and on her chest.

"It's a terribly playful dog and I'm sure someone must miss it," she said.

Anyone who has lost a dog answering this description may contact Mrs. Cummins at 439-1066.

"PHEW! THAT STUFF's terrible," appears to be what this pair of fifth grade students are saying about water pollution. The students, from Grant Wood School in Elk Grove Village, were rehearsing a skit for today's 8 p.m. talk on water pollution by Mrs. Arthur Brady of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters at the school.

Carl Hansen Attends First Meeting — Gets A Surprise

Mount Prospect's Carl Hansen attended his first Cook County board meeting as a commissioner Monday, and to his surprise, got his name on more legislation than any other board member.

To the uninitiated, the speed at which the county board conducts its business keeps a person wondering, where on the agenda, the board is. The only time to catch up is when commissioners take the president's chair to conduct committee meetings.

It is also common for the committee chairman to make and second the motions needed, giving credit for the motion to a commissioner of one party and the motion's second to a commissioner of the other party.

THUS, WHEN Commissioner Charles Bonk, Public Service committee chairman, said "seconded by Hansen" in rapid-fire delivery Monday, the new commissioner looked up startled. Hansen turned to fellow Republican Floyd Fulle as if to ask what had happened.

Noticing Hansen's reaction, Bonk grinned and Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne smiled broadly. Hansen's name was used twice again by then, Hansen was grinning.

After the "initiation" meeting, Dunne, on vacation Friday when Hansen was sworn in, came over to shake the new commissioner's hand.

Robert Kopinski Is In Iceland

Radioman 3.C. Robert J. Kopinski, a native of Hanover Park, has been transferred from Naval Air Facility Detroit to the Naval Air Station at Kfllivick, Iceland.

P.O. Kopinski graduated from Naval boot camp at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, in March of 1967. In August he graduated from Class "A" Radioman's School in Bainbridge, Md.

Since September of 1967 he was stationed aboard Naval Air Station, Grosse Ile, Mich. as a part of the stations communications division. His duties at NAS Kfllivick will also be in the communications division.

A 1966 graduate of James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Kopinski, 1240 Westchester Drive, Hanover Park.

Madrigal Singer

The 16-voice Northern Illinois University Madrigal Singers were featured during the seven evenings of the six annual Madrigal Dinners during December.

Robert G. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Hughes of 513 Hawthorn, Hoffman Estates, is a member of the group which performed during the traditional holiday event.

Hughes, a senior, is a 1966 graduate of J.G. Conant High School.

Spaulding Initiated

Joseph D. Spaulding of 178 Evanston, Hoffman Estates, has been initiated into the Bradley University chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society.

Phi Kappa Phi is established to promote and recognize scholarship in all fields of study. Members are selected from all schools and colleges of the university.

Spaulding is a graduate student at Bradley.

Palette: Very Interesting!

Did you know that one out of every five Americans is overweight? Or that the average car burns its weight in gas every year?

These facts are some of the random statistics cited by Dist. 54 mathematics consultant Carl Seltzer in an article entitled "Would You Believe?" published in the February issue of The Palette, a Dist. 54 curriculum magazine. The magazine features articles about reading, mathematics, art, and creative writing.

In addition to Seltzer's article about random statistics, the February issue of The Palette contains an article on the teaching of poetry in elementary school by Frank Tavano, Thomas Dooley principal; an article on reading by Mrs. Eileen Little, Dist. 54 reading consultant, and some sample art projects.

THE DIST. 54 curriculum magazine is published for principals and teachers in the school district.

Among the suggestions given by Mrs. Little for ways that parents can help children with reading:

- Read to your child.
- Take him on trips, even short walking trips in the local community.
- Build up a pleasant reading atmosphere at home.
- Encourage visits to the public library.
- Teach your child to care for books.
- Buy good games, books and puzzles for children when gifts are in order.
- Talk to your child. Share ideas and thoughts together.
- Make a collection of children's stories clipped from magazines.
- Praise your child.
- Listen to your child. Encourage the child to share conversation with you.
- Provide for the child's good, physical well-being. A child who does not feel well cannot perform at his best level.
- Help your child to develop responsibility. Give him tasks of which you expect completion, according to his ability.
- Assist the child in maintaining good school attendance. Every day a child is absent, says Mrs. Little, something new and important takes place in school.

- HELP THE CHILD to establish regular study times in a quiet atmosphere.
- Guide the child's selection of books, movies and television programs.
- Accept your child as he is. Don't expect more of him than he is able to give you. Likewise, let the child know what you expect of him and how he can fulfill this.
- Show a real interest in your child and his school work.

CHIEF LLOYD Abrahamsen . . . full-time fire fighter.

He Looked Like Fireman ...And Decided to be One

by PAT GERLACH

A suggestion casually offered by a good friend more than 25 years ago caused young Lloyd Abrahamsen to investigate the possibilities of a career that subsequently led to his recent appointment as Schaumburg's first full-time fire chief.

Back in 1944, Abrahamsen, then a postal clerk, happened one day to be discussing the future with a boyhood friend who proposed the idea of his becoming a fireman.

"Now, why would I want to do a thing like that, John," Abrahamsen, the father of two small sons, asked his chum.

"Well, Lloyd, because you look like a fireman," his friend John replied.

"ACTUALLY, AT THE time I was pretty satisfied at the post office, but being young and curious, I took the examination for fireman a short time later and passed," Abrahamsen recalled during a recent conversation with The Herald.

"That did it! Soon after I joined the Chicago Fire Department and have worked in stations nearly all over the city in the last 26 years," he explained.

Fondness for playing golf was also a factor in Abrahamsen's decision to become a fireman, he confided.

"As a young man I just never had enough time to play and I knew that firemen often worked a couple or three shifts at one time so they had a day or so free. "It seemed perfect," he chuckled, noting also that after he became a fireman he never used the free time for golf.

He was promoted to captain in 1956, and just prior to coming to Schaumburg Jan. 1, served in District 18, headquartered at Roosevelt Road and May Street in Chicago.

DISTRICT 18, which serves a ghetto neighborhood, responds to more than 1,800 fire calls each year making it one of Chicago's busiest fire stations.

He considers Schaumburg "a tremendous community with building plans that are just unbelievable" and is anxious to move to the village.

Abrahamsen, a native of Chicago's Northwest side, and his wife, Dorcas, have lived in Lombard for the past five years but plan to relocate in Schaumburg as soon as they sell their present home and are able to make the move.

Regarding his decision to come to Schaumburg, Abrahamsen explained he had heard the village was looking for a full-time chief and decided to apply. He was chosen from a field of 286 applicants.

"I consider myself certainly fortunate to have been accepted but even more fortunate to have the kind of men we have in the village fire department," he said.

HE WAS PARTICULARLY impressed with the training and performance shown by volunteer firemen and even more thrilled with their preparations for his arrival.

After they learned Abrahamsen had been hired, volunteer members of the department completed a second floor office for the chief. The work they undertook included putting in flooring and paneling.

"Friends from the city fire department have already been out here to visit me and they just can't believe what they see. I mean our men and the way they have welcomed me," he said.

Regarding departmental expansion plans, Abrahamsen feels the fire department will continue to grow along with the village.

A second station planned for construction near Woodfield Shopping Center will not be built just to service the huge commercial area but rather to satisfy the needs of the whole community, Abrahamsen emphasized.

HE IS PRESENTLY working with Mayor Robert O. Atcher to arrange for a suitable site for the second station.

The Abrahamsens are parents of three children. Their 29-year-old son, a lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy, is presently stationed in California. A veteran of 94 missions, he also earned eleven medals during an earlier stint in Vietnam.

Their second son, a dentist and captain in the U.S. Air Force, is assigned to a base in Chicopee Falls, Mass.

A 21-year-old daughter who lives at home completes the Abrahamsen family.

Although, in his capacity as chief, Abrahamsen is on 24-hour call, he still finds time for an occasional round of golf and claims to shoot "somewhere between 78 and 90."

HE ALSO ADMITS to being an avid sports fan concentrating his off golf times on the Bears and Cubs. "Are there really any other teams?" he asked.

Abrahamsen also likes to fish especially in the colder waters of Michigan's upper peninsula.

Asked if he would choose the same career had he to do it over again, Chief Abrahamsen replied "You had better believe it. For me, there would be just no other way."

Decision Friday Whether Board Violated Law

by TOM WELLMAN

The Cook County state's attorney's office will hold an informal hearing Friday to determine if High School Dist. 214 board members and officials should be charged with violating the Illinois Open Meeting Law.

Dan Miroballi, an assistant state's attorney, said he was acting on an oral complaint filed by Mrs. Lynne Heidt, 6 Marberry St. in Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Heidt asserted that the Dist. 214 school board, which met last Monday night, violated a portion of the Illinois Open Meeting Law during a portion of the closed meeting.

Miroballi said the hearing was called to determine whether or not to prosecute officials and board members in the district. He explained that hearings such as this are set up to screen and investigate complaints.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the district said Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent, would cooperate with the state's attorney's office. He explained that letters have been sent to board members and Dr. Gilbert by the state's attorney's office.

Arthur Aronson, board president, said he was surprised by the news of the state's attorney's action. He said he had not received any notification from the state's attorney's office of the action.

The hearing, closed to the press, is set for 10 a.m. in Chicago.

The closed session which is the basis for the informal complaint began at about 12:50 a.m. last Tuesday morning after the board had been in open session for almost five hours.

A personnel matter was discussed in the first portion of the closed session. After that, however, the board members, with several administrators from the district present, continued an earlier discussion of admission of groups to Dist. 214 facilities and the district's insurance coverage. Aronson said later no action was reached in the meeting.

THE CLOSED MEETING discussion followed an occasionally heated discussion of using Dist. 214 facilities for showing films such as "Year of the Pig," an anti-war documentary on the Vietnam War.

Board member Frank Bergen at the beginning of the discussion in the open meeting criticized the showing of the film and asked about the district's insurance coverage in case of a confrontation.

The film was shown in several Dist. 214 high schools in mid-January, as well as at Harper College and at several churches.

The Open Meeting Act allows only five kinds of meetings that can be closed to the press and public: discussion of acquisition of real estate, collective bargaining negotiations, discussion of pending court action, discussion of hiring or firing an employee or discussion of a student discipline matter.

THE ACT IS BACKED up by criminal penalties of a fine of up to $100, thirty days in jail, or both for each violation. The court is also empowered to issue civil writs of mandamus requiring improperly closed meetings or meetings held without proper notice be opened and proper notice given.

After Mrs. Heidt filed her informal complaint with the state's attorney's office, a second woman, Mrs. Richard Claves, 203 N. Parkway in Prospect Heights, attempted to file a formal complaint with the same office.

However, she was told by a spokesman for the office that Mrs. Heidt's informal complaint had already been filed and a formal complaint would not be permitted. Mrs. Claves said yesterday that she had contacted at least one state legislator and planned to try to contact State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan about filing a complaint.

Mrs. Claves told the Herald that she wanted stronger action than a hearing merely to determine whether or not to file charges.

Homes Pickets Slated

More pickets are planned for this weekend at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

SATURDAY'S DECISION followed several months of discussions among the school district, Levitt representatives, and occasionally village officials, over the lack of a sufficient number of school sites in Buffalo Grove's Lake County portion.

Almost all of the village's Lake County portion is taken up with Levitt's Strathmore development. The Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove is included in Dist.

96. That district's lone facility, Kildeer Countryside School, is located in Long Grove.

The land which the school district wants is located in the northwestern portion of the village on Arlington Heights Road, south of Highway 83.

The school district had offered to pay Levitt for the land at the price of $3,000 an acre. Levitt officials, however, said they were "dismayed" at the offer.

LAST FRIDAY, Levitt offered to sell the district either one of two 10-acre sites in the area, according to Mrs. Adeline Geokaris, the school district attorney, the price for the 10 acres would have been about $255,000. That offer was termed "obviously ridiculous" by Arthur Edmunds, school district president.

Following the board's decision Saturday to file the condemnation suit, the SHA decided to go ahead with a plan formulated earlier last week to picket and hand out leaflets at Levitt's model homes site.

According to Mrs. Alltop, "The (week-end) picketing will be continuous until negotiations between Levitt and the school board start again."

SHE SAID THAT, in all, about 25 persons picketed last Sunday. Pickets were set up in shifts, with each "shift" working for an hour. She said that "We're working with about 150 people, in all, next week-end."

Of the picketing, Mrs. Alltop said, "We think it will influence the situation. It might take a week or two to get the idea across, but we feel it is one of the ways we can help."

Education Day Set For School District

Friday afternoon has been designated as an in-service education day for elementary schools during which parent-teacher conferences will be held in Elgin School Dist. U46.

While elementary students will attend only three hours of classes in the morning, junior and senior high schools will be in session all day.

Two half-days will be used this month for elementary parent-teacher conferences. The second is scheduled for Feb. 25.

State regulations regarding in-service activities require that elementary school children must be in class for three hours on these days.

THE DISMISSAL time in each school will vary, says Harry Michelson, U46 director of elementary education.

"If an elementary school, including special education classes, starts at 8:30 a.m., they would dismiss at 11:30 a.m., even though the normal morning session would usually end at 11:15 a.m.," Michelson explained.

All first through 6th grade students within an individual building will be dismissed at the same time.

All first session kindergarten children will be dismissed at their regular time. Middle and afternoon sessions of kindergarten will not meet.

Letters notifying parents of dismissal times have been sent home by the schools.

were there Sunday because of a dispute between Levitt and Lake County School Dist. 96 over the lack of school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove.

Jazz Workshop At Elk Grove High

A jazz band workshop jointly sponsored by the state Department of Public Instruction and the University of Illinois music extension division will be conducted at Elk Grove High School today.

Three members of the University of Illinois group — Howie Smith, alto sax; James Ferrantino, trumpet, and Charles Braughman, percussion, will be working with the Elk Grove High School jazz band.

The workshop will be an open assembly during the lunch period to enable the students to observe the jazz musicians, said George Ergang, high school publicity chairman.

Another workshop is also planned for March 18.

The band, led by Douglas Peterson and L. Wendell King, is participating in a jazz festival in Oak Lawn Feb. 7 and at Millikin University Feb. 14. At Millikin they will be seeking to defend their title where they won first place last year, Ergang said.

Consider Hiring of Teen Aid

The hiring of a YMCA detached services representative to work with young men in need of help is being considered by the Schaumburg Village Board.

Working through a youth development commission, the YMCA representative's job would be to work with delinquent juveniles, "funding the good in these boys and working for them," Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

The youth worker's salary would be paid for by the village, though the person hired would be trained and made available by the YMCA.

Atcher said the village is including a $20,000 item in the 1970 appropriation for this purpose. This does not commit the village to spend that amount or to hire the youth worker, but does open the door for considering it.

"We will investigate this to see if it would be of value to the community," Atcher said.

The YMCA worker would work through a municipal youth development commission. "We don't want this to be a police function," Atcher said. This is also separate from the township youth commission.

The mayor said by spring the village will have determined whether or not to fill the position.

Atcher said the YMCA will make a presentation on the program to village trustees soon. If trustees consider the program worthwhile, prospective youth workers will be interviewed and a full-time person hired to activate the program, Atcher said.

Dist. 214 Group To Name Leaders

The committee of 75 persons from High School Dist. 214 to study an extended school year will meet for the first time at 8 p.m. today in Room 124-C at John Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Street in Arlington Heights.

The committee, which has been guided by a twelve man steering committee, will act to approve Richard Bachhuber as chairman, George Ergang as vice chairman and Dr. Roderick McLennan as secretary.

Bachhuber is a Dist. 214 board member, Ergang is a teacher at Elk Grove High School and McLennan is assistant superintendent in the district. Other names can be nominated from the floor tonight.

ALSO, AT least nine subcommittees may be formed tonight. The steering committee selected nine topics of potential interest for various subcommittees.

The committee of 75 is composed of two board members, 15 administrators, 18 teachers, 28 citizens and 12 students from the six high schools in the district.

Late last year, ten representatives from the district traveled to Atlanta, Georgia, to examine that city's four-quarter school system. After issuing an evaluation of the trip, it was agreed that further study was warranted.

A year and a half ago, a citizens' committee was convened to study, among other items, the rising enrollment in the district. That committee agreed that what was necessary immediately was a seventh high school, in Rolling Meadows.

Out of that committee came a subcommittee which studied the year-round school year. Two of its members traveled to Atlanta and several members of that committee will serve on the new committee of 75 persons.

Sextet Prepares February's Tune

February is music month for the six high schools in High School Dist. 214.

On Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. in Arlington High School, 502 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights, the district will present a district-wide concert featuring a 400 voice mixed chorus and an 80-piece orchestra.

Then, on Feb. 28, at Wheeling High School, 900 S. Elmhurst Road in Wheeling, the district will present an all-district band concert. Both concerts will be conducted by outside conductors.

The Arlington concert, which will be preceded by a district director's dinner in the Carousel restaurant, will feature orchestral conductor Thomas Wisniewski and vocal conductor Clayton Krehbiel.

KREHBIEL, who teaches at Kent State University in Kent, Ohio, is choral director for the famed Cleveland Symphony Orchestra. He succeeded Robert Shaw as choral director.

The concert will feature a mixed chorus of over 400 boys and girls, as well as a girl's chorus of over 300 voices. An all-district orchestra of 80 pieces will also perform.

Both conductors will arrive on Sunday, the day before the concert. The choral groups and orchestras have been rehearsing several weeks for the performance, so Krehbiel and Wisniewski will greet them after extensive preparations.

The High School Dist. 214 board, which normally holds its board meetings at 8 p.m. on every other Monday night in Mount Prospect, will meet at 7 p.m. on Monday at Arlington High School.

THE PROGRAM will feature musical numbers by Brahms, Dvorak, Nellybel and Schubert's "Mass in G." Mrs. Thomas Green of Mount Prospect will provide accompaniment on the harp.

Students who purchase advance tickets to the program will be charged 50 cents. Tickets may also be purchased at the door for $1.

The concert at Wheeling High School will feature two guest conductors, William Ravelli of the University of Michigan and Daniel Perrino of the University of Illinois.

The orchestra, which will perform for the two conductors, will begin rehearsing today. It is composed entirely of Dist. 214 students.

"UNCLE, UNCLE!" cries Riff (Tom Hoeg of Mount Prospect) to Tony (Larry Quinnett of Des Plaines) in a scene from the St. Viator production of "West Side Story," the school's fourth musical.

West Side Story Set at St. Viator

"West Side Story" will be presented by St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, on the evenings of February 7, 8, 13, 14, 20, 21, 27, 28, and March 1, and at 2 p.m. February 12, in the school auditorium at 1213 E. Oakton.

The 65-member cast is composed of students from St. Viator and from Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows. In the past three years the two schools have produced such major plays as "Annie Get Your Gun," "Music Man," and "Carousel."

Cast as Tony are Larry Quinnett and Greg Ziomek, with Sandy Stavropoulos as Maria. Riff will be played by Tom Hoeg and Bob Quinnett. Paul Gorman will play Bernardo, the leader of a Puerto Rican street gang rivaling a gang commanded by Riff. Bernardo's girl, Anita, is played by Mary Kane.

Tickets are reserved seat, at $2.50 for evening performances and $1.50 for the matinee. Additional information is available by calling 392-4080.

The Almanac

BY United Press International
Today is Tuesday, Feb. 3 the 34th day of 1970 with 331 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter.
The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1913 the 16th Amendment, the income tax amendment, became part of the Constitution after ratification by Wyoming.

In 1917 the United States broke off diplomatic relations with Germany after that nation announced unrestricted submarine warfare.

In 1924 Woodrow Wilson died at his home in Washington.

In 1966 the Russians put an unmanned satellite on the moon. It was a soft landing.

A thought for the day: Jane Austen said "Those who do not complain are never pitted."

IF YOUR WATCH IS BEHIND THE TIMES

It's time to bring it up-to-date... tick-wise that is. Bring it to our experts for a free inspection. A thorough cleaning, a repair or two may be all that's needed to make it thoroughly modern again.

Foolproof Midriff Remover

by DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) —You there, sir, with the pudgy midriff: How would you like to go on a diet that causes you to lose weight but lets you eat as much as you like without regard to the caloric content of the food?

Sounds like a beautiful dream, eh? But it isn't.

I have discovered such a dieting method. It is absolutely devoid of menus, "do's and don'ts" and all of the other bothersome details that make dieting so exasperating.

Had I chosen to exploit this system commercially, I probably could have made a small fortune. But, pro bono publico, as they say in Brooklyn, I am making it available free of charge.

If, of course, you care to remember me in your last will and testament, I'll not object. The size of the bequest will be up to you and your conscience.

First, let me say that I am blessed with one of those sleek physiques commonly associated with novitiate matadors and flamenco dancers. Until recently, dieting and I were total strangers.

Last summer, however, I began growing a moustache which soon became such a fire hazard that I was obliged to stop smoking. In so doing I fell victim to creeping corpulence.

Finally, last month, I developed the West simplified onestep diet, and pared away the pounds as if by magic. If it works for me, it should work for you. Here is what you do:

Merely make sure that every meal you are served consists entirely of dishes that you despise.

I realize that there are a few people, human garbage disposals, who will eat anything. This diet will do them no good. But most of us have at least a few dishes that we genuinely detest.

If they are placed before you each time you sit down at the dinner table, you will soon be only a shadow of your former self.

I, for example, abhor any kind of casserole; I can't abide chicken in any form; and my appetite is always turned off by brains and eggs.

So every day during the dieting period I usually had brains and eggs for breakfast, chicken for lunch and casserole for dinner. Occasionally, for variety, I might order a vegetable plate, which I also find repugnant.

Although hunger might drive me to try a few bites, never once did I dine with relish. Consequently my food intake was far below normal. In just one week I trimmed an inch off my waistline and I now have the skinniest taste buds in town.

Late Registration Planned at Harper

There's still time to register for the winter-spring semester at Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle Roads in Palatine.

Late registration will be conducted from 1 to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday of this week in the College Center. Late phone registration will be available on Friday through the admissions office at 359-4200.

Registration is open for full-time, evening, and adult education courses.

Civil Service Exams Given On Thursdays

Illinois state civil service examinations for persons seeking employment at Elgin State Hospital are given on the first and third Thursdays of each month in the administration building beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Formerly applicants had to take exams in Chicago. The "on-the-spot" tests will be more convenient for people seeking state employment.

Examinations are given to candidates for positions that are available within the facility. A hospital spokesman suggested that applicants contact the hospital's personnel department before the examination date.

The Way We See It

Start Caring

Pollution is everyone's problem, but who wants to face it?

It just seems too big, too enormous and complicated, for any of us individually to do anything about it. We can't touch it in our small way, so the fight must be entrusted to government and industry.

That — our surrender in the face of it — is precisely one of the reasons why we're losing the battle. It can't be pushed off from one of us to the other, any more than government and industry can flip it back and forth between each other.

One Palatine group dedicated to doing something about pollution came face to face with that reality last week.

The group, Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP), scheduled a session to plan a series of public education seminars on the threat. PEP invited 64 Palatine area community organizations to attend and pledge support. Twelve showed up.

The indication from many of the groups was that they'd be willing to help out once a more definite direction was mapped out for PEP, and presumably once PEP got things rolling. But until then, no thanks.

The response was disappointing enough that Mrs. Clayton Brown, co-chairman of PEP, admitted there may not be much point in continuing the local effort after the first seminar, scheduled for Feb. 26.

The inaction by the local organizations goes exactly contrary to what PEP hopes to accomplish: to get people and groups organized, to educate them on the dangers of pollution and what each person can do individually, to chart a direction, to get something done, even in a small way.

What should be reassuring to PEP is that some 20 other citizens — without invitations — did show up for the planning meeting. They were spurred only by publicity about the meeting, and their concern that they must have some role to play to make the fight their own.

Their concern had to be much like that of Mrs. Clarence Quain, the Palatine housewife who launched PEP because she had already heard too much about pollution, and recognized its control was everyone's responsibility.

It is the Mrs. Quains of this country who can't be let down — not by the President or any federal agency, not by any local government, not by any industry, not by any of us.

There are more and more Mrs. Quains, as proved by the spontaneous turnout in Palatine last week.

They share two traits: all of them have heard enough to know the danger is real, and all of them are desperate for some leadership, something solid to which they can harness their concern and put it to use.

They can't be left to feel that it's too big for them, or a tremendous national reservoir of caring will go to waste.

That is why PEP must work, and must inspire similar groups all through these suburbs and across the nation. If it fails, and other groups like it fail, the fight against pollution will suffer one of its most profound setbacks, and we can all chip the epitaph that we didn't care enough.

Leaf Disposal: A Burning Issue?

by MARTHA KOPER
I wonder if fall, 1970, will be the same in Palatine without the seasonal fragrance of burning leaves.

Imagine, some children may never know what it's like to help mom and dad gather leaves into a big bunch and eagerly wait for the match to be struck.

But then, some children might not be able to live long lives, if village officials hadn't finally decided to adopt an ordinance prohibiting burning.

The board's recent action is a step in the right direction and amazingly hasn't yet drawn either criticism or praise from the general public.

MAYBE PALATINE'S population doesn't know that leaves must be packed into bags or boxes and hauled away. But it's certain that village officials will hear some kind of reply next October when homeowners are cited for having a bonfire in their yards.

And there probably will be some people uninformed enough to complain. They will think of all sorts of good reasons for allowing open burning in the village, and even with the increasing threat of polluted air, they will insist open burning be allowed.

Officials in Palatine only deserve praise for their first formal action designed to help clear the air. They have set the pace for the rest of the suburbs. Only a few places in the entire country so far have outlawed burning.

But there's a lot more to be done. The absence of burning leaves during only one season of the year won't solve the problem of pollution.

WHILE EXPERTS are telling the average citizen there's much he can do to thwart the dangers of poisonous air, government officials are believing them.

With the power entrusted to them of doing what's best for the population, local governing bodies could be much more effective with their authority.

But most suburbs still are allowing the spraying of pesticides throughout the communities. Anti-pollution devices on autos required by federal law in 1968 are not checked by local police. Dumping in Salt Creek is still going on.

Admittedly, some of the pollution contributors cannot be controlled by local governing bodies alone, but someone must take the initiative. If state and federal groups are not willing to take on the responsibility, then local governments could get the ball rolling.

IF NOTHING ELSE, local government can make its citizens aware of the pollution problem. If they do not show concern, why should the complacent homeowners get excited?

While eliminating a long-time contributor to pollution with the prohibition of one of autumn's favorite pastimes, Palatine's village board has also found a way to wake up its constituents.

If people complain, they will quickly learn that stopping outdoor fires is not just a whim of village officials. It's the first in a long line of changes in our living which must take place during this decade, if there are going to be enough people still around to collect Social Security benefits.

New Man In a Big Role

The superintendent of schools has always had a special place in Dist. 59, the elementary school system that sprawls across Elk Grove Village, southern Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights and unincorporated areas in Elk Grove Township.

A special relationship has existed between the superintendent and parents and the community at large. This is partly because the school district as a whole occupies a special place in Dist. 59. But it is also because the superintendent has been a specially effective leader throughout the suburban history of the district. He has provided direction and administration, acting as a catalyst for a positive school-community relationship.

Three particularly strong, foresighted men have been given responsibility for administering and inspiring the Dist. 59 community since suburbanization began. Ernest L. Cavallo served from 1953 to 1960; Roger Bardwell from 1960 to 1966; and retiring Supt. Donald Thomas from 1966 to the present.

Under their guidance, the district has met the challenges of its growth and has built a reputation for leadership in educational matters.

A new name has now been added to the roster of recent superintendents. He is James Erviti, hired last week by the Dist. 59 governing board to fill the superintendent's job when Dr. Thomas leaves this summer.

The board acted after more than six months of candidate interviews. The man they picked has a firm base on which to build his future with Dist. 59.

Erviti is currently superintendent of schools in East Williston, Long Island, N. Y. He received his doctorate degree in school administration in 1952, has taught school administration for New York University, has been a research associate in the New York State Education Department. Later he was a junior high principal and chief school officer in Smithtown, N.Y.

A superintendent for the past 10 years, Erviti, who is 47, has served on several advisory and research councils on education. We welcome the new superintendent to this district; the board of education appears to have made a fine choice. We know he will find the professional challenge rewarding and stimulating.

With One Stroke of the Typewriter...

by JAMES VESELY
Members of Elk Grove Township's Regular Republican organization had a surprise sent to them in the mail last week.

It was the notice of the annual election of officers and the proposed slate of men and women who would guide the township organization through the coming year. And at the very top of the list, under the listing of the office of president, someone scratched out the name of Richard Hall and added Bernie Lee.

Thus, in the stroke of a typewriter, Hall was out of the office and Lee was in.

BOTH MEN HAVE long service with the Elk Grove Township Republicans. Both are township auditors and both ran on the same ticket last spring when the Republican organization swept into elected office in township government.

It is easy to place political interpretations on that sudden thrust of a typewriter key. Elk Grove Township politics being what they are, the automatic assumption is that something happened that displeased Republican Committeeman Carl Hansen.

For what it's worth, the story currently being circulated is this: Dick Hall had agreed to take on the job of president of the Republican organization. Part of that agreement was that the office of president would have greater autonomy than it now possesses.

IF YOU KNOW Hall, you would believe that he would want to take the job under those conditions. He has an exterior that you can grind diamonds on and he has political ambitions.

Hansen, so the story goes, didn't see the office of president of the township organization the way Hall did. Hall got angry and said he would drop out. Hansen asked Dave Regner to intervene but apparently it was too late. Hall backed out of the job and Bernie Lee, one of the most dedicated party workers, agreed to step into the job at the last minute.

One source for this story feels that Dick Hall has enough following in the township to take on Hansen for control of the organization.

That seems hard to believe. Hansen is the newest Cook County board member and thus can be an extremely powerful figure in local politics.

You can bet that the office of president of the township organization will not be an autonomous one this year.

Hawks Win in Overtime

P-R-A-Y Strategy Works for Harper

by RON DUENN

"I thought I was going to die a thousand deaths."

So said John Gelch, coach of the Harper College basketball team, after his charges fought to a 74-69 victory over the Vikings of Kendall College in overtime.

It was only the second time a Harper team has competed in an overtime in the school's brief history and the first time this year.

The Friday night victory was the second win in six days for the fast-improving Hawks. Their record now stands at 5-13.

The contest was one of the lowest scoring tilts that the Hawks have found themselves in this year as both teams were having bad luck in shooting from the floor.

Eric Schuster once again led the Hawks in scoring with his game high 16. But he had great support from the rest of the squad; three other players hit double figures. Don Duffy and Scott Sibbensen each had 12, Jim Hynes bagged 10, and Bob Spore, John Knopf, and Larry Wadzita had nine, eight, and seven respectively.

Although Kendall owned a 21-8 lead early in the first half, the Hawks dug in and slowly narrowed the gap.

Free throw shooting kept Harper in contention in the first half as the Hawks hit on 11 of 12 attempts. The host Falcons only sunk seven of 10.

Schuster drew the visitors within two, 29-27, late in the half on a shot from underneath with the aid of a fine pass from Spore. A basket by Duffy and a pair of free throws matched the output of the Vikings for the rest of the half and the score at intermission was 33-31, Kendall.

Fans may have thought they were witnessing an instant replay after the break because the second half was very similar to the first except for two things — the Vikings didn't spurt ahead and the fouls were being called with increased frequency.

Both squads were playing a slow, ball control game which didn't make the contest very exciting despite the close score. At least it wasn't exciting until the half began to come to a close.

The Hawks got the lead on a bucket by 5-9 Hynes with only a couple of minutes left. But the Vikings were quick to take it back and went ahead on two straight netters by their guard, 60-57.

Schuster put in two more on a fade away jumper only to have Kendall neutralize the effort on a shot from the corner.

Duffy then put in a charity toss and the Hawks made a key steal and called a time out with 0:55 seconds left and found themselves on the short end of a 62-60 score.

Sibbensen tied the game up with about 15 seconds remaining and the buzzer sounded with the Vikings dribbling around looking for a shot.

The Vikings got the critical first basket in the five-minute overtime period but the Hawks were not to be denied. Baskets by Sibbensen, Duffy and Schuster put Harper ahead 68-64. Then Knopf scored six more points on a field goal and four clutch gift tosses in putting the game away.

When asked if he had told his men to use any specific strategy in the overtime, Gelch's assistant coach piped up, "We just said P-R-A-Y."

Gelch was a little more specific when he said, "No we just wanted them to stick to the game plan and control the ball. I thought we were stronger than they (Kendall) were." Three Viking starters fouled out before the extension period began.

Maybe it wasn't one of Harper's best efforts, but a win is a win and the Hawks aren't fussy as to how they get them.

Scrimmage Lines

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

THE DAY IS COMING. . . perhaps later this season, maybe next season and for sure in two years. . . when area basketball coaches will be faced with the toughening dilemma of defending the growing number of taller cagers coming into the league.

In the Suburban League the coaches' problem is 7-foot tall—Bill Kosick of New Trier East. In the Central Suburban his name is Mark Cartwright who is Niles West's 6-10 center. These towering youths are the ones who cause many sleepless nights for opposing coaches.

And those sleepless nights are coming for Mid-Suburban League coaches.

At Wheeling there is a sophomore named Roger Wood who is 6-10. At Hersey sophomore Andy Paucratz stands 6-3. At Arlington the 6-7 junior is named Bill Kieck.

Each of these young men is still growing — not only in the physical capacity but also in maturity and basketball savvy. The day is coming when opposing basketball coaches in the area will have to find ways to stop this trio from dominating the entire league.

Each of these young men has a long way to go and needs plenty of practice before he can possibly control the tempo of a game. But each is getting the experience, each is getting the practice and each is progressing ahead of schedule. Wood, for instance, has scored 31 points in one game. Paucratz already leads the MSL in rebounding and had 25 points Friday. In one game Kieck had 28 points, 15 rebounds, four steals and four blocked shots.

Most teams in the MSL do not have a player over 6-4. Many schools do not have a player over 6-4 in the entire basketball program. So how can these schools possibly have a chance of beating teams with such superior height?

A standard man-to-man defense is out of the question if a team does not have height to match a 6-10 opponent. If the team does have a 6-2 or 6-3 boy who can jump "way up there," perhaps a man-to-man defense can be used. But if the team does not have the extraordinary jumper, then the opposing Big Center can easily shoot from close range over his shorter foes.

It has been suggested that a team should just ignore the opposing Big Center, if that is at all possible, and concentrate on Big Center's teammates. In other words, use the full-court press, hound the player with the ball, try to force turnovers and just hope and pray the opposing guards can not get the ball into the Big Center.

But many coaches would rather use something more practical than sitting quietly on the bench and hoping and praying. . . though hoping and praying always helps in any case.

Bill Stlayton, head basketball coach at Prospect, logically says, "You must defend the big kids before they get the ball. You must keep a hand or hands in front of them so that their guards can't get the ball inside to the big kid. With the size we have (no player over 6-4) we'd get killed if we let the big kid get the ball inside."

Arlington cage coach George Zigman, who enjoys having Kieck on his side, notes, "In this league if the big kid is within six or seven feet of the basket, he is going to score. He is going to score and there isn't much you can do about it."

How, then, do you keep the skyscraping centers from getting the ball when they are close to the basket?

The answer, naturally enough, is concentrate on Big Center without giving Big Center's teammates the very easy shot in the meantime.

Some coaches advocate a modified man-to-man defense—having the man farthest from the ball move over and help in guarding Big Center. For instance, if the ball is on the right hand side of the court, the defensive forward on the left side of the court would move over behind Big Center and the defensive center would be in front of Big Center (see left diagram below).

If the ball is near the baseline on the left side of the court, the defensive forward on the right side would move in behind Big Center. Therefore, the defensive center would be in front of Big Center all of the time. . . hopefully to keep Big Center from getting the ball. . . and there would always be a forward behind Big Center.

The flaw in this defense would be that the man the forward would usually be covering would always be open. If the team with Big Center could whip the ball quick enough to the uncovered forward, that forward would always have a good percentage shot.

One theory has the smaller team always keeping the same two boys covering Big Center. That team would put its tallest man in front of Big Center and its best jumper behind Big Center. The remaining three players would play zone defense (see right diagram below).

With two players covering Big Center, however, one of Big Center's teammates will be open for the percentage shot if the offense is patient enough to wait for one of their teammates to get open.

Though the modified man-to-man and the modified zone allows Big Center's teammates to have easier shots, many coaches will take their chances with these defenses. The coaches feel that if Big Center gets the good percentage shot, he is going to make it more often than not. But if Big Center's forward or guard gets the percentage shot, he has just a 50-50 chance to make it.

Coaches would rather let the opposing guard take the 50-50 chance shot than have Big Center take the shot from close range which he can make 60 or 70 per cent of the time.

No matter what, though, while the tall centers may have trouble sleeping in beds which are made for people much smaller, they will still sleep better than the coaches who must find a way to defend these young giants on Friday night.

What A Conference!

Card Gymnasts Hit 135.9

It has been said by many high school gymnastics observers that this is the year that somebody else besides Arlington will win the state title this season.

Cardinal Park High School of St. Louis, Mo., won the state title with a 135.9.

The Cardinals, scoring their best of the season, nipped the Grenadiers, 135.9 to 133.92.

It was a close meet all the way with each team nabbing three first place finishes.

Steve Von Ebers, the defending state champion, took first in free floor exercise with an 8.8 for Arlington. Cardinal Pat Brousseau matched Von Ebers' 8.8 score while winning on the side horse. John Boylan, who also took all around honors, won on the parallel bars with a 7.45.

Benny Fernandez, who had three second place finishes in the meet, was first for Elk Grove on the still rings with an 8.55. Dave Swenson won on the horizontal bar with a 7.9 and Al Mitsos was first on the trampoline with an 8.2.

The Grenadiers dominated the second place finishes with Fernandez getting a trio —on the horizontal bar, the parallel bars and in all-around. Wayne Olson was second for the Grenadiers on the side horse, and Jim Malmehall was second on the stillings.

John Isaacs took runner-up honors in free floor exercise for Arlington.

SOME COACHES advocate a modified man-to-man defense against the area's tall centers. It would have the defensive forward farthest from the ball move over and help out in guarding the big boy. Large 'X' denotes tall center.

A DEFENSE WITH two players constantly covering the big center leaves at least one player open for the good percentage. But most coaches feel that this is a gamble worth taking. Large 'X' denotes tall center.

While Hersey Sparkles With 136.34

Hersey came up with six different winners across the board and swept the top three places on each occasion enroute to a 136.34 to 78.71 triumph over visiting Wheeling in conference gymnastics action Thursday.

With Huskie all around standout Gary Morava still limited by a shoulder injury, host coach Dom Von Ebers supplemented his lineup with a few new faces and Hersey responded by capturing their sixth straight top meet without a loss this season. It was the fifth setback absorbed in half a dozen circuit outings for Wayne Selvig's 'Cats.

Morava stillhindered a pair of events and managed to collect one blue ribbon Thursday but it was the handiwork of junior all around Jeff Farris and versatile veteran Lance Boyett proving instrumental in Hersey's fourth 130-plus MSL outburst this winter.

Morava still entered a pair of events and Ron Rebnann for high honors on the free exercise mats, 8.0 to 7.95 while Farris annexed a first, a second, two thirds and domination of the all around with a 6.74 tempo. Boyett, meanwhile, hit nice routines on the high bar, parallel bars and still rings and garnered runnerup laurels on each occasion.

Boyett finished second to Farris on the horizontal bar, hitting a 6.7 to 7.15 for the winner. On the p-bars he came up with a nice 7.75 showing but was overshadowed by Todd Klehr's 7.8 demonstration and on the rings it was mate Wayne Sjogren recording a 7.85 to outdo his 6.7 display.

Morava came up with a big break in his usually strong trampoline exercise and settled for third while John Weaver was winning for the hosts at 8.0 and Doug Hartl was snaring second at 6.95.

Hersey also got nice showings from a couple of less experienced performers. Bill Everts threw a 6.25 good for third in the rings and Scott Hudson hit a 6.35 on the parallel bars while Tim Seleski was awarded a 4.5 on the side horse.

Wheeling's best efforts were buried under the powerful Hersey display. Steve Holthaus came up with a 6.5 tempo in free exercise and had to settle for fourth. Rene Mathis hit a 6.3 on the p-bars and could get no better than fifth and his 5.15 on the rings was worth only a sixth.

Rick Bieg came up with a 5.8 on the rings and only took a fourth and John Fisher was similarly rewarded for a 5.35 demonstration on the tramp.

Wheeling's frosh-soph unit kept rolling however. The 'Cat fledglings dumped the hosts 63.6 to 52.1 for their sixth MSL triumph in a row.

May Free Court Backlogs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark is forecasting a cure in the 1970's for a major ailment of the federal judiciary—clogged court dockets.

By using the computer and modernized procedures, he says, cases will be tried, appealed and finally decided in record time.

"I rather think we are going to get things in pretty good shape," he told UPI. Clark, who retired in 1967 so that his son, Ramsey, could become U.S. attorney general, is in a position to make predictions. He directs the Federal Judicial Center, an agency for reforming the federal judiciary and updating its time-worn machinery.

Pending federal civil actions reached a new high of 86,321 as of July 1, 1969, and the criminal case load hit 17,770. Because of the time lag between filing and trial, Congress and the state legislatures have been bombarded in recent years with pleas for more judges.

Clark says these cries for help will no longer be heard when modern methods suggested by the center go into operation.

As an example, he predicted that the calendar in the District of Columbia will be current by July 1.

Before the tall, graying Texan took over the job, he had recognized the need for using up-to-date business techniques to deal with the huge backlogs of untried federal cases. So the center had Autonetics, Inc., make surveys of five U.S. district courts and five appeals courts.

Autonetics is a subsidiary of North American Rockwell Co., which produced some of the hardware for the moon shots. The company made suggestions and Clark and his staff are adding their own expertise and imagination.

A test computer program has been going six months in New Orleans to completely reorganize the clerk's office there. The computer records the work of the judge, the clerk, probation officer, U.S. attorney, marshal and referee in bankruptcy—consolidating all. The result is a system which shows the judge the exact status of any case.

Clark believes the same system can work in New York, San Francisco, Chicago and other large jurisdictions.

'Ugly Fish' Supply Russian's Caviar

by EDWARD SHIELDS

MOSCOW (UPI)—The sturgeon is an ugly fish, but the Russians call it "beautiful."

The sturgeon was out to lunch some million years ago when the rest of the fish were streamlined. It still has a prehistoric shovel nose, ridged back and armor-plate scales.

A female Beluga sturgeon can live to be 100 and tip the scales at one ton. She can also produce 50 to 100 pounds of caviar. And that's why the Russians call the sturgeon "the beautiful fish."

It's the purity that matters for sturgeon these days. Not personal purity but that relating to pollution. And nothing has given environmental control a bigger boost in the Soviet Union than a 100 per cent hike in the price of sturgeon egg caviar—now about $23.50 a pound.

Sturgeon are finicky. They live and grow only in the Caspian Sea, but they spawn only in the Volga and freshwater rivers which drain into it. Hydropower dams and industrial pollution in the Volga have cut into the population of sturgeon.

The high prices caused by such scarcity have made sturgeon poaching a profitable pastime for any two men with a boat.

No Russian party worth the name is complete without a bowl of caviar, resting on ice blocks, to be folded into papertin blinis—a yeast pancake—and topped with sour cream, or to be spread on toast and lightly sprinkled with lemon.

Life-long feuds have been set off between those who favor the toast-and-lemon treatment and those in the brown bread-and-chopped onion school—helped along by large hookers of vodka, since that's the only thing to drink with caviar.

About 10 years ago the Soviets discovered that all the hydropower, industrial and irrigation schemes established along the Volga River system were working splendidly, but the sturgeon couldn't get upriver to spawn, and if they did the young—"fry"—couldn't get back down to the Caspian.

When Russians discovered what all this was doing to the caviar supply they soon began complaining that industrialization is all very well but caviar is caviar.

Steps have been taken, and I.V. Nikonorov of the Soviet Ministry of Fisheries, proclaiming this in the 1970 forecast, recalled:

"When Vladimir I. Lenin learned of rapacious fishing in the lower reaches of the Don River, he suggested the People's Commissariat of Workers and Peasants Inspection thoroughly investigate the crime and strictly punish those guilty."

With the Communist version of Holy Writ behind him, Nikonorov announced that these steps would be taken:

All 600,000 private citizens estimated to own boats would have to register them.

Fish protection societies would sue factories polluting the spawning river.

More motorboats and motorcycles would be provided for fish protection patrols.

Double the number of the present 15 sturgeon hatcheries now operating.

Nikonorov did not disclose to the public the fact that the Soviet Union already imports about 60 tons of caviar a year from Iran, with whom it shares the Caspian.

There was, however, a more disarming disclosure. The Institute of Elements-Organic Compounds in Moscow announced it had perfected an artificial caviar made of globules of albumen with vegetable oils, tea, vitamins and flavoring. It can be dried for shipping, and then prepared for use simply by the addition of water.

So, for caviar lovers everywhere, let the prayer be "beautiful fish come back."

Wheeling Bride Sews Her Gown, Veil

After Marlene Kay Kinnee of Wheeling and Douglas Craig Allen of Prospect Heights set their wedding date, the bride-to-be became a busy seamstress, creating and sewing her entire ensemble for the Dec. 27 nuptials. Marlene, daughter of the Gerald Kinnees, 1410 Marcy Lane, fashioned her gown of white peau de soie accented with Chantilly lace and to complement the picture, she made her cathedral-length illusion veil in a mantilla style, also edged with the lace.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Allen of 400 E. Olive. He is a senior at Northern Illinois University and has taken his bride there to live while he completes the year. She is working in the dean's office of the liberal arts and sciences department at the university.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows and rings at 4 in the afternoon in the Community Presbyterian Church of Wheeling. The Rev. George M. Ekstrom officiated, and the bride's cousin, Cindy Kinnee, was the candlelighter. White poinsettias at the altar and red poinsettias tied with white bows at each pew trimmed the sanctuary for the Christmas setting.

Also adding to the holiday color scheme, the bride's attendants were gowned in winter green velvet, floor-length, with white marabou accenting the neckline and sleeves. Each of the girls carried a white marabou muff trimmed with a red poinsettia and greens.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Mrs. C. Frank Schweitzer of Hoffman Estates, was matron of honor, and Renee Sutton, Prospect Heights; Judy Allen, Prospect Heights, a sister of the groom, and Karen Kinnee, the bride's cousin from Waukegan, Wis., were bridesmaids.

Candlelighter Cindy Kinnee was dressed similarly to the adult attendants, but she carried a white candle trimmed with a red poinsettia and white streamers.

As she was given in marriage by her father, the bride carried a white orchid bouquet in a cascade with ivy touches.

HER GOWN WAS A-line with a scalloped lace stand-up collar, lace accents at the wrists of long sleeves and lace inserts flowing from the empire waistline to the floor. The mantilla veil was held by a double Swedish crystal crown in a hart shape.

At the altar with the groom were his brother Jeffrey Allen of Waukegan as best man and ushers Randy Kinnee, the bride's brother; C. Frank Schweitzer, Hoffman Estates, and Richard Bourke, DeKalb.

A LIGHT BLUE BROCADE ensemble with silver accessories and a white orchid corsage were worn by the bride's mother and a pastel blue ensemble with navy accessories and a white orchid were the groom's mother's choice for the afternoon festivities.

A sitdown dinner followed at Chevy Chase Country Club for 100 guests.

A '66 graduate of Wheeling High School, the new Mrs. Allen attended Harper Junior College. The groom was graduated from Prospect High School in 1965.

The newlyweds reside at 323 Royal Drive, DeKalb.

Urges Diphtheria Immunizations

Though no diphtheria cases have been reported in suburban Cook County at a time when there is an upsurge of cases in Chicago, children who have not been properly immunized should contact their family physician.

This advice comes from Dr. John B. Hall, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health. He reported there have been no diphtheria cases reported in suburban Cook County for the past 10 years.

There is nothing to worry about for children who have been under medical care since birth and have received their shots as scheduled, Dr. Hall said.

Persons under the age of 15 are the most susceptible, he said. If communities keep their immunization status at a high level, diphtheria outbreaks can be avoided, he added.

Treat Democratic Judges to Lunch

Square dancing and judo lessons have their merits, but when the participants are cavorting practically within kicking distance of the polls, it has a tendency to be rather disconcerting to the election judges.

However, working at polls tucked behind the supermarket meat counter, competing with activities in a school gym and other such frustrations were only jokingly recalled and often forgotten as the Democratic judges of Wheeling Township lunched last Wednesday on Chicken Tiki, tossed salad and pastries plumped with calories.

THE LUNCHEON SERVED as a "thank you" to nearly 100 "unsung heroines" who were guests of the Wheeling Democratic Women's Club. They were feted in the Citation Room of Arlington Carousal.

Expressing their appreciation to the judges were Mrs. Eugenia Chapman who is seeking a fourth term as a member of the Illinois General Assembly; Mrs. Raymond Stevens, president of the club; James L. McCabe, seeking a second term as Wheeling Township Committeeman; Don Norman, Cook County Commissioner, and Dave Griffin, coordinator of the Democratic party.

WITH DISGUST written on her face, Helena Seeger (Sue Buckhalter) listens to a speech by Capt. Thibodeau (Vern Johnson). The two characters appear in Masque and Staff's production of "General Seeger," to be presented Friday and Saturday, 8:30 p.m., Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

Cards for Scholars Aids Students

Cards for Scholars, the annual scholarship fund benefit of Arlington Heights Woman's Club, will be held at the Prospect High School Cafeteria Tuesday, Feb. 10 at 7:45 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from Mrs. Martin Suder, 394-0077, or Mrs. Howard Haire, 392-2175.

This is the eighth year this event has been sponsored by the club to provide funds to supplement the scholarship fund for students attending Harper Junior College in the areas of art, music, conservation or technical fields, and to furnish financial assistance toward a college education for students of School District 214 where needed.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. John Gillen and her committee members, Mrs. Fay Hamilton, Mrs. John Flaherty, Mrs. Edward Kilfoy, Mrs. William Stout, Mrs. Martin Suder, Mrs. Frederick Laydig, Mrs. George Dutro and Mrs. John Curran.

Please 'Don't Count the Candles'

"Don't Count the Candles," a program concerning senior citizens, will be presented by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Our Saviour's United Methodist Church, 611 E. Golf Road, Hoffman Estates tomorrow evening (Wednesday) at 8.

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Which has more meat, "beef and gravy" or "gravy and beef"?

Sandra Dickson, a food and nutrition specialist for the University of Nebraska, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture requires product labels to list ingredients in order of decreasing volume by weight.

So "beef and gravy" will give more meat for a meal, while "gravy and beef" has more gravy for use in sauces and casseroles.

'Y' Pancake Day a Valentine Treat

This year's Pancake Day at Northwest Suburban YMCA coincides with Valentine Day as a special treat for sweethearts of all ages. It's a chance for the entire family to have a leisurely pancake feast at the 'Y' — whether it be for breakfast, lunch or dinner.

Serving will be continuous that Saturday (Feb. 14) from 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room. The menu includes pancakes, sausages, applesauce, coffee and milk.

PANCAKE DAY is the YMCA Women's Auxiliary's only fund-raiser each year, and all members will be working, either in the kitchen or in the dining room, to keep the flow of customers moving smoothly.

This is the eighty annual pancake party sponsored by the women. As usual, they will rely on several men from the YMCA board of directors and husbands of Auxiliary members to do the flipping. Many of the "flippers" have become experts at the griddle, doing their stint each year since the original pancake day that served nearly one thousand guests.

ENTERTAINMENT WILL be continuously provided by Wilkin's Music Center in Mount Prospect. Mr. Wilkins and several of his students will perform at the organ, and there will be a folk singer and guitarist featured.

Pancake tickets are being sold in advance by all the Auxiliary members, but they will also be available at the door. Mrs. Charles Toot of Arlington Heights is ticket chairman; Mrs. J. H. Maury and Mrs. Landon Chapman of Des Plaines are co-chairmen of the event.

Proceeds will go into the YMCA building fund. The Auxiliary has already donated $65,000 to the 'Y' since the women started the volunteer group in 1960.

Lovely Tables

For their meeting tomorrow (Wednesday) members of Palatine Posies Garden Club will view slides on table settings in the home of Mrs. Jack Tichner, Stark Drive, Palatine. Assisting Mrs. Tichner will be Mrs. Robert Sheerin.

A one-day workshop for the club is planned for Wednesday, Feb. 18, when Mrs. J. C. Sculley of Haeger Potteries in Dundee, will instruct members on flower arrangements. The workshop will be held in the home of the club president, Mrs. Len Murrans, Ventura Drive, Palatine.

"A Year of Gardening" was the subject of the film shown by Robert Elch at the club at its recent January meeting held in the home of Mrs. Bo Streeter with Mrs. George Ritzinger as co-hostesses.

Keep Potatoes White

To avoid a last minute rush at meal-time, raw potatoes may be peeled and cut several hours ahead. Place the ready-to-cook potatoes in a deep narrow container and cover them generously with salted water. They will remain white this way for a few hours, but this method is not recommended for longer storage times.

by PAT GERLACH

A suggestion casually offered by a good friend more than 25 years ago caused young Lloyd Abrahamsen to investigate the possibilities of a career that subsequently led to his recent appointment as Schaumburg's first full-time fire chief.

Back in 1944, Abrahamsen, then a postal clerk, happened one day to be discussing the future with a boyhood friend who proposed the idea of his becoming a fireman.

"Now, why would I want to do a thing like that, John," Abrahamsen, the father of two small sons, asked his chum.

"Well, Lloyd, because you look like a fireman," his friend John replied.

"ACTUALLY, AT THE time I was pretty satisfied at the post office, but being young and curious, I took the examination for fireman a short time later and passed," Abrahamsen recalled during a recent conversation with The Herald.

"That did it! Soon after I joined the Chicago Fire Department and have worked in stations nearly all over the city in the last 26 years," he explained.

Fondness for playing golf was also a factor in Abrahamsen's decision to become a fireman, he confided.

"As a young man I just never had enough time to play and I knew that firemen often worked a couple or three shifts at one time so they had a day or so free. 'It seemed perfect,' he chuckled, noting also that after he became a fireman he never used the free time for golf.

He was promoted to captain in 1956, and just prior to coming to Schaumburg Jan. 1, served in District 13, headquartered at Roosevelt Road and May Street in Chicago.

DISTRICT 13, which serves a ghetto neighborhood, responds to more than 1,800 fire calls each year making it one of Chicago's busiest fire stations.

He considers Schaumburg "a tremendous community with building plans that are just unbelievable" and is anxious to move to the village.

Abrahamsen, a native of Chicago's Northwest side, and his wife, Dorcas, have lived in Lombard for the past five years but plan to relocate in Schaumburg as soon as they sell their present home and are able to make the move.

Regarding his decision to come to Schaumburg, Abrahamsen explained he had heard the village was looking for a full-time chief and decided to apply. He was chosen from a field of 266 applicants.

"I consider myself certainly fortunate to have been accepted but even more fortunate to have the kind of men we have in the village fire department," he said.

HE WAS PARTICULARLY impressed with the training and performance shown by volunteer firemen and even more thrilled with their preparations for his arrival.

After they learned Abrahamsen had been hired, volunteer members of the department completed a second floor office for the chief. The work they undertook included putting in flooring and paneling.

"Friends from the city fire department have already been out here to visit me and they just can't believe what they see. I mean our men and the way they have welcomed me," he said.

Regarding departmental expansion plans, Abrahamsen feels the fire department will continue to grow along with the village.

A second station planned for construction near Woodfield Shopping Center will not be built just to service the huge commercial area but rather to satisfy the needs of the whole community, Abrahamsen emphasized.

HE IS PRESENTLY working with Mayor Robert O. Atcher to arrange for a suitable site for the second station.

The Abrahamsens are parents of three children. Their 29-year-old son, a lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy, is presently stationed in California. A veteran of 94 missions, he also earned eleven medals during an earlier stint in Vietnam.

Their second son, a dentist and captain in the U.S. Air Force, is assigned to a base in Chicopee Falls, Mass.

A 21-year-old daughter who lives at home completes the Abrahamsen family.

Although, in his capacity as chief, Abrahamsen is on 24-hour call, he still finds time for an occasional round of golf and claims to shoot "somewhere between 78 and 90."

HE ALSO ADMITS to being an avid sports fan concentrating his off golf times on the Bears and Cubs. "Are there really any other teams?" he asked.

Abrahamsen also likes to fish especially in the colder waters of Michigan's upper peninsula.

Asked if he would choose the same career had he to do it over again, Chief Abrahamsen replied "You had better believe it. For me, there would be just no other way."

Cite Unfinished Business

Edward Bedard, Dist. 54 school board president, has cited eight major areas of "unfinished business" he wants the school board to focus upon during the remainder of the present business year. A new school board will be seated following the April 11 school election.

The eight board projects listed by Bedard for the next three months include: teachers' salary negotiations, for 1970-71; developing a future building program for Dist. 54; exploring future solutions to the problem of double-shifting classes; further study of a 12-month school year in Dist. 54; arranging land transfer agreements with park districts; reviewing first draft of 1970-71 school budget; recommending business office revisions and the hiring of a superintendent of buildings and grounds.

MARVIN LAPICOLA, business services director, is scheduled to recommend a candidate for buildings and grounds superintendent in March. Approximately 30 applicants have submitted letters of application for the position. Candidates are currently being screened.

Attorneys for Dist. 54 and the park districts are expected to work out a framework for an agreement providing for the deeding of land surrounding Dist. 54 schools to park districts for development as park-school sites.

The master plan of the Schaumburg Park District provides for developing five neighborhood park-school sites in future years, including recreational sites at Jane Addams Junior High in Schaumburg and a Dist. 54 elementary school to be built in Timbercrest.

The school board's building and sites committee has established a tentative August deadline for proposing a future building program for Dist. 54. A referendum on the building program is now scheduled in November.

DIST 54 is now in the final stages of its current three-year building program.

Man Has Great Deal Invested in Village

by STEVE NOVICK

Elmer Redker, 68, is a man with a great deal invested in Hoffman Estates. He and his wife, Emma, have their home here. The Redker's son with his wife and children, and two other daughters, with their husbands and children, also live in the village.

When the Redker family gathers there are 16. Last Sunday, they all met at his home at 364 Pleasant, before going out to celebrate Mrs. Redker's birthday.

Redker is proud of his family, and very modest about the role he has taken since his retirement two years ago toward protecting their best interest.

How To Knock Wind Out of Windy Speaker

Long-winded public speakers can be a public menace. Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy told Schaumburg Rotary members recently.

Conroy, Rotary vice president, related an anecdote of a talkative speaker who droned on while the program chairman waited for him to conclude his speech. The program chairman looked at his watch and yawned openly, but the speaker kept talking.

FINALLY, AFTER THREE hours, the chairman decided that in order to stop the speaker, he would have to gavel him down. The chairman raised his gavel to get the floor, but accidentally struck the man sitting next to the speaker, who slumped to the floor.

"Are you all right?" the chairman asked the dazed man.

"Hit me again," said the injured man, "I can still hear him."

"I can't afford any more titles, I don't have any more hats," Redker said.

Last summer, Elmer Redker was appointed to the Village's police pension board. More recently he was called on to serve as village treasurer and collector. For the new job Redker has spent many hours educating himself in municipal accounting.

HE AND MRS. Redker spent the first winter after his retirement on a California vacation. Returning home, Redker said he spent a lot of time playing cards with a brother-in-law. The two men kept winning the same 50 cents from one another, he added.

Redker then decided to make his services available to the village where he has lived since October 1958. He and Mrs. Redker were the first of four family households to settle here.

They were followed by Richard Umbach, a son-in-law, who came with his wife, Irene, and their children in December, 1958.

Umbach was raised in a small Michigan town and came to Hoffman Estates to recapture the country atmosphere he grew up in.

THE UMBACHS live at 233 Pearl with their four children, Virginia, 16, Richard, 14, Judy, 12, and Debbie, 9.

Virginia works at the Schaumburg State Bank besides attending Conant High School. Richard also attends Conant where he is a record holder on the freshman cross country team. He ran the 2.2 mile run at the Pure Oil track in 11 minutes 51 seconds to beat the old record.

The senior Umbach has worked for Walgreens for 14 years where he is now manager of data processing, research and planning.

The Umbachs were followed in October 1959 by Edward Redker, whose home is at 262 Western. He and his wife Rosemary live there with their children, Gary, 14, Sandy, 12, and Susan, 9.

Gary also runs on Conant's freshman cross country team. Edward Redker has been employed for 17 years at MacLean-Fogg Lock & Nut Co. where he is a manager for ordering and billing. He was also active with the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association.

THE FOURTH household from Elmer Redker's clan who came to Hoffman Estates was son-in-law, Al Johnson, who moved here in May, 1960 with his wife, Helen, and their son Eric, to 148 N. Olive.

Eric is 14-years-old and recently became an Eagle Scout, the highest achievement in Boy Scouting. This is particularly outstanding because he earned the status at such a young age.

Al Johnson has worked for the CTA since right after World War II starting out as a street car driver on Lawrence Ave.

Johnson said he came to Hoffman Estates to be near his father-in-law, bringing laughter from the others. But, it was obvious that there are good feelings between Redker and all his children.

Johnson now supervises the CTA's Forest Glen Garage.

ELMER REDKER worked for 19 years as superintendent of engineering services at Bell & Howell. Mrs. Redker worked there for 24 years.

The couple will be married 45 years in September. Redker expressed pride both in his family and the positions each bread winner has in his job.

Each household head says he plans to complete raising his family in Hoffman Estates. Elmer Redker said the homes are great values. His home is 11-years-old and there is not a crack in the walls, Redker said.

"Where else are you going to find a home like this," he said.

Elmer Redker is happy, not because his home has no cracks in its walls, but because there are wall to wall children between them.

LIFE IS COMPLETE for Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Redker, left front, of Hoffman Estates who have all their children and grandchildren living in the village. Redker has great feeling for the community. He moved here 11 years ago and is now retired, but serves as the new village treasurer and collector. Redker is also on the police pension board. A Sunday gathering of the clan in honor of Mrs. Redker's birthday is occasion for above picture.

Consider Hiring of Teen Aid

The hiring of a YMCA detached services representative to work with young men in need of help is being considered by the Schaumburg Village Board.

Working through a youth development commission, the YMCA representative's job would be to work with delinquent juveniles, "finding the good in these boys and working for them," Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

The youth worker's salary would be paid for by the village, though the person hired would be trained and made available by the YMCA.

Atcher said the village is including a $20,000 item in the 1970 appropriation for this purpose. This does not commit the village to spend that amount or to hire the youth worker, but does open the door for considering it.

"We will investigate this to see if it would be of value to the community," Atcher said.

The YMCA worker would work through a municipal youth development commission. "We don't want this to be a police function," Atcher said. This is also separate from the township youth commission.

The mayor said by spring the village will have determined whether or not to fill the position.

Atcher said the YMCA will make a presentation on the program to village trustees soon. If trustees consider the program worthwhile, prospective youth workers will be interviewed and a full-time person hired to activate the program, Atcher said.

Large Type Books Given

The Lions Club of Hoffman Estates recently gave the Schaumburg Township Public Library a $200 gift to purchase large print books to be used by the partially blind.

The money is part of the receipts recently raised by the Lions Candy Day Sale. The Lions have also donated funds to the Hadley School for the Blind and the Leader Dog School.

Good, large, readable type has long been prevalent in advertising but, prior to 1965, the person able to read only with great difficulty found few adult books of general reading interest available.

TODAY A WIDE VARIETY of material is available to visually handicapped readers. Experience has also shown that many other readers can use large type to advantage. These include persons with cerebral palsy; those in iron lungs or respirators, or in traction; or anyone with physical disability such that a book must be placed a further than normal distance from the eyes.

There are approximately 600 titles available in large print, including a variety of fiction and nonfiction with wide popular appeal, mysteries, westerns, classics and semi-classics, and some recent but not current best-sellers.

Large print materials are particularly important today. It is estimated that as many as 5 per cent of the general public can benefit from large-print books. In addition, the elderly population is growing. Many senior citizens can only enjoy reading books printed in larger-than-normal size type.

girls is one of the new classes added recently to the district's schedule. Others are Judo and Karate instructed by Wally Barber.

Students Teach Dental Hygiene

Dist. 54 third grade pupils have been learning the importance of proper care of teeth from Harper College dental hygiene students in the past few weeks.

Twenty-four students from Harper have been visiting third grade classes in Dist. 54 once a week to teach a 30-minute class on dental health.

National Children's Dental Health Week is Feb. 2-9.

During their classroom talks in Dist. 54, the Harper dental hygiene students have used film strips, teeth models, flannel boards and other visual aids to stress the importance of proper care of teeth and proper diet for the prevention of dental health problems.

THE HARPER PUPILS who have been instructing Dist. 54 pupils in dental health are enrolled in the dental hygiene program at Harper. As part of the requirements for a course in community dentistry, the Harper students taught dental care classes once a week in Dist. 54 schools.

Upon completing the two year program at Harper, a student is qualified to serve as a dental hygienist. The Harper students also receive training in cleaning teeth at the junior college.

The dental hygiene students receive an associate in science degree in dental hygiene when they meet the requirements of the two-year program at Harper College.

THIRD-GRADERS IN Dist. 54 elementary schools were taught the importance of proper nutrition and regular brushing in the short class on dental health given by the Harper students. Dental hygiene pupils from Harper who instructed Dist. 54 classes on tooth care included Mrs. Mary Vezina, Susan Straub, and Sue McDade, who taught Hillcrest third graders recently.

The flannel board was used to show pictures of fruits and vegetables that provide proper nutrition for growing youngsters.

Dist. 54 classroom teachers will reinforce the techniques for dental health in health lessons following the classroom visit of the Harper dental hygiene students.

Register To Vote For The Primary

Bartlett residents living in Wayne Township may register to vote for the March 17 state primary between now and Feb. 16.

Mrs. Elizabeth Walker, chairman of Wayne Township Republican Central Committee, said residents may register with Mrs. Warren Wilcox of Bartlett or Mrs. John Weisz of Wayne by appointment.

They may also go to the office of the county clerk at Wheaton or the office of any city or village clerk in DuPage County during normal business hours.

As a convenience to Wayne Township residents, the village hall in Wayne will be open for voter registration on Feb. 7 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

DENTAL QUIZ IS given to third graders at Hillcrest School in Hoffman Estates by Harper College dental hygiene student Susan Straub, who taught them the importance of dental health. National Children's Dental Health Week is being observed this week.

Judo And Karate Classes Are Added

Judo, karate, dance and modern jazz for teenage girls have been added to Schaumburg Park District's rapidly expanding recreation program, Park Director Paul Derda said this week.

Judo classes, under the direction of Wally Barber, a Schaumburg resident and Black Belt, will begin Thursday at Robert Frost Junior High School.

Instruction for beginners is at 7 p.m. with boys and girls 8 through 14-years-old eligible.

A class for high school students and adults will be held at 8 p.m.

Beginning karate instruction for high schoolers and adults will be held at 7 p.m. An advanced class will meet at 8 p.m.

Derda stressed that prior to being accepted for karate instruction, all prospective students will be screened by Barber.

COST OF THE 10-week course is $6 per student. Interested persons may register at park offices or with Barber this Thursday evening in Robert Frost Junior High School.

Dance and modern jazz instruction will be offered to teen girls each Saturday at 11:30 a.m. at Jennings House Youth Center. Junior and senior high school students are eligible for enrollment in the eight week course. The fee is $5.

With the start of the park district's winter program this week, Derda said space at Jane Addams Junior High School will be fully utilized.

Open gym for adults featuring mixed volleyball and men's basketball will take place from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. each Monday. The activities are free.

Also free of charge, women's volleyball is scheduled from 7 to 1 p.m. each Tuesday at Addams.

WEDNESDAYS FROM 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. junior high school students may participate in square dancing.

Although men's basketball leagues have been completed and compete at Addams each Thursday, Derda said interested spectators are welcome.

Seventh and eighth grade boys interested in joining the park district's newly forming indoor hockey program are asked to contact Derda at the park district office. There will be no charge made to residents of the park district for participation in this program although a specific time has not been determined for the program as yet.

Also those junior high school age boys interested in gymnastics instruction are asked to contact Derda.

The park director may be reached at 894-3258 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. daily. Park offices are located on the second floor of Jennings House Youth Center, Civic Drive, Schaumburg.

New Village Administrator Begins Duties

Daniel T. Larson

Hoffman Estates new administrative assistant, Daniel Larson, 24, arrived on the job yesterday at village hall.

His office is on the building's second floor, where he is spending his first few days getting oriented.

Larson said recently that one of his goals will be to get to know each village employee. In the new position Larson will supervise all village departments except the police department. Another of Larson's responsibilities will be to plan village board agendas and to advise the mayor on administrative matters.

Larson recently resigned as assistant village manager in Northbrook, where he received three year's experience.

He holds a master's degree in public administration from Northern Illinois University. Larson begins the new post at a $12,500 a year salary.

If he does well on the job, after the first year or so Larson will be promoted to village manager, according to Downey.

Larson's arrival marks the first time Hoffman Estates has had a professional administrator since June, 1967.

Not Look Alikes But Think Alikes

Teachers and students do not usually look alike, but according to a recent survey they come fairly close to thinking alike.

The survey was a semantics differential test that was given to 1,600 teachers and senior students by the Teacher's Institute committee of Palatine-Schaumburg High School Dist. 211.

The object of the test, which is similar to a word association test, was to determine how a teacher and a student felt about one particular subject, and to see if there was a difference between their feelings.

With the test results in, and the data compiled, it is apparent that there is little difference between the values of Dist. 211 teachers and students, according to John O'Dell, administrative assistant to the superintendent.

O'DELL SAID participants were given a list of about 30 words such as freedom, Vietnam, S.D.S., and other socially relevant terms; and they were asked to rate them on a value scale ranging from good to bad.

Although there was no significant difference between the values teachers and students placed on each of the words, there was a difference between what both test groups listed as being the most important to them, as well as what was the most disagreeable.

In descending order, the following are what students placed highest on their value scale: Love, freedom, sex, marriage, cars, mother, father, money, future and football.

TEACHERS ALSO placed love, freedom and sex in the top three spots. But starting with their fourth choice, a difference was evident. They chose mother, marriage, father, myself, future, work and money for the remaining seven spots.

At the opposite end of the scale, students ranked Vietnam, Communism, drugs, S.D.S., smoking, marijuana, grades, dress codes, society and whiskey as being the 10 social issues they felt most negatively toward.

Teachers ranked the same words in the category of the 10 most negative values, with one exception, however. Where whiskey placed number 10 with students, teachers picked government.

WHAT THE SEMANTICS differential indicates is that there really is no "generation gap" between students and teachers in Dist. 211, according to O'Dell.

O'Dell said the median age for teachers in the district is roughly 26, and that this factor probably accounts for much of the similarity between the test results of the students and the teachers.

Centex-Schaumburg Land Price Increases

A price increase affecting land in Centex-Schaumburg has been announced by Bennett and Kahnweiler, developers of the industrial park.

The price will increase from 55 cents to 65 cents per square foot for lots with depths of 280 feet or more.

Lots with 200 to 220 foot depths will increase in price from 65 to 75 cents.

The price increase reflects vigorous sales at the 586 acre Centex-Schaumburg, said James H. Dana, project manager.

"IN THE LITTLE over 90 days since we opened the park, we've completed 42 transactions accounting for 145 acres, or more than 28 per cent of the total area," he said.

"That figures out to be one transaction every three days," he added.

Centex-Schaumburg is a joint venture between Bennett and Kahnweiler, the Pritzker family of Chicago and the Murchison family of Dallas, Texas. The group is the same that developed the 2,200-acre Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village.

Palette: Very Interesting!

Did you know that one out of every five Americans is overweight? Or that the average car burns its weight in gas every year?

These facts are some of the random statistics cited by Dist. 54 mathematics consultant Carl Seltzer in an article entitled "Would You Believe?" published in the February issue of The Palette, a Dist. 54 curriculum magazine. The magazine features articles about reading, mathematics, art and creative writing.

In addition to Seltzer's article about random statistics, the February issue of The Palette contains an article on the teaching of poetry in elementary school by Frank Tavano, Thomas Dooley principal; an article on reading by Mrs. Eileen Little, Dist. 54 reading consultant, and some sample art projects.

THE DIST. 54 curriculum magazine is published for principals and teachers in the school district.

Among the suggestions given by Mrs.

Little for ways that parents can help children with reading:

- Read to your child.
- Take him on trips, even short walking trips in the local community.
- Build up a pleasant reading atmosphere at home.
- Encourage visits to the public library.
- Teach your child to care for books.
- Buy good games, books and puzzles for children when gifts are in order.
- Talk to your child. Share ideas and thoughts together.
- Make a collection of children's stories clipped from magazines.
- Praise your child.
- Listen to your child. Encourage the child to share conversation with you.
- Provide for the child's good, physical well-being. A child who does not feel well cannot perform at his best level.
- Help your child to develop responsibility. Give him tasks of which you expect completion, according to his ability.

— Assist the child in maintaining good school attendance. Every day a child is absent, says Mrs. Little, something new and important takes place in school.

— HELP THE CHILD to establish regular study times in a quiet atmosphere.

— Guide the child's selection of books, movies and television programs.

— Accept your child as he is. Don't expect more of him than he is able to give you. Likewise, let the child know what you expect of him and how he can fulfill this.

— Show a real interest in your child and his school work.

GOP Will Investigate Trailer Taxation

A study committee has been formed by the Republican Club of Hanover Township to determine if trailers in the township are listed as personal property by owners, and if taxes are paid on them.

The committee is interested in determining if trailer owners have been assessed for personal property taxation. Trailers are not subject to real estate tax.

Committee findings will be reported to the Republican Club's executive committee. Jim Cupps is committee chairman.

Education Day Set For School District

Friday afternoon has been designated as an in-service education day for elementary schools during which parent-teacher conferences will be held in Elgin School Dist. U46.

While elementary students will attend only three hours of classes in the morning, junior and senior high schools will be in session all day.

Two half-days will be used this month for elementary parent-teacher conferences. The second is scheduled for Feb. 25.

State regulations regarding in-service activities require that elementary school children must be in class for three hours on these days.

THE DISMISSAL time in each school

will vary, says Harry Michelson, U46 director of elementary education.

"If an elementary school, including special education classes, starts at 8:30 a.m., they would dismiss at 11:30 a.m., even though the normal morning session would usually end at 11:15 a.m.," Michelson explained.

All first through 6th grade students within an individual building will be dismissed at the same time.

All first session kindergarten children will be dismissed at their regular time. Middle and afternoon sessions of kindergarten will not meet.

Black Panther, Rush, To Talk

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles

Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism: Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

PICKETS APPEARED SUNDAY at the Levitt and Sons Inc. model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road in Buffalo Grove. The pickets, members of Buffalo Grove's Strathmore Homeowners Association, were there Sunday because of a dispute between Levitt and Lake County School Dist. 96 over the lack of school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove.

Homes Pickets Slated

More pickets are planned for this weekend at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

SATURDAY'S DECISION followed several months of discussions among the school district, Levitt representatives, and occasionally village officials, over the lack of a sufficient number of school sites in Buffalo Grove's Lake County portion.

Almost all of the village's Lake County portion is taken up with Levitt's Strathmore development. The Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove is included in Dist. 96. That district's lone facility, Kildeer Countryside School, is located in Long Grove.

The land which the school district wants is located in the northwestern portion of the village on Arlington Heights Road, south of Highway 83.

The school district had offered to pay Levitt for the land at the price of $3,000 an acre. Levitt officials, however, said they were "dismayed" at the offer.

LAST FRIDAY, Levitt offered to sell the district either one of two 10-acre sites in the area, according to Mrs. Adeline Geokaris, the school district attorney, the price for the 10 acres would have been about $255,000. That offer was termed "obviously ridiculous" by Arthur Edmunds, school district president.

Following the board's decision Saturday to file the condemnation suit, the SHA decided to go ahead with a plan formulated earlier last week to picket and hand out leaflets at Levitt's model homes site.

According to Mrs. Alltop, "The (week-end) picketing will be continuous until negotiations between Levitt and the school board start again."

SHE SAID THAT, in all, about 25 persons picketed last Sunday. Pickets were set up in shifts, with each "shift" working for an hour. She said that "We're working with about 150 people, in all, next week-end."

Of the picketing, Mrs. Alltop said, "We think it will influence the situation. It might take a week or two to get the idea across, but we feel it is one of the ways we can help."

Seminar Set On Budgeting

Supt. Wayne Schaible and Marvin Lapicola, Dist. 54 business services director, will participate in a budget planning seminar at Harper College Feb. 9-10 sponsored by the Northwest Educational Cooperative, in cooperation with the Cook County Superintendent's Office.

The seminar is designed to help the school districts in the Northwest Educational Cooperative for Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Palatine, and Wheeling Townships to establish Planning-Programming - Budgeting Systems (PPBS).

PEAT, MARWICK, Mitchell & Co., certified public accountants, will conduct the seminar. Thirty-six administration and board members will be participating in the two-day conference.

Funds for the seminar are provided under the Illinois Small Grant program for schools, Title V.

"The Civic Federation has recommended the PPBS concept to major local Chicago governments since 1956, and the Cook County Government currently utilizes this system of finance," said Cook County Supt. Robert Haurahan.

The feasibility of adopting such a system for Dist. 54 will be studied by the two school officials.

BLACK PANTHER leader Bobby Rush arranged by Educational Laboratories will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday night. Appearance of Rush was of Elk Grove Village.

OPINIONS PLEASE

How About 'Jubilee' Every Year?

Last summer Wheeling celebrated its 75th Anniversary with a Diamond Jubilee complete with pageants, contests, parades, dances, and carnivals.

In today's Opinions, Please column, the Wheeling Herald asked local residents if they'd like to see a similar celebration each summer.

"The parade was what I liked," said Mrs. Carl S. Lass of 624 S. Elmhurst Road. "I'd like to see it held each summer, I think it was nice."

Mrs. Thomas J. Kerr of 620 Merle Lane explained that she liked the jubilee, but wouldn't want one every year. "It should be kept for special occasions," she explained. Mrs. Kerr said her family liked the jubilee. "It was fun, we enjoyed it," and that she "would like to have something for the children to do in the summer."

"We'd probably be more active this summer and participate," Mrs. Charles E. Bechold of 1421 Marcy Lane said about another celebration. "I would like to see it held again," she said, explaining that her family didn't get to participate as much as they would have liked to last year. "We used to live in Northbrook and we still attend their Roundup Day every year," she said.

Ralph Umrath of 319 E. Wayne Place grew a beard for the Jubilee. Umrath said his family saw the parade and went to the carnival at Wheeling High School.

"I don't really think we should have it yearly. The parade and costumes and beards would be too much. I would like to see a fair like the one at the high school each summer though," he said.

"I think it would be nice, but it would depend on what it costs," Mrs. Clarence G. Falk of 248 Albert Terrace said. Mrs. Falk said that if the celebration would increase taxes it might not be worth while. "I liked the parade, I thought it was interesting and comical," she said.

Mrs. Henry J. Kean of 99 W. Jeffery Ave. explained that her family liked the jubilee, but that they are moving and wouldn't be here for annual celebrations. "We were only there a day or so because it was so close to our vacation. We did see the parade, though," she said. "I think all communities should have something like this," she added.

Mrs. Carl Sennett of 29 Redwood Trail says she isn't sure if she'd like a Jubilee each year. "I haven't thought about it," she says, "but we would go again if it was held." "My husband took the kids to see the parade and we saw the fair," she said. "I'd like to see another one just like last year's. Everybody enjoyed it the way it was," Mrs. Joseph M. Dornier of 42 George Road explained. Mrs. Dornier explained that she is a beautician and did the coiffures for many of the women who rode on the floats in the jubilee parade.

Mrs. Marvin M. Kingdon of 133 E. Dennis Road summed up many of the comments. "I didn't get to attend many of the activities last summer because I work in the evenings, but I'd like to see a similar celebration each year," she said.

Model Home Site Will Be Picketed

More pickets are planned for this weekend at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

SATURDAY'S DECISION followed several months of discussions among the school district, Levitt representatives, and occasionally village officials, over the lack of a sufficient number of school sites in Buffalo Grove's Lake County portion.

2 Bank Money Pouches Lost With $1,023.53

Anybody find $1,023.53?

William Hein, of Wheeling Auto Parts Co., reported to Wheeling police at 7:45 p.m. Friday that he had lost two bank money pouches containing checks and cash.

Hein, who lives at 604 N. Wayne, told police that sometime after 6 p.m. Friday he had misplaced a blue money pouch from the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank containing $375.25 and a red pouch from the Bank of Mundelein containing $648.28.

Hein lost the checks between his business and his home, police reports indicated.

Influence Is Picketing Goal

They picketed the Strathmore subdivision model homes site last Sunday. And they plan to do the same again. They are afraid their children will be attending overcrowded schools in Lake County School Dist. 96, and they want Levitt and Sons to do something about it.

"They" are members of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) who picketed Sunday. Most of them were from the

subdivision's Lake County portion, though a few came from the Cook County portion.

Said James Shirley, who was one of those picketing: "I was out there Sunday because I support what the school district is asking for."

"A SCHOOL IS MORE than a building. I look at that site (a 5.6-acre site at the southwest corner of the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove) and I see just enough room there for a school. No room for a playground. We want a decent playground for the kids where we can conduct formal recreational activities for them."

"If nothing else, I would say the picketing shows the willingness of the residents to support the request made by the school board."

"We think we might be able to influence the situation."

Mrs. Edie Dolin, who has lived in Buffalo Grove since last July, said "I hope this (the picketing) will influence the situation and I think it will. I want to do something to help get a school."

Mrs. Joan Sundt said she picketed Sunday "because I feel we must have school land, now, before it's built upon." As to why she picketed, "When you feel strongly about something, you do what you can to make it happen."

ANOTHER OF THE pickets was Eugene Gaines. "We moved in Sept. 30. I have one school-age child and another who is 5-years-old. She'll be going to school next year, though I don't know what's going to happen with the present school situation."

"My wife and I learned about the problem about two months ago. All of a sudden I found out my kid was going to be going on half sessions up at Kildeer School."

"I was out there (picketing) because I figure that if Levitt doesn't get any response from possible home buyers, that maybe Levitt will sit down and talk with the school district. I think anyone that buys land for a subdivision ought to make an allocation for schools."

MRS. JOAN STANFORD said two reasons were behind her picketing: "I think we're accomplishing something with our picketing. We're making potential buyers aware of the problems. I feel it helps our cause and it renders a service to potential buyers."

Mrs. Stanford said she learned of the problems last November. "We realized there wasn't adequate land available to build a school big enough for all the children in the area. My children's classes are getting bigger."

She added, "I think the school district is doing a real good job with the problems it's having."

According to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the SHA schools committee, as many as 150 persons might be involved in next weekend's picketing. "Most of the persons volunteering are from the Lake County portion of Strathmore, but we had a few persons from the Cook County part volunteer yesterday, too. Hopefully, we can get some residents from Long Grove to picket next week."

Local residents living within the Wheeling Public Library District may have to wait until April 4 before voting on purchase of a church building for the district's library facility.

The library district had planned to hold a referendum Feb. 21. Voters were to have considered issuing bonds for the purchase and remodeling of St. Mark United Church of Christ in Wheeling. Also on the ballot was a proposal to raise the library tax rate.

The library district's boundaries include Wheeling and the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

The referendum was originally planned for Feb. 21, by the Wheeling Public Library District Board. It may have to be postponed because of a requirement in state statutes that a notice of proceedings on the plans for the building, cost estimates, and the terms of bonds must be posted for 30 days before an ordinance setting the referendum date can be passed.

LIBRARY board members had originally planned to pass the ordinance for the referendum at tonight's meeting, but now may have to wait 30 days before such an ordinance can be passed. A final decision on whether the referendum will have to be postponed will be made at tonight's meeting.

It is possible the ordinance can be passed tonight because copies of Herald articles describing the referendum have been posted in the library as have other notices of the referendum. No formal legal document has been posted, however.

One part of the two-ballot referendum asks voters to approve the issuance of $250,000 in general obligation bonds for the purchase and remodeling of the church as the district's library facility.

Currently the library is housed in a rented storefront on Milwaukee Avenue near Dundee Road.

THE SECOND part asks voters to approve a tax rate increase from 12 to 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Because the two questions are on separate ballots, voters may approve one of the propositions without approving the other.

Passage of both ballots would mean a 12-cent tax rate hike per $100 of assessed valuation for district residents.

Homeowners in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove whose homes are assessed at $10,000 for taxing purposes would pay $24 yearly to the library district instead of $12.

The part of the increase resulting from the purchase and remodeling of the church would be $4. The other $8 of the $12 increase would be spent for the expansion of library district operations.

THE DISTRICT'S board has a six-month option agreement to buy the church for $98,200. The $250,000 in bonds includes that purchase price, $71,000 for remodeling the interior and exterior of the church to make it suitable for library use, $50,000 for furniture for the new library, and $25,000 for additional books.

The remaining $14,000 would be for miscellaneous expenditures.

Charge Driver In Auto Crash

Clyde T. Zumwalt 40, of 251 E. Dennis in Wheeling was charged with driving while intoxicated, resisting a police officer, and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident Friday by Wheeling Police.

Police filed the charges following a three-car accident at 8:15 p.m. on the west side of Milwaukee Avenue 20 feet south of 241 S. Milwaukee Ave.

All three drivers involved in the accident complained of minor injuries, but refused treatment.

Virginia Smith, 17, of Northbrook and Patricia Riley, 17, of Park Forest, were the other drivers, involved. Zumwalt was the only driver charged, however.

THE CHARGE OF resisting a police officer was made after Wheeling Policeman Dexter Gorski filed a complaint against Zumwalt.

Gorski reported that the man refused to show him his driver's license, refused to cooperate and talk to officers, and had to be pulled away from a fence after his arrest.

An April 14 trial on the charges in Arlington Heights District Court was set.

Skycraper: It Really Isn't Exciting Anyone

Some Mount Prospect residents have few words for the Randhurst professional office building, the first skyscraper to be built in this community.

According to a random telephone survey taken by the Herald, residents haven't given much thought to the town's first 10-story building. Although blueprints for the building are still on the drawing boards, the skyscraper isn't a controversial issue in the community at this time.

Only one of the 25 residents who cooperated with the survey had a definite opinion on whether or not to build a 10-story building in Mount Prospect, while 24 other residents admitted they hadn't even thought about it.

And when asked to cast a vote, approving or disapproving of a building of this height, 24 housewives admitted they couldn't care less.

MRS. ROY HORTON of 1419 S. Redwood Drive was the only resident who had a definite opinion on the 10-story building and any plans to build high rises in the community in the future.

"I definitely object to building any high rises in this area. There's more than enough traffic in this area now and building high rises would only add to the traffic safety problems," Mrs. Horton told the Herald.

"Well, I really haven't thought much about it. I know there's a high rise at Old Orchard and I guess it's much the same situation at Randhurst. I'd hate to see a high rise on Main Street but Randhurst is really an oasis surrounded by acres and acres of parking lots. Quite frankly, I don't think there's much aesthetic value to the whole place (Randhurst)," Mrs. Bruce Brothers of 1102 Lincoln Street told the Herald.

MRS. VICTOR CRANDALL, 105 Dogwood Lane, said the office building seems like a good idea if it will draw more professional people to the community. "I'm against apartment buildings of this size or even smaller, but an office building is a good idea. We need more doctors, dentists and professional people in town," she said.

The survey indicated the majority of residents had no opinion on the subject because they didn't think the office building at Randhurst would affect them.

"I have no feelings about it either way. We live in the older part of town where there's no room to build a high-rise office building or apartment complex, so I'm not worried. It wouldn't bother me one way or the other if we had them in the town," Mrs. Edwin Heinrich of 421 N. Fairview

Street said.

THE SURVEY was taken after the Herald received a letter from Mrs. Howard L. Sandlund of 932 Greenfield Court. Mrs. Sandlund expressed her dissatisfaction over the 10-story building and inquired if other people shared her concern over turning the community into a commercial city.

"I have read about the new 10-story office building being built on the Randhurst land. Words could never express how sad I feel. Is a gas station on every corner and a high-rise shopping center at every major intersection what people really want?"

"The village board thinks that the increased revenue warrants this variation of our zoning regulation. Maybe I'm wrong but I doubt that most of us agree. If we were looking for a place to live where industry and commerce pay for governmental services, we'd have chosen to live in Chicago," Mrs. Sandlund wrote.

IN A RECENT survey sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees, the majority of residents said it does not favor an open housing ordinance, more apartment buildings, increased taxes and high-rise buildings.

Residents said these four events would destroy "village atmosphere."

Black Panther, Rush, To Talk

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism, Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

Greil. The purpose of the exercise was to develop the students' artistic and writing skills.

Sandwiches... Or Politics?

One of Arlington Heights' most famous women politicians spoke out on women's rights Friday, and particularly about the rights of women in politics.

Eugenia Chapman, Democratic state representative for the 3rd District, said current discussions about having more women represented in Arlington Heights village government is a good thing.

"I agree we should not appoint women to high positions just because they are members of the fair sex," she said. "I never agreed to that. But I am concerned that voters and office holders sometimes think of men first when they think of qualified office holders. Qualified candidates can be men or women... as long as they are qualified it doesn't matter what sex they are."

MRS. CHAPMAN said she thinks something is amiss in Arlington Heights when there have been no prominent female officeholders on the village board in the past 15 years. "Surely there must have been one well-qualified, excellent woman candidate in the village in all that time."

And most of all, she thinks there is still too much of the attitude in the village that comes at the end of each political meeting when the chairman rises and says "... and thank you, ladies, for the delicious sandwiches."

Jazz Festival Set At Oak Lawn High

Twenty-six jazz musicians from Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling will participate in the 11th annual Chicago Jazz Festival Saturday at Oak Lawn Community High School in Oak Lawn.

Spelunking Scouts Visit Wisconsin

Arlington Heights Boy Scout troops 34 and 135 spent last weekend exploring caves in southwest Wisconsin's Blackhawk country.

Under the supervision of John Cornell, Arlington Heights, and Ned Harkness, Prospect Heights, the 60 boys spent Saturday night in the caverns of Eagle Cave, the largest in the state. The scouts also went tobogganing and hiking in the park surrounding the caverns.

They cooked their own meals in a new log dining lodge adjacent to the cave. The local scouts were part of a group of 200 boys from the Midwest who visited the area this weekend.

Barrett Promoted By Army in Berlin

George Barrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wittenberg of 30 Willow Trail in Wheeling, was promoted recently to the rank of Army private first class.

He is currently serving with the 4th battalion, 18th Infantry, in West Berlin.

Barrett graduated from Wheeling High School in June 1969. He enlisted in the Army in August, 1969.

BLACK PANTHER leader Bobby Rush will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday night. Appearance of Rush was arranged by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

Carl Hansen Attends First Meeting—Gets A Surprise

Mount Prospect's Carl Hansen attended his first Cook County board meeting as a commissioner Monday, and to his surprise, got his name on more legislation than any other board member.

To the uninitiated, the speed at which the county board conducts its business keeps a person wondering, where on the agenda, the board is. The only time to catch up is when commissioners take the president's chair to conduct committee meetings.

It is also common for the committee chairman to make and second the motions needed, giving credit for the motion to a commissioner of one party and the motion's second to a commissioner of the other party.

THUS, WHEN Commissioner Charles Bonk, Public Service committee chairman, said "seconded by Hansen" in rapid-fire delivery Monday, the new commissioner looked up startled. Hansen turned to fellow Republican Floyd Fulla as if to ask what had happened.

Noticing Hansen's reaction, Bonk grinned and Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne smiled broadly. Hansen's name was used twice again by then, Hansen was grinning.

After the "initiation" meeting, Dunne, on vacation Friday when Hansen was sworn in, came over to shake the new commissioner's hand.

Decision Friday Whether Board Violated Law

by TOM WELLMAN

The Cook County state's attorney's office will hold an informal hearing Friday to determine if High School Dist. 214 board members and officials should be charged with violating the Illinois Open Meeting Law.

Dan Miroballi, an assistant state's attorney, said he was acting on an oral complaint filed by Mrs. Lynne Heidt, 6 Marberry St. in Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Heidt asserted that the Dist. 214 school board, which met last Monday night, violated a portion of the Illinois Open Meeting Law during a portion of the closed meeting.

Miroballi said the hearing was called to determine whether or not to prosecute officials and board members in the district. He explained that hearings such as this are set up to screen and investigate complaints.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the district said Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent, would cooperate with the state's attorney's office. He explained that letters have been sent to board members and Dr. Gilbert by the state's attorney's office.

Arthur Aronson, board president, said he was surprised by the news of the state's attorney's action. He said he had not received any notification from the state's atorney's office of the action.

The hearing, closed to the press, is set for 10 a.m. in Chicago.

The closed session which is the basis for the informal complaint began at about 12:50 a.m. last Tuesday morning after the board had been in open session for almost five hours.

A personnel matter was discussed in the first portion of the closed session. After that, however, the board members, with several administrators from the district present, continued an earlier discussion of admission of groups to Dist. 214 facilities and the district's insurance coverage.

Aronson said later no action was reached in the meeting.

THE CLOSED MEETING discussion followed an occasionally heated discussion of using Dist. 214 facilities for showing films such as "Year of the Pig," an anti-war documentary on the Vietnam War.

Board member Frank Bergen at the beginning of the discussion in the open meeting criticized the showing of the film and asked about the district's insurance coverage in case of a confrontation.

The film was shown in several Dist. 214 high schools in mid-January, as well as at Harper College and at several churches.

The Open Meeting Act allows only five kinds of meetings that can be closed to the press and public: discussion of acquisition of real estate, collective bargaining negotiations, discussion of pending court action, discussion of hiring or firing an employee or discussion of a student discipline matter.

THE ACT IS BACKED up by criminal penalties of a fine of up to $100, thirty days in jail, or both for each violation. The court is also empowered to issue civil writs of mandamus requiring improperly closed meetings or meetings held without proper notice be opened and proper notice given.

After Mrs. Heidt filed her informal complaint with the state's attorney's office, a second woman, Mrs. Richard Clawses, 203 N. Parkway in Prospect Heights, attempted to file a formal complaint with the same office.

However, she was told by a spokesman for the office that Mrs. Heidt's informal complaint had already been filed and a formal complaint would not be permitted. Mrs. Clawses said yesterday that she had contacted at least one state legislator and planned to try to contact State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan about filing a complaint.

Mrs. Clawses told the Herald that she wanted stronger action than a hearing merely to determine whether or not to file charges.

Joseph Wellman Resigns From NAW

Joseph Wellman, a member of Neighbors at Work (NAW) organization in Elk Grove Village, has resigned from that group.

Wellman played a key role last month as chairman of an ad hoc committee on housing to put 15 mobile homes for displaced Mexican-American families in the village.

The plan failed, however, when the village board voted down the proposal after a public hearing attended by some 800 persons.

WELLMAN SAID HE resigned from NAW because of an increased workload in his job as a social studies teacher in Elk Grove High School.

However, the Herald learned that Wellman did not agree with some of the methods used by NAW to solve the housing problem of the families.

Wellman still remains a member of a task force which plans to solve the housing problem by bringing moderate cost housing to the area. The task force is chaired by William Koretke, 81 Walpole.

Seal Drive Is Seeking $492,000

A door-to-door request for funds for the Chicago Easter Seal Society will begin in Prospect Heights on March 17 and continue through March 21.

Collection deposit point for the Prospect Heights volunteers is the office of community chairman Barton Stull, 9B N. Elmhurst Road.

The Easter Seal Society hopes to raise $492,000 for crippled persons in the Chicago area.

The majority of funds raised in the Easter Seal campaign are used to support two Chicago treatment centers. The centers, located at 5903 W. Fulton and 1041 S. Michigan, offer physical, speech and occupational therapy for crippled children.

In addition, the Society maintains the Adult Homebound Industrial Program, which provides industrial subcontract work for handicapped adults confined to their homes, and the Equipment Loan Pool which loans orthopedic equipment to the needy.

Last year the Chicago Easter Seal Society provided nearly 22,000 services to the handicapped children and adults of Chicago.

Female (Dog) Lost; Wants to Go Home

Help wanted: a friendly, four-month-old female collie is lost and can't find her way home.

The collie, who answers to practically any name you call her, found a place to come in out of the cold last weekend, but she is still looking for her owners.

Mrs. Leah Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, told the Herald she found the pooch wandering around outside and took her in to get warm. Since then she has been trying to locate the dog's owner, but so far has not had any luck.

The dog is black with a tan face and paws and white under the neck and on her chest.

"It's a terribly playful dog and I'm sure someone must miss it," she said.

Anyone who has lost a dog answering this description may contact Mrs. Cummins at 439-1066.

Many Favor Tax to Get Sidewalks

Many residents in Prospect Heights are concerned about the safety of children walking to school along streets with no sidewalks. And many of these residents are willing to pay a moderate tax to install sidewalks at all Prospect Heights schools. In this week's "Opinion Please" column most residents called by the Herald said they would vote "yes" in a referendum to install sidewalks. Only a few said they would vote "no."

Mrs. Connie Bloomer's, children attend Catholic Schools but she is still willing to pay a tax to install walks at public schools. Why?

"It is a necessary safety measure for the children."

George Miller, 4 N. Parkway, said he would have to think about it some more before deciding how he would vote on such a referendum. He said he didn't know there weren't sidewalks at all of the schools, mainly because he doesn't have any children. Miller added, "there are enough taxes already."

Another "yes" would be voted by Mrs. Janet Wilson, 416 Indigo, on the referendum. She said she is concerned about the safety of her daughter, who entered the first grade this year, and all of the children walking to school. Her daughter attends Indian Grove School and can walk on sidewalks until she gets to Lee Street.

It doesn't make much difference to Mrs. Anne Olson, 407 Etowah, if a referendum is held for sidewalks because "my children will come home wet and sloppy anyway." She said he children cut through a field to get to school now and have complained about the lack of sidewalks. She added, "my little one would still be a mess even if they had a six-foot-wide walk."

William Morrissey, 81 Maple, is in favor of installation of sidewalks and is willing to pay for it because "I don't want to see children on the streets." His children, however, are bussed to school so they don't have to worry about walks.

Virginia Hayes, 35 E. Stonegate, doesn't have any school age children but she is willing to pay a tax for sidewalks because "I feel safety is important and I appreciate the fact we have to take care of the children."

Although all of her children are married now, Mrs. Edna Johnson, 22 W. Hintz, said she would be willing to pay a tax for sidewalks because "it is a problem for children walking to school without them."

Mrs. Nancy Rogers, 101 W. Palatine Rd. doesn't have any children attending school either. She said she hasn't been aware of on a referendum to install them.

She may be too young to vote on a referendum, but Kathy Smith, 301 W. Olive, is well aware of the problem many of her fellow students at Hershey High school have walking to school. She said "it is a hazard for students who have to walk down Euclid and cross Rand Road because neither has sidewalks. Several parents objected to their children being transferred to Hershey after it was built because of this hazard."

Mrs. Dorothy Williams, 1405 Orchard, says she wouldn't vote yes on such a referendum because "the situation is OK the way it is." She said the school in her area, Indian Grove, already has sidewalks.

Charge Driver In Auto Crash

Clyde T. Zumwalt 40, of 251 E. Dennis in Wheeling, is charged with driving while intoxicated, resisting a police officer, and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident Friday by Wheeling Police.

Police filed the charges following a three-car accident at 8:15 p.m. on the west side of Milwaukee Avenue 20 feet south of 241 S. Milwaukee Ave.

All three drivers involved in the accident complained of minor injuries, but refused treatment.

Virginia Smith, 17, of Northbrook and Patricia Riley, 17, of Park Forest, were the other drivers involved. Zumwalt was the only driver charged, however.

Influence Is Picketing Goal

They picketed the Strathmore subdivision model homes site last Sunday. And they plan to do the same again. They are afraid their children will be attending overcrowded schools in Lake County School Dist. 96, and they want Levitt and Sons to do something about it.

"They" are members of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) who picketed Sunday. Most of them were from the subdivision's Lake County portion, though a few came from the Cook County portion.

Said James Shirley, who was one of those picketing: "I was out there Sunday because I support what the school district is asking for."

"A SCHOOL IS MORE than a building. I look at that site (a 5.6-acre site at the southwest corner of the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove) and I see just enough room there for a school. No room for a playground. We want a decent playground for the kids where we can conduct formal recreational activities for them."

"If nothing else, I would say the picketing shows the willingness of the residents to support the request made by the school board."

"We think we might be able to influence the situation."

Evangelist Bill Hall To Conduct Services

Evangelist Bill Hall will conduct special evangelist services at the Prospect Heights Baptist Church on Camp McDonald Road, from Feb. 8 to 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Hall, a native of Memphis, Tenn., began preaching at 13. He has preached over 1,000 radio messages and conducted over 3,000 evangelistic campaigns in 41 states.

The evangelist is a graduate of Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C.

Students of Month Selected at School

January "Citizens of the Month" at the Joyce Kilmer School in Buffalo Grove are fifth grader Susan Safford and sixth grader Eddie Opitz.

The students were chosen by their classmates to be Citizens of the Month.

we're accomplishing something with our picketing. We're making potential buyers aware of the problems. I feel it helps our cause and it renders a service to potential buyers."

Mrs. Stanford said she learned of the problems last November. "We realized there wasn't adequate land available to build a school big enough for all the children in the area. My children's classes are getting bigger."

She added, "I think the school district is doing a real good job with the problems it's having."

According to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the SHA schools committee, as many as 150 persons might be involved in next weekend's picketing: "Most of the persons volunteering are from the Lake County portion of Strathmore, but we had a few persons from the Cook County part volunteer yesterday, too. Hopefully, we can get some residents from Long Grove to picket next week."

THE SHA PLANS to expand the picketing next weekend. And, according to Mrs. Alltop, "We think it will influence the situation. It might take a week or two to get the idea across, but we feel it's one of the ways we can help the school district."

Group Has Bill By The Horns

Opposition to House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation, is being launched by the Unincorporated Homeowners Legislative Committee, a group of residents from unincorporated areas of Cook County.

A formal statement opposing the bill will be delivered to the State Senate Subcommittee on municipal corporations, now studying the bill, by the homeowners committee.

The Senate subcommittee is in the process of holding a series of hearings on the bill across the state to "test the reactions of voters," according to George Warnecke, Senate staff assistant to the subcommittee.

A HEARING ON the bill in the Northwest suburbs is slated for June, culminating a series of seven hearings which began in December. The next hearing will be held Wednesday in Wheaton.

Members of the homeowners "watch-dog" committee, representing residents in unincorporated areas in Des Plaines, Prospect Heights, Palos Heights, Palatine and Roselle, agreed at a meeting Sunday to send at least one person to each of the hearings.

The homeowners committee was formed last year by Mrs. Marie Caylor, Prospect Heights, after the Senate municipal corporations committee referred HB 1241 to a subcommittee for further study.

"It is important to let these people know there are residents keeping an eye open on what they're doing," Mrs. Caylor told the committee Sunday.

"AS HB 1241 stands now, I think it will die," said Mrs. Caylor. "After the hearing in Waukegan, chairman of the Senate subcommittee, Sen. Karl Berning, told me they plan to restudy the bill after the hearings. He said it is possible nothing will be done with this bill."

"My feeling from State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, sponsor of the bill, is that the bill will have to be amended drastically or they will have to start over again with a new bill, because of opposition from residents in unincorporated areas."

"I think it's impossible to amend HB 1241," added Mrs. Caylor.

At the meeting, members of the watchdog committee, also agreed to keep an eye out for the activities of the Zoning Laws Study Commission, which is reviewing laws affecting land use throughout the state with recommendations to be made to the 1971 General Assembly.

IN COMPARING PROBLEMS, better relationships with township government was suggested as one solution. A representative from Palos Heights said Worth Township had agreed to include a Civil Defense program for its area in its budget. He also said his unincorporated area had written a letter to the township board of auditors requesting more protection through contract policing with the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

On the question of incorporation versus annexation, most of the members agreed no choice should be made until both had been thoroughly investigated. "It would be community suicide to jump into incorporation or annexation without studying the situation," Mrs. Caylor said.

Homes Pickets Slated

More pickets are planned for this weekend at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

SATURDAY'S DECISION followed several months of discussions among the school district, Levitt representatives, and occasionally village officials, over the lack of a sufficient number of school sites in Buffalo Grove's Lake County portion.

Almost all of the village's Lake County portion is taken up with Levitt's Strathmore development. The Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove is included in Dist. 96. That district's lone facility, Kildeer Countryside School, is located in Long Grove.

The land which the school district wants is located in the northwestern portion of the village on Arlington Heights Road, south of Highway 83.

The school district had offered to pay Levitt for the land at the price of $3,000 an acre. Levitt officials, however, said they were "dismayed" at the offer.

LAST FRIDAY, Levitt offered to sell the district either one of two 10-acre sites in the area, according to Mrs. Adeline Geokaris, the school district attorney, the price for the 10 acres would have been about $255,000. That offer was termed "obviously ridiculous" by Arthur Edmunds, school district president.

Following the board's decision Saturday to file the condemnation suit, the SHA decided to go ahead with a plan formulated earlier last week to picket and hand out leaflets at Levitt's model homes site.

According to Mrs. Alltop, "The (week-end) picketing will be continuous until negotiations between Levitt and the school board start again."

SHE SAID THAT, in all, about 25 persons picketed last Sunday. Pickets were set up in shifts, with each "shift" working for an hour. She said that "We're working with about 150 people, in all, next weekend."

Of the picketing, Mrs. Alltop said, "We think it will influence the situation. It might take a week or two to get the idea across, but we feel it is one of the ways we can help."

2 Bank Money Pouches Lost With $1,023.53

Anybody find $1,023.53?

William Hein, of Wheeling Auto Parts Co., reported to Wheeling police at 7:45 p.m. Friday that he had lost two bank money pouches containing checks and cash.

Hein, who lives at 634 N. Wayne, told police that sometime after 6 p.m. Friday he had misplaced a blue money pouch from the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank containing $375.25 and a red pouch from the Bank of Mundelein containing $648.28.

Hein lost the checks between his business and his home, police reports indicated.

How Do You Like Local Shopping?

Currently virtually all stores in Buffalo Grove are located in the Ranch Mart Shopping Center. In March, however, the new Buffalo Grove Mall is scheduled to open. In today's "Opinions Please" column, the Herald quizzed residents on where they shop and what they think of local shopping facilities.

"Adequate" is the way Mrs. Robert Grens, 486 Raupp Blvd., described shopping facilities in the village.

Mrs. Grens said she buys most of the food for her family in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, and much of the family's clothing at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect.

"We could use a coffee shop in Buffalo Grove," Mrs. Grens stated. "And bus service to Randhurst would be nice, but I'm not dissatisfied. I feel that the advantages outweigh the disadvantages."

"I would like to see a theater in town," she added. "Older people don't want to go to a drive-in."

"The food stores are okay, but they're too expensive," said Mrs. James Hooper, 391 Diane Drive.

"I do most of my shopping in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, except once in a while when I go to Randhurst for clothing. I do wish there was a nice children's clothing store in town and a movie theater."

"I HAVE NO complaints at all about the shopping," said Mrs. John Smith, 969 Harvard Lane. "All the sales people have been very nice to me."

Mrs. Smith said she buys food and drugs in Buffalo Grove and shops at larger shopping centers, such as Randhurst, for clothing.

"I would like to see a nice dress shop in Buffalo Grove, but I don't know if it would do a good business here or not," she added.

"Food stores here are all right," said Mrs. Charles Gramer, 43 Crestview Trail. "I like to shop at Carson's too, although it's a little too far for me to drive."

"I do wish there was a shop that sold children's clothing in town," she continued. "We need some fine-grade clothing stores. We also need buses. I like to get on a bus and go somewhere."

SAID MRS. HOWARD BRAUN, 345 Rosewood, "I usually shop in stores outside of Buffalo Grove, such as Randhurst, but the stores in Buffalo Grove are all right. I can't complain that much, although I would like to see a theater in town."

"We need another food store in town," said Mrs. Richard Erickson, 248 Forest Place. "That's why it will be nice when the new shopping center opens up. The greatest thing in the new center will be the ice cream store."

"I do most of my shopping in Buffalo Grove, the rest in other communities, are poorly managed," she added. "I would like a theater built here."

"I HAVE NO complaints about the shopping," said Mrs. Thomas Mahoney, 1023 Whitehall Drive. "I think they are adequate, especially with the opening of the new shopping center. I do miss having a shoe repair shop in town. We have to go into Wheeling."

Mrs. Mahoney said she does "about 50 per cent" of her shopping in Buffalo Grove, the rest in other communities.

"We're in a prime area as far as shopping centers go," she said. "I can drive anywhere in 10 or 15 minutes."

Said Mrs. Charles Patterson, 180 Timber Hill Road, "The clothing stores in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove aren't adequate. We need a few nice clothing stores, and also a theater and liquor store."

"I would say the dry cleaning, beauty and drug stores are adequate, but the food stores should be expanded," she added.

were there Sunday because of a dispute between Levitt and Lake County School Dist. 96 over lack of school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove.

Influence Is Picketing Goal

They picketed the Strathmore subdivision model homes site last Sunday. And they plan to do the same again. They are afraid their children will be attending overcrowded schools in Lake County School Dist. 96, and they want Levitt and Sons to do something about it.

"They" are members of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) who picketed Sunday. Most of them were from the subdivision's Lake County portion, though a few came from the Cook County portion.

Said James Shirley, who was one of those picketing: "I was out there Sunday because I support what the school district is asking for."

A SCHOOL IS MORE than a building. I look at that site (a 5.6-acre site at the southwest corner of the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove) and I see just enough room there for a school. No room for a playground. We want a decent playground for the kids where we can conduct formal recreational activities for them.

"I f nothing else, I would say the picketing shows the willingness of the residents to support the request made by the school board."

"We think we might be able to influence the situation."

Mrs. Edie Dolin, who has lived in Buffalo Grove since last July, said "I rope this (the picketing) will influence the situation and I think it will. I want to do something to help get a school."

Mrs. Joan Sundt said she picketed Sunday "because I feel we must have school land, now, before it's built upon." As to why she picketed, "When you feel strongly about something, you do what you can to make it happen."

ANOTHER OF THE pickets was Eugene Gaines. "We moved in Sept. 30. I have one school-age child and another who is 5-years-old. She'll be going to school next year, though I don't know what's going to happen with the present school situation."

"My wife and I learned about the problem about two months ago. All of a sudden I found out my kid was going to be going on half sessions up at Kildeer School."

"I was out there (picketing) because I figure that if Levitt doesn't get any response from possible home buyers, that maybe Levitt will sit down and talk with the school district. I think anyone that buys land for a subdivision ought to make an allocation for schools."

MRS. JOAN STANFORD said two reasons were behind her picketing: "I think we're accomplishing something with our picketing. We're making potential buyers aware of the problems. I feel it helps our

Vote Is Delayed

Local residents living within the Wheeling Public Library District may have to wait until April 4 before voting on purchase of a church building for the district's library facility.

The library district had planned to hold a referendum Feb. 21. Voters were to have considered issuing bonds for the purchase and remodeling of St. Mark United Church of Christ in Wheeling. Also on the ballot was a proposal to raise the library tax rate.

The library district's boundaries include Wheeling and the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

The referendum was originally planned for Feb. 21, by the Wheeling Public Library District Board. It may have to be postponed because of a requirement in state statutes that a notice of proceedings on the plans for the building, cost estimates, and the terms of bonds must be posted for 30 days before an ordinance setting the referendum date can be passed.

LIBRARY board members had originally planned to pass the ordinance for the referendum at tonight's meeting, but now may have to wait 30 days before such an ordinance can be passed. A final decision on whether the referendum will have to be postponed will be made at tonight's meeting.

It is possible the ordinance can be passed tonight because copies of Herald articles describing the referendum have been posted in the library as have other notices of the referendum. No formal legal document has been posted, however.

One part of the two-ballot referendum asks voters to approve the issuance of $250,000 in general obligation bonds for the purchase and remodeling of the church as the district's library facility.

Currently the library is housed in a rented storefront on Milwaukee Avenue near Dundee Road.

THE SECOND part asks voters to approve a tax rate increase from 12 to 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Because the two questions are on separate ballots, voters may approve one of the propositions without approving the other.

Passage of both ballots would mean a 12-cent tax rate hike per $100 of assessed valuation for district residents.

Homeowners in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove whose homes are assessed at $10,000 for taxing purposes would pay $24 yearly to the library district instead of $12.

The part of the increase resulting from the purchase and remodeling of the church would be $4. The other $8 of the $12 increase would be spent for the expansion of library district operations.

THE DISTRICT'S board has a six-month option agreement to buy the church for $38,200. The $250,000 in bonds includes that purchase price, $71,000 for remodeling the interior and exterior of the church to make it suitable for library use, $50,000 for furniture for the new library, and $25,000 for additional books.

The remaining $14,000 would be for miscellaneous expenditures.

New Homes To Be Picketed

More pickets are planned for this weekend at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Only 2 Weeks Left To Purchase Sticker

If you haven't done so already, you have about two weeks in which to buy a Buffalo Grove village vehicle sticker.

Cost of the sticker is $5 for passenger cars. Rates for trucks vary according to the truck's rate.

Stickers can be purchased at the village hall on Raupp Boulevard just south of Lake-Cook Road.

The village hall is open from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Mondays.

For the next three Saturdays, however, village officials have extended the office hours. The village hall will be open from 9 a.m. until noon for the next three Saturdays. On Saturday, Feb. 14, the village hall will also be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Village officials said they have registered 1,291 vehicles to date this year. Last year at this time they registered about 930 vehicles. The police estimated there are about 4,000 vehicles in the village.

Park Serving Volleyball

Need a little exercise to take off a few pounds or a chance to get away from the kids?

A volleyball class is starting in the River Trails Park district just for women.

It begins tomorrow in the River Trails Junior High School gym from 8 to 10 p.m. "It is not necessary to have experience in volleyball to join," said Marvin Weiss, park director. "Games will be played between teams in class and with other park district teams."

Fee for the nine-week class is $5. Residents may register by calling the park office at 296-4406.

Registration is also open for the Saturday "potpourri" program for fourth, fifth and sixth grade students.

HEADING FOR A TUMBLE? Shaky legs often crop up when roller skating time comes around. Throngs of youngsters have been flocking to the Wheeling High School fieldhouse this winter to enjoy roller skating sessions sponsored by the Community School Services program in Wheeling. # Skyscraper: It Really Isn't Exciting Anyone

Some Mount Prospect residents have few words for the Randhurst professional office building, the first skyscraper to be built in this community.

According to a random telephone survey taken by the Herald, residents haven't given much thought to the town's first 10-story building. Although blueprints for the building are still on the drawing boards, the skyscraper isn't a controversial issue in the community at this time.

Only one of the 25 residents who cooperated with the survey had a definite opinion on whether or not to build a 10-story building in Mount Prospect, while 24 other residents admitted they hadn't even thought about it.

And when asked to cast a vote, approving or disapproving of a building of this height, 24 housewives admitted they couldn't care less.

MRS. ROY HORTON of 1419 S. Redwood Drive was the only resident who had a definite opinion on the 10-story building and any plans to build high rises in the community in the future.

"I definitely object to building any high rises in this area. There's more than enough traffic in this area now and building high rises would only add to the traffic safety problems," Mrs. Horton told the Herald.

"Well, I really haven't thought much about it. I know there's a high rise at Old Orchard and I guess it's much the same situation at Randhurst. I'd hate to see a high rise on Main Street but Randhurst is really an oasis surrounded by acres and acres of parking lots. Quite frankly, I don't think there's much aesthetic value to the whole place (Randhurst)," Mrs. Bruce Brothers of 1102 Lincoln Street told the Herald.

MRS. VICTOR CRANDALL, 105 Dogwood Lane, said the office building seems like a good idea if it will draw more professional people to the community. "I'm against apartment buildings of this size or even smaller, but an office building is a good idea. We need more doctors, dentists and professional people in town," she said.

The survey indicated the majority of residents had no opinion on the subject because they didn't think the office building at Randhurst would affect them.

"I have no feelings about it either way. We live in the older part of town where there's no room to build a high-rise office building or apartment complex, so I'm not worried. It wouldn't bother me one way or the other if we had them in the town," Mrs. Edwin Heinrich of 421 N. Fairview

Street said.

THE SURVEY was taken after the Herald received a letter from Mrs. Howard L. Sandlund of 932 Greenfield Court. Mrs. Sandlund expressed her dissatisfaction over the 10-story building and inquired if other people shared her concern over turning the community into a commercial city.

"I have read about the new 10-story office building being built on the Randhurst land. Words could never express how sad I feel. Is a gas station on every corner and a high-rise shopping center at every major intersection what people really want?"

"The village board thinks that the increased revenue warrants this variation of our zoning regulation. Maybe I'm wrong but I doubt that most of us agree. If we were looking for a place to live where industry and commerce pay for governmental services, we'd have chosen to live in Chicago," Mrs. Sandlund wrote.

IN A RECENT survey sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees, the majority of residents said it does not favor an open housing ordinance, more apartment buildings, increased taxes and high-rise buildings.

Residents said these four events would destroy "village atmosphere."

Black Panther, Rush, To Talk

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism, Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

Sandwiches... Or Politics?

One of Arlington Heights' most famous women politicians spoke out on women's rights Friday, and particularly about the rights of women in politics.

Eugenia Chapman, Democratic state representative for the 3rd District, said current discussions about having more women represented in Arlington Heights village government is a good thing.

"I agree we should not appoint women to high positions just because they are members of the fair sex," she said. "I never agreed to that. But I am concerned that voters and office holders sometimes think of men first when they think of qualified office holders. Qualified candidates can be men or women... as long as they are qualified it doesn't matter what sex they are."

MRS. CHAPMAN said she thinks something is amiss in Arlington Heights when there have been no prominent female officeholders on the village board in the past 15 years. "Surely there must have been one well-qualified, excellent woman candidate in the village in all that time."

And most of all, she thinks there is still too much of the attitude in the village that comes at the end of each political meeting when the chairman rises and says "... and thank you, ladies, for the delicious sandwiches."

Jazz Festival Set At Oak Lawn High

will participate in the 11th annual Chicago-Land Jazz Festival Saturday at Oak Lawn Community High School in Oak Lawn.

Spelunking Scouts Visit Wisconsin

Arlington Heights Boy Scout troops 34 and 135 spent last weekend exploring caves in southwest Wisconsin's Blackhawk country.

Under the supervision of John Cornell, Arlington Heights, and Ned Harkness, Prospect Heights, the 60 boys spent Saturday night in the caverns of Eagle Cave, the largest in the state. The scouts also went tobogganing and hiking in the park surrounding the caverns.

They cooked their own meals in a new log dining lodge adjacent to the cave. The local scouts were part of a group of 200 boys from the midwest who visited the area this weekend.

Barrett Promoted By Army in Berlin

George Barrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wittenberg of 30 Willow Trail in Wheeling, was promoted recently to the rank of Army private first class.

He is currently serving with the 4th battalion, 18th Infantry, in West Berlin.

Barrett graduated from Wheeling High School in June 1969. He enlisted in the Army in August, 1969.

BLACK PANTHER leader Bobby Rush will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday night. Appearance of Rush was arranged by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

Carl Hansen Attends First Meeting—Gets A Surprise

Mount Prospect's Carl Hansen attended his first Cook County board meeting as a commissioner Monday, and to his surprise, got his name on more legislation than any other board member.

To the uninitiated, the speed at which the county board conducts its business keeps a person wondering, where on the agenda, the board is. The only time to catch up is when commissioners take the president's chair to conduct committee meetings.

It is also common for the committee chairman to make and second the motions needed, giving credit for the motion to a commissioner of one party and the motion's second to a commissioner of the other party.

THUS, WHEN Commissioner Charles Bonk, Public Service committee chairman, said "seconded by Hansen" in rapid-fire delivery Monday, the new commissioner looked up startled. Hansen turned to fellow Republican Floyd Fulle as if to ask what had happened.

Noticing Hansen's reaction, Bonk grinned and Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne smiled broadly. Hansen's name was used twice again by then, Hansen was grinning.

After the "initiation" meeting, Dunne, on vacation Friday when Hansen was sworn in, came over to shake the new commissioner's hand.

93rd Year—55 Palatine, Illinois 60067 Tuesday, February 3, 1970 2 Sections, 16 Pages Home Delivery 25c a week — 10c a Copy

CHARLES T. JEFFRIES of 726 N. Glenn Drive, Palatine, puts the finishing touches on a paper receptacle located in the Palatine Plaza. The Westside

Community Paper Stock Corporation is collecting waste paper as part of a self-help program for Chicago's black community. The paper is sent to mills where it is re-processed. The reprocessing helps fight pollution, aids conservation and serves a humanitarian purpose, says Jeffries.

Study Plan For Setting Aside Funds

Palatine village officials are studying a 5-year, $4.4 million capital improvement program which sets aside funds for the planning of a new $1 million civic center and the construction of a new $1.2 million library.

The village's first capital improvement program also raises the possibility of housing the police and fire departments under the same roof in the civic center.

Suggesting that $10,000 be set aside for planning a new civic center, the report was prepared by village administrators headed by Village Mgr. Berton Braun.

"While major construction of a new village hall is still several years off," the report says, "this first capital improvement budget recognizes that the needs for additional administrative facilities will become acute in the next five years."

"ACCORDINGLY," the report continues, "this budget includes planning money for a site plan and other work preparatory to such a development."

"The term 'Civic Center' has been used in this context to point up the fact that policy decisions will have to be made determining the exact facilities to be included within future building construction plans."

The village's board of library directors, the report notes is studying possible sites for a new library building.

"Certainly a site should be acquired and plans made for the construction of a new library during the next five years," Braun said.

Through 1973-74 the report allocates $10,000 for plans and $250,000 for site acquisition. The report estimates the construction contract will cost $1 million for the library.

THE REPORT CALLS on village officials to decide how long the village wants to use its present police facilities.

"The rapid increase in the strength of the police department has put severe pressure on the available space in the police station and its accessory parking areas," explained the Village Manager.

"While it is quite feasible to build limited-cost additions onto the police station," the report says, "such expenditures should not be undertaken until a decision has been made on continuing the present police building in service indefinitely, or including police facilities with a future municipal building which may be built in the next 10 years."

The report also calls for a decision of fire department facilities.

"WHILE THERE IS no immediate need for a third fire station, redevelopment activities in the downtown area may make it desirable to relocate the equipment now being housed at the State Street station."

A decision should be made, the report says, as to whether a new fire station is to be built or whether fire station facilities are to be included within a new municipal building.

The report also calls for the construction of a $50,000 drill tower to help train firemen by the end of the program.

The proposed program allocates $1,110,192 for streets, $1,226,600 for the water system, $573,500 for the sewer system, $216,900 for street lighting, $502,000 for public buildings, $132,500 for fire equipment, $401,500 for the transportation center and $300,000 for the parking system during the next four years.

THE FIRST YEAR of the program is listed as 1969-70, Braun said to "convey some idea of the kind of work that was done within the framework of the current year's operating budget."

To help finance the projects, the report recommends that a new capital improvement fund be created from the village's share of the state income tax. The new fund will contribute $1,289,000 of the financing.

An estimated $1,236,692 will come from the motor fuel tax, $537,000 from special assessments, $1,084,000 from water funds, $10,000 from the library fund budget, $100,900 from the general operating fund and $205,600 from private funds.

The 66-page, eight part program also calls for the construction of a $1.6 million transportation center at Smith and Colfax streets plus a $33,000 addition to the police station and an $80,000 addition to the public works garage.

Braun, who has been working on the report, for the last seven months, said yesterday the program is meant as a guide to village officials in their fiscal planning through 1973-74.

This Company Begins on Paper

by AL GREENE

"One man's waste is another man's raw materials."

So says Charles T. Jeffries, chairman of the Social Concerns Committee of the Countryside Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship in Palatine.

Jeffries is the local force behind what he hopes will be a perpetual paper drive that will help the black community of Chicago help itself.

"Suburban and white America has been handing off its garbage to the black American," said Jeffries, "so it is not too far fetched for them to hand off their paper."

The paper, which in Palatine is being collected in the Palatine Plaza, north of Palatine Road in a five feet high yellow receptacle, is collected by the West Side Community Paper Stock Corp., at 1900 W. 13th St., in Chicago.

THE PAPER company wraps and weighs the paper and then sends it off to paper mills where it is reprocessed and comes out looking like new.

The company is the first business enterprise of the West Side Community Development Corporation, a new black community coalition composed of the following five West side groups: The West Side Organization, The Conservative Vice Lords,

The Student Afro-American Group, The Egyptian Cobras and The Garfield Organization.

Although the groups differ in their histories and resources, Jeffries said, they all "have a common commitment to the strategy of community capitalism and the ability to mobilize the energies of their community peoples."

Working with the Container Corporation of America, the group was able to secure a $200,000 loan in order to start the paper company.

It is expected to be fully operational within three weeks and, once it gets going, is slated to employ about 30 people at its 13th Street office.

Jeffries emphasized that the paper drive is being conducted on three different levels.

"HUMAN FELLOWSHIP," he said, "is something that all men believe in. However, rarely do we take time to extend this belief as fully as possible in our everyday lives. Here is opportunity."

The group has set goals of providing job opportunities, business experience and economic independence to and for its communities.

By giving that old stack of papers, Jeffries said, an individual is also helping to preserve the country's natural resources and aiding the fight against pollution.

If people use reprocessed paper, he explains simply, then the paper mills do not have to cut down as many trees to meet paper demands.

"Air and water pollution," Jeffries continued, "are always produced in a pulp and papermaking operation."

The paper processes require large quantities of water for make-up, process and rinse operations. In addition, air blown gases are usually produced as a result of certain chemical reactions that must take place in order to manufacture paper products, he said.

"THE POWER producing machines such as steam generators, turbines and furnaces are constantly polluting the air by releasing incompletely burned or reacted products into the environment, he said.

The reprocessing of paper, he said, eliminates most of this pollution.

Jeffries said he considers himself a man of two worlds — one black and one white. "I felt that as a native Chicagoan and now a northwest suburbanite I had a commitment to the black community," he said.

Realizing that no man wants charity, he said he developed the concept of one man's waste being another man's product. "This is not charity," Jeffries said, "rather it is anti-pollution, pro-conservation and very much pro-human fellowship."

The paper company needs about 500 tons a month to break even in its non-profit venture, and every litter bit helps.

Golf Course Still Has 'Nine' Holes

Palatine's nine-hole golf course will remain a golf course for a little while longer.

The Cook County Board of Commissioners yesterday delayed action on a special use request by Sellergren Brothers, Inc., to give the development firm and Palatine

Village officials a chance to settle their differences, according to Commissioner Floyd Fulle.

The firm has filed a special use request which, if granted, will allow the construction of 1,350 apartments in five, 10-story buildings in Palatine Township.

The proposed development will be located on a 66-acre tract at Baldwin and Hicks road across from the Palatine Plaza Shopping Center formerly owned by Elmer Gleich.

Village officials have objected to the development because they have said, they would like a voice in the planning of an area totally surrounded by the village.

Fulle said he asked for the delay because in addition to giving local officials time to agree, he wanted some information that was not included in the present plans.

Specifically, he said, the private water supplier mentioned in the plans has yet to be certified to supply the development with water.

Palatine, Fulle said, could sell water to the developer. In any case, he added, the water supply question must be worked out before approval is forthcoming.

Second, Fulle said, he was interested in how the high density housing would affect the local traffic patterns.

Fulle said the county's zoning board of appeals approved the special project because it felt that the small percentage of land to be taken used by the project would be good for the area.

He noted that the former owner of the property Elmer Gleich, had proposed a project that would make use of more of the land.

"Doubling the density of the land might be a mistake," he said.

When a government approves a project as large as this one which will have the impact as this one and then the government has to revise the plans by widening roads or adding water, all the taxpayers pay, Fulle said. This was the reason, he said, he wanted to be sure of the plans.

The 15-member board unanimously approved the delay, he said.

Not Look Alikes But Think Alikes

Teachers and students do not usually look alike, but according to a recent survey they come fairly close to thinking alike.

The survey was a semantics differential test that was given to 1,600 teachers and senior students by the Teacher's Institute committee of Palatine-Schaumburg High School Dist. 211.

The object of the test, which is similar to a word association test, was to determine how a teacher and a student felt about one particular subject, and to see if there was a difference between their feelings.

With the test results in, and the data compiled, it is apparent that there is little difference between the values of Dist. 211 teachers and students, according to John O'Dell, administrative assistant to the superintendent.

O'DELL SAID participants were given a list of about 30 words such as freedom, Vietnam, S.D.S., and other socially relevant terms; and they were asked to rate them on a value scale ranging from good to bad.

Although there was no significant difference between the values teachers and students placed on each of the words, there was a difference between what both test groups listed as being the most important to them, as well as what was the most disagreeable.

In descending order, the following are what students placed highest on their value scale: Love, freedom, sex, marriage, cars, mother, father, money, future and football.

TEACHERS also placed love, freedom and sex in the top three spots. But starting with their fourth choice, a difference was evident. They chose mother, marriage, father, myself, future, work and money for the remaining seven spots.

At the opposite end of the scale, students ranked Vietnam, Communism, drugs, S.D.S., smoking, marijuana, grades, dress codes, society and whiskey as being the 10 social issues they felt most negatively toward.

Teachers ranked the same words in the category of the 10 most negative values, with one exception, however. Where whiskey placed number 10 with students, teachers picked government.

WHAT THE SEMANTICS differential indicates is that there really is no "generation gap" between students and teachers in Dist. 211, according to O'Dell.

O'Dell said the median age for teachers in the district is roughly 26, and that this factor probably accounts for much of the similarity between the test results of the students and the teachers.

Dems to Honor Peter Gerling

Palatine Township Democrats will honor Democratic Committeeman Peter J. Gerling at a dance Saturday, Feb. 21, in Barrington.

Gerling is seeking election to a full four-year term as committeeman on March 17. He was appointed to the position in 1968 following the resignation of Oliver Dilks.

Music for the dance, to be held in the Barrington Knights of Columbus Hall, will be provided by the David Hans Quintet.

Democratic candidates for various state and local offices are expected to attend the dance.

Tickets may be obtained from any Democratic precinct captain or by calling 339-5232 or 339-1252.

The Knights of Columbus Hall is on Kelsey Road, three miles west of Route 59.

Welcome Mat Out For You, Mr. Policeman

Palatine policeman John Robertson received a warm welcome Saturday afternoon when he answered a complaint at 1351 Michele Drive in the Winston Park area.

Mr. T. P. Keeley had summoned police about 1:50 after he had answered his doorbell and found his welcome mat burning near his door, police said.

Police said someone had poured a volatile liquid on the mat and set it ablaze.

Keeley picked up the mat and threw it onto his front lawn where it burned itself out, police said.

They're All Against Wall With Rollers

"Banker, lawyer, Indian chief. . ." it made no difference for a group of Palatine men last weekend.

They were up against the wall with roller or brush in hand, and they were painting. The wall was one of the many new concrete brick walls at the Countryside

Center for the Handicapped. And the men were Rotarians.

Just like men from all professions, businesses and trades find something in common by being a Rotarian, the men at Countryside Center all forgot their work-day titles to become weekend painters involved in a community service project.

The project, engineered by Lou Werd, was originally designed to help the Center complete the many types of labor on two new classrooms and an office.

AS IT TURNED OUT, the only work the Rotarians needed to do was the interior painting.

Countryside, located off of Rand Road in north end of Palatine, is a not-for-profit corporation with the purpose of providing a wide range of facilities and programs for the mentally retarded and the physically or emotionally handicapped child and adult.

At present, the Center serves 90 children and adults. The new facilities the Rotarians painted will help to house approximately 50 more students.

"THIS IS A KIND of togetherness project," Werd said. "By doing this we not only perform a community service, but we also pull our club together in the sense that members can get to know each other outside of our regular Monday meeting sessions."

Next weekend the Rotary will be at it again. "There are still a couple of rooms that haven't been painted, and that we have to do," Werd said.

And after that, "We've decided to stay on even longer and help out doing things as they come up. Right now a bench in the printing room needs to be built, and the doors and woodwork needs to be stained."

Werd said none of the men are professional painters, and that they seldom do this kind of work in their own homes, but they are getting the job done, even if they get more paint on themselves than on the walls.

Park District Is Signing Up For Preschool

Rolling Meadows Park District, 3200 Central Road, is now accepting registrations for the fourth session of the preschool recreation program.

Preschool recreation, which will be held at the Community Church from Feb. 16 to March 26, is divided into the following classes:

Three to 4-year-olds will meet Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Another class for this age group will be held at the same time on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Class for 4-year-olds to school age children will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for the Monday, Wednesday and Friday sessions, and at the same time for the Tuesday and Thursday sessions.

Two additional classes will be held for three to four year olds from 1 to 3 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and at the same time on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Bonds to be Sold For New Schools

The first bonds from the November referendum for building three new schools in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary Dist. 15 will be sold at a special meeting of the school board Wednesday night.

The school building bonds will total $1 million plus interest over a 10 year period, beginning Jan. 1, 1972. For three years, $25,000 of the total amount will mature each year. In 1975 and 1976, $100,000 will mature each year and from 1977 to 1980, $150,000 will mature. The last year, 1981, the final $125,000 will mature.

The bonds will be used to finance construction of Pepper Tree Farms School and part of the Smith Street Junior high school now being planned by district officials.

PTYC Will Hold Evaluation Meet

Members of the staff and the committee of the whole of the Palatine Township Youth Committee (PTYC) will hold an evaluation meeting Feb. 7 at the Holiday Inn, Rolling Meadows.

The purpose of the meeting is to evaluate the PTYC in terms of its functions and future, according to Emerson Thomas, director.

THOMAS SAID BECAUSE the PTYC is five years old, members thought it was time to invite 70 community leaders, who represent a wide range of community organizations, to a meeting in order to discuss new directives for the youth committee.

An informal discussion will begin at 10 a.m. and will continue until around noon. After the discussion, PTYC members will try to evaluate and interpret any suggestions, criticism or praise that might have evolved from the discussion, Thomas said.

Must Dial 'Correct' For Pickup Service

Residents who have old papers for the paper drive of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows will be able to call for pickup service at 255-5510, the phone number of the church.

Inadvertently, the Rolling Meadows Herald Friday listed the incorrect telephone number of the church.

The paper drive, scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Feb. 14, is being spearheaded by junior and senior high school fellowships of the church. The youths are raising money for a trip to Washington, D.C. in June.

Also, it was noted in addition to calling for pickup service, a "welcome bin" for papers is available at the church.

Fremd Boosters Slate General Meeting Date

Fremd High School Booster Club members will hold a general meeting Feb. 4, at 8 p.m. in Room 129 of Fremd High School. "School Daze" will be the topic of a panel discussion. Participating on the panel will be Carl Weimer, principal of Fremd High, and assistant principals Tom Hillisheim and Jerry Newman.

WITH A BUILT-IN brush on the chin, and a paint brush in hand, Sandy Falkanger looks like a hard man to brush off. And so were other Palatine Rotarians who joined Sandy last weekend in making several new additions to the Countryside Center for the Handicapped ready for occupancy. The Rotary community service project will become part of the club for the next several weeks, as the "weekend painters" undertake other building and repairing chores.

Bobby Rush Will Speak On Black Panther's Work

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz

Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism: Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

Faculty, Pupils Musical Slated

Faculty and students at St. Theresa School, 445 N. Benton St., Palatine, will present a musical program for the St. Theresa Home-School Association meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the parish hall.

A first grade vocal group will sing "The Frog Song," "Loving Jesus Prayer," "I Like To Sing," "A Valentine," "Put Your Finger In The Air," and "Sally Go Round the Stars." The group will also recite three poems: "Color," "The Goldfish," and "The Five Senses."

A polka will be performed by a fourth grade group and a square dance, "Promenade Through Georgia," by eighth graders.

A second vocal group of eighth graders will sing "Leaving On a Jet Plane," "Gentle On My Mind," "Sounds of Silence," and "If I Had A Hammer."

Faculty members will participate in singing "Edelweiss," "This Land Is Your Land," "Day Is Done," and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Parents have been invited.

Blue and Gold Cub Pack Dinner Slated

Cub Scout Pack 286 will hold its Blue and Gold Pack Dinner at the Elks Club in Arlington Heights at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 26.

Cubmaster Ralph Broseth announced the dinner plans at the monthly pack meeting Jan. 22 which was held at the Virginia Lake School in Palatine.

Narcotics Abuse Talk Set Today

The Palatine Junior Women's Club is scheduled to hear John Pleas, the community development director of St. Leonard's House, today at 8 p.m. in Gray Sanborn School, 101 N. Oak, Palatine.

Pleas is to discuss the growing problem of narcotics abuse.

St. Leonard's, at 2100 Warren Blvd., Chicago, is a half-way house for ex-convicts sponsored by the Episcopal church. St. Leonard's also operates a narcotics addiction service center which aids about 300 addicts a year.

Pleas has been head of the house's drug rehabilitation project since 1968. Previously he was a cancer research technician at the University of Chicago for four years.

Woman, 74, Breaks Leg in Walk Fall

A 74-year-old Palatine woman suffered a broken leg Saturday when she fell on the sidewalk on north Clark Street, Palatine.

Heleen Houlberg, 928 Morris, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital where she was treated and released.

Sour Candy Sellers?

Apparently school candy sales are getting more competitive.

A sign on the front door of a Palatine apartment house read: "All other Sanborn School candy sellers, keep out. This is my territory because I live here."

Decision Friday Whether Board Violated Law

by TOM WELLMAN

The Cook County state's attorney's office will hold an informal hearing Friday to determine if High School Dist. 214 board members and officials should be charged with violating the Illinois Open Meeting Law.

Dan Miroballi, an assistant state's attorney, said he was acting on an oral complaint filed by Mrs. Lynne Heidt, 6 Marberry St. in Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Heidt asserted that the Dist. 214 school board, which met last Monday night, violated a portion of the Illinois Open Meeting Law during a portion of the closed meeting.

Miroballi said the hearing was called to determine whether or not to prosecute officials and board members in the district. He explained that hearings such as this are set up to screen and investigate complaints.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the district said Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent, would cooperate with the state's attorney's office. He explained that letters have been sent to board members and Dr. Gilbert by the state's attorney's office.

Arthur Aronson, board president, said he was surprised by the news of the state's attorney's action. He said he had not received any notification from the state's attorney's office of the action.

The hearing, closed to the press, is set for 10 a.m. in Chicago.

The closed session which is the basis for the informal complaint began at about 12:50 a.m. last Tuesday morning after the board had been in open session for almost five hours.

A personnel matter was discussed in the first portion of the closed session. After that, however, the board members, with several administrators from the district present, continued an earlier discussion of admission of groups to Dist. 214 facilities and the district's insurance coverage. Aronson said later no action was reached in the meeting.

THE CLOSED MEETING discussion followed an occasionally heated discussion of using Dist. 214 facilities for showing films such as "Year of the Pig," an anti-war documentary on the Vietnam War.

Board member Frank Bergen at the beginning of the discussion in the open meeting criticized the showing of the film and asked about the district's insurance coverage in case of a confrontation.

The film was shown in several Dist. 214 high schools in mid-January, as well as at Harper College and at several churches.

The Open Meeting Act allows only five kinds of meetings that can be closed to the press and public: discussion of acquisition of real estate, collective bargaining negotiations, discussion of pending court action, discussion of hiring or firing an employee or discussion of a student discipline matter.

THE ACT IS BACKED up by criminal penalties of a fine of up to $100, thirty days in jail, or both for each violation. The court is also empowered to issue civil writs of mandamus requiring improperly closed meetings or meetings held without proper notice be opened and proper notice given.

After Mrs. Heidt filed her informal complaint with the state's attorney's office, a second woman, Mrs. Richard Claws, 203 N. Parkway in Prospect Heights, attempted to file a formal complaint with the same office.

However, she was told by a spokesman for the office that Mrs. Heidt's informal complaint had already been filed and a formal complaint would not be permitted. Mrs. Claws said yesterday that she had contacted at least one state legislator and planned to try to contact State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan about filing a complaint.

Mrs. Claws told the Herald that she wanted stronger action than a hearing merely to determine whether or not to file charges.

Model Home Site Will Be Picketed

More pickets are planned for this weekend at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

SATURDAY'S DECISION followed several months of discussions among the school district, Levitt representatives, and occasionally village officials, over the lack of a sufficient number of school sites in Buffalo Grove's Lake County portion.

Almost all of the village's Lake County portion is taken up with Levitt's Strathmore development. The Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove is included in Dist. 96. That district's lone facility, Kildeer Countryside School, is located in Long Grove.

The land which the school district wants is located in the northwestern portion of the village on Arlington Heights Road, south of Highway 83.

The school district had offered to pay Levitt for the land at the price of $3,000 an acre. Levitt officials, however, said they were "dismayed" at the offer.

LAST FRIDAY, Levitt offered to sell the district either one of two 10-acre sites in the area, according to Mrs. Adeline Geor-Karis, the school district attorney, the price for the 10 acres would have been about $255,000. That offer was termed "obviously ridiculous" by Arthur Edmunds, school district president.

Following the board's decision Saturday to file the condemnation suit, the SHA decided to go ahead with a plan formulated earlier last week to picket and hand out leaflets at Levitt's model homes site.

According to Mrs. Alltop, "The (week-end) picketing will be continuous until negotiations between Levitt and the school board start again."

SHE SAID THAT, in all, about 25 persons picketed last Sunday. Pickets were set up in shifts, with each "shift" working for an hour. She said that "We're working with about 150 people, in all, next week-end."

Of the picketing, Mrs. Alltop said, "We think it will influence the situation. It might take a week or two to get the idea across, but we feel it is one of the ways we can help."

PICKETS APPEARED SUNDAY at the Levitt and Sons Inc. model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road in Buffalo Grove. The pickets, members of Buffalo Grove's Strathmore Homeowners Association,

were there Sunday because of a dispute between Levitt and Lake County School Dist. 96 over lack of school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove.

Hansen Attends His 1st Session

Mount Prospect's Carl Hansen attended his first Cook County board meeting as a commissioner Monday, and to his surprise, got his name on more legislation than any other board member.

To the uninitiated, the speed at which the county board conducts its business keeps a person wondering, where on the agenda, the board is. The only time to catch up is when commissioners take the president's chair to conduct committee meetings.

It is also common for the committee chairman to make and second the motions needed, giving credit for the motion to a commissioner of one party and the motion's second to a commissioner of the other party.

THUS, WHEN Commissioner Charles Bonk, Public Service committee chairman, said "seconded by Hansen" in rapid-fire delivery Monday, the new commissioner looked up startled. Hansen turned to fellow Republican Floyd Fulle as if to ask what had happened.

Noticing Hansen's reaction, Bonk grinned and Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne smiled broadly. Hansen's name was used twice again by then, Hansen was grinning.

After the "initiation" meeting, Dunne, on vacation Friday when Hansen was sworn in, came over to shake the new commissioner's hand.

Municipal Vehicle Vandalism Probed

Palatine police were yesterday investigating damage to two village cars parked in the village hall parking lot over the weekend.

Police said that one of the cars had its right front tire punctured and the glass of a headlight broken. The other car had 17 puncture marks on its left side, seven of which penetrated the metal, police reported.

Both cars belonged to the village's building department. The damage was discovered Sunday morning at 10:30 by Henry Apida, the village's building and zoning administrator.

To Ask Easter Seal Donations

Palatine residents will be asked to contribute to the Chicago Easter Seal Society as part of the society's annual Easter Seal Parade for the Crippled beginning March 17 and continuing through March 21.

More than 26,000 volunteers throughout Chicago are expected to take part in the door-to-door request for funds.

The Easter Seal Society hopes to raise $492,000 for the crippled in the two-fold effort. The campaign will consist of a limited appeal mailing of Easter Seals to mail contributors of past years and the Parade.

THE MAJORITY of funds raised in the campaign will be used to support two Chicago treatment centers at 5903 West Fulton and 10411 South Michigan which offer physical, speech and occupational therapy for crippled children.

William W. Heise, Jr., executive vice-president of the Palatine Savings and Loan Association is the Easter Seal Community Chairman of the Palatine area.

CHARLES T. JEFFRIES of 726 N. Glenn Drive, Palatine, puts the finishing touches on a paper receptacle located in the Palatine Plaza. The Westside

Community Paper Stock Corporation is collecting waste paper as part of a self-help program for Chicago's black community. The paper is sent to mills where it is re-processed. The reprocessing helps fight pollution, aids conservation and serves a humanitarian purpose, says Jeffries.

Center For Police Not Certain Yet

Rolling Meadows may not participate in an experimental police communications center proposed by Arlington Heights last month.

The center, which would operate on an experimental basis for one year, would handle all police calls for Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights, Elk Grove, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove in a central, federally funded, center.

"It's an interesting proposal," Mayor Roland J. Meyer said, "but it doesn't go far enough."

Rolling Meadows police radio operators handle fire, civil defense, and public works calls as well as police calls. The city would have to maintain radio operators at city hall to take those calls which would not go through the central communications center.

"SINCE WE WOULD have to keep operators around the clock for the other calls, we might as well continue to handle police calls," Meyer said.

An advantage to the experimental center would be a new police radio frequency for the five communities involved. Currently, eleven communities are on one band.

"I would like to see a cooperative effort on several other things as well as communications," Meyer said. A detective bureau and overlapping jurisdiction for police patrols could be part of the cooperative effort.

"The timing is bad for us," Meyer said. "If the center had been suggested six months ago, we would probably have said 'yes' and not bought $40,000 of equipment."

ROLLING MEADOWS recently installed a communications console in the police station and new car radios in the six police cruisers.

"The concept is fine and I would like to see some cooperation among police departments, but the experimental communications center would not be effective as it is."

Overlapping police jurisdiction would allow a Rolling Meadows police cruiser on Wilke Road to go on patrol on the Arlington Heights side of the street. "I don't know if the state statutes allow overlapping like that, but I think it is coming. We are allowed to use taxpayers' funds for joint facilities," Meyer said.

If Rolling Meadows would decide to participate in the one year experimental center proposed by Arlington Heights, radio equipment would have to be altered for a new frequency. "We would have to change the car radios and the console."

THE NEW POLICE communications console in Rolling Meadows would probably be used as a secondary center. "We would have to maintain it anyway," Meyer said.

A formal proposal has not gone to the Rolling Meadows city council for approval. City Mgr. James Watson and Police Lt. Ralph Evans attended a meeting Friday where the one year experimental center was discussed by representatives of the five communities.

"I don't think the city council would agree to the proposal as it is now," Meyer said. "But we're interested in experimenting and cooperating with police forces in the area."

The communities involved are not necessarily in jeopardy of becoming a megapolis with cooperative programs between governments, Meyer said. Cities and villages would keep their boundaries for taxing purposes and other functions, yet would have no boundaries as far as police would be concerned.

"A DETECTIVE in Arlington Heights, who might now be known in that community, could be used in Elk Grove, an Elk Grove man in Rolling Meadows," Meyer said.

"I can see a cooperative effort coming, but I think this proposal has to be thought through and maybe include more to be effective."

Pacing, Patience, Pop

Fifteen expectant fathers — father David and 14 members of the Rolling Meadows police force — waited yesterday afternoon for Baby Gonzalez to be born.

David and Maria Gonzalez live next door to city hall on Kirchoff Road. About 10:30 a.m. David called his "neighbors" for help in getting Maria to Northwest Community Hospital.

Officer Jerry Broderick took the expectant mother to the hospital in his squad, making her promise to let the department know when the baby was born. The pacing in the police station stopped in mid-afternoon when the hospital reported the Gonzalez' had a baby girl.

Runaway 'Cat' A Striking Sight

Residents on Arbor Drive in Meadow Trace were surprised to see a construction caterpillar sitting in their parking lot yesterday morning and Michael Digolia was even more surprised to see it sitting on top of his car.

The runaway caterpillar had come from a construction site on the south side of Golf Road. When driver Albert Layten of Carpentersville turned in the caterpillar cab, he accidentally hit the reverse lever.

THE MACHINE THREW him out of the cab and proceeded backwards across Golf Road, through a field to the Northwest Tollway, up the embankment to the road, across four lanes, down the other side of the Tollway property and into Arbor Drive where it stopped on top of Digolia's 1967 Ford, owned by a cousin in Chicago, demolishing it completely.

The caterpillar is owned by Lindahl Construction Co. of Elk Grove.

This Company Begins on Paper

"One man's waste is another man's raw materials."

So says Charles T. Jeffries, chairman of the Social Concerns Committee of the Countryside Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship in Palatine.

Jeffries is the local force behind what he hopes will be a perpetual paper drive that will help the black community of Chicago help itself.

"Suburban and white America has been handing off its garbage to the black American," said Jeffries, "so it is not too far fetched for them to hand off their paper."

The paper, which in Palatine is being collected in the Palatine Plaza, north of Palatine Road in a five feet high yellow receptacle, is collected by the West Side Community Paper Stock Corp., at 1900 W. 13th St., in Chicago.

THE PAPER company wraps and weighs the paper and then sends it off to paper mills where it is reprocessed and comes out looking like new.

The company is the first business enterprise of the West Side Community Development Corporation, a new black community coalition composed of the following five West side groups: The West Side Organization, The Conservative Vice Lords,

The Student Afro-American Group, The Egyptian Cobras and The Garfield Organization.

Although the groups differ in their histories and resources, Jeffries said, they all "have a common commitment to the strategy of community capitalism and the ability to mobilize the energies of their community peoples."

Working with the Container Corporation of America, the group was able to secure a $200,000 loan in order to start the paper company.

It is expected to be fully operational within three weeks and, once it gets going, is slated to employ about 30 people at its 13th Street office.

Jeffries emphasized that the paper drive is being conducted on three different levels.

"HUMAN FELLOWSHIP," he said, "is something that all men believe in. However, rarely do we take time to extend this belief as fully as possible in our everyday lives. Here is opportunity."

The group has set goals of providing job opportunities, business experience and economic independence to and for its communities.

By giving that old stack of papers, Jeffries said, an individual is also helping to preserve the country's natural resources and aiding the fight against pollution.

If people use reprocessed paper, he explains simply, then the paper mills do not have to cut down as many trees to meet paper demands.

"Air and water pollution," Jeffries continued, "are always produced in a pulp and papermaking operation."

The paper processes require large quantities of water for make-up, process and rinse operations. In addition, air blown gases are usually produced as a result of certain chemical reactions that must take place in order to manufacture paper products, he said.

"THE POWER producing machines such as steam generators, turbines and furnaces are constantly polluting the air by releasing incompletely burned or reacted products into the environment," he said.

The reprocessing of paper, he said, eliminates most of this pollution.

Jeffries said he considers himself a man of two worlds — one black and one white. "I felt that as a native Chicagoan and now a northwest suburbanite I had a commitment to the black community," he said.

Realizing that no man wants charity, he said he developed the concept of one man's waste being another man's product. "This is not charity," Jeffries said, "rather it is anti-pollution, pro-conservation and very much pro-human fellowship."

The paper company needs about 500 tons a month to break even in its non-profit venture, and every litter bit helps.

Golf Course Still Has 'Nine' Holes

Palatine's nine-hole golf course will remain a golf course for a little while longer.

The Cook County Board of Commissioners yesterday delayed action on a special use request by Sollergron Brothers, Inc., to give the development firm and Palatine

Village officials a chance to settle their differences, according to Commissioner Floyd Fuller.

The firm has filed a special use request which, if granted, will allow the construction of 1,350 apartments in five, 10-story buildings in Palatine Township.

The proposed development will be located on a 66-acre tract at Baldwin and Hicks road across from the Palatine Plaza Shopping Center formerly owned by Elmer Gleich.

Village officials have objected to the development because they have said, they would like a voice in the planning of an area totally surrounded by the village.

Fuller said he asked for the delay because in addition to giving local officials time to agree, he wanted some information that was not included in the present plans.

Specifically, he said, the private water supplier mentioned in the plans has yet to be certified to supply the development with water.

Palatine, Fuller said, could sell water to the developer. In any case, he added, the water supply question must be worked out before approval is forthcoming.

Second, Fuller said, he was interested in how the high density housing would affect the local traffic patterns.

Fuller said the county's zoning board of appeals approved the special project because it felt that the small percentage of land to be taken used by the project would be good for the area.

He noted that the former owner of the property Elmer Gleich, had proposed a project that would make use of more of the land.

"Doubling the density of the land might be a mistake," he said.

When a government approves a project as large as this one which will have the impact as this one and then the government has to revise the plans by widening roads or adding water, all the taxpayers pay, Fuller said. This was the reason, he said, he wanted to be sure of the plans.

The 15-member board unanimously approved the delay, he said.

Not Look Alikes But Think Alikes

Teachers and students do not usually look alike, but according to a recent survey they come fairly close to thinking alike.

The survey was a semantics differential test that was given to 1,600 teachers and senior students by the Teacher's Institute committee of Palatine-Schaumburg High School Dist. 211.

The object of the test, which is similar to a word association test, was to determine how a teacher and a student felt about one particular subject, and to see if there was an difference between their feelings.

With the test results in, and the data compiled, it is apparent that there is little difference between the values of Dist. 211 teachers and students, according to John O'Dell, administrative assistant to the superintendent.

O'DELL SAID participants were given a list of about 20 words such as freedom, Vietnam, S.D.S., and other socially relevant terms; and they were asked to rate them on a value scale ranging from good to bad.

Although there was no significant difference between the values teachers and students placed on each of the words, there was a difference between what both test groups listed as being the most important to them, as well as what was the most disagreeable.

In descending order, the following are what students placed highest on their value scale: Love, freedom, sex, marriage, cars, mother, father, money, future and football.

TEACHERS ALSO placed love, freedom and sex in the top three spots. But starting with their fourth choice, a difference was evident. They chose mother, marriage, father, myself, future, work and money for the remaining seven spots.

At the opposite end of the scale, students ranked Vietnam, Communism, drugs, S.D.S., smoking, marijuana, grades, dress codes, society and whiskey as being the 10 social issues they felt most negatively toward.

Teachers ranked the same words in the category of the 10 most negative values, with one exception, however. Where whiskey placed number 10 with students, teachers picked government.

WHAT THE SEMANTICS differential indicates is that there really is no "generation gap" between students and teachers in Dist. 211, according to O'Dell.

O'Dell said the median age for teachers in the district is roughly 26, and that this factor probably accounts for much of the similarity between the test results of the students and the teachers.

From 'Crimebuster To Bum' Overnight

"Yesterday, they called me a crimebuster. Today they call me a bum," began Charles Siragusa, executive director of the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission, speaking at the Urban Lighting Forum last night at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

The outspoken Siragusa was talking about his recent involvement in statewide crime investigation, but he was also talking about the problems facing law enforcement officials throughout the country.

"Millitants, radicals, so-called dissenters and those advocating revolution are using tactics aimed at overthrowing our government," Siragusa said. "Radical groups are a threat to our security whether they be in the cities or on the residential streets."

"There is a relationship between light and crime," he continued. "Less than 2 per cent of our residential streets are adequately lighted, and 12 times as many crimes occur at night as in the daytime."

Siragusa told a roomful of businessmen and public officials that of all the problems confronting law enforcement officials, adequately lighted streets seem to have the most direct relationship with decline in crime statistics.

"In Gary, Ind., there was a 70 per cent drop in crime after lights were installed in that city. Arlington Heights, Rockford and Oak Lawn all have benefited from lighting, and in the small town of Patriot, Ind., with a population of 277, the citizens got together to purchase 11 street lights," Siragusa said.

"I do not advocate putting a policeman on every block, but let's use our money wisely. Most police chiefs would welcome the idea of putting a good streetlight on every corner."

They're All Against Wall With Rollers

TOM ROBB

"Banker, lawyer, Indian chief..." it made no difference for a group of Palatine men last weekend.

They were up against the wall with roller or brush in hand, and they were painting. The wall was one of the many new concrete brick walls at the Countryside

Center for the Handicapped. And the men were Rotarians.

Just like men from all professions, businesses and trades find something in common by being a Rotarian, the men at Countryside Center all forgot their workday titles to become weekend painters involved in a community service project.

The project, engineered by Lou Werd, was originally designed to help the Center complete the many types of labor on two new classrooms and an office.

AS IT TURNED OUT, the only work the Rotarians needed to do was the interior painting.

Countryside, located off of Rand Road in north end of Palatine, is a not-for-profit corporation with the purpose of providing a wide range of facilities and programs for the mentally retarded and the physically or emotionally handicapped child and adult.

At present, the Center serves 90 children and adults. The new facilities the Rotarians painted will help to house approximately 50 more students.

"THIS IS A KIND of togetherness project," Werd said. "By doing this we not only perform a community service, but we also pull our club together in the sense that members can get to know each other outside of our regular Monday meeting sessions."

Next weekend the Rotary will be at it again. "There are still a couple of rooms that haven't been painted, and that we have to do," Werd said.

And after that, "We've decided to stay on even longer and help out doing things as they come up. Right now a bench in the printing room needs to be built, and the doors and woodwork needs to be stained."

Werd said none of the men are professional painters, and that they seldom do this kind of work in their own homes, but they are getting the job done, even if they get more paint on themselves than on the walls.

WITH A BUILT-IN brush on the chin, and a paint brush in hand, Sandy Falkanger looks like a hard man to brush off. And so were other Palatine Rotarians who joined Sandy last weekend in making several new additions to the Countryside Center for the Handicapped ready for occupancy. The Rotary community service project will become part of the club for the next several weeks, as the "weekend painters" undertake other building and repairing chores.

Park District Is Signing Up For Preschool

Rolling Meadows Park District, 3200 Central Road, is now accepting registrations for the fourth session of the preschool recreation program.

Preschool recreation, which will be held at the Community Church from Feb. 16 to March 26, is divided into the following classes:

Three to 4-year-olds will meet Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Another class for this age group will be held at the same time on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Class for 4-year-olds to school age children will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for the Monday, Wednesday and Friday sessions, and at the same time for the Tuesday and Thursday sessions.

Two additional classes will be held for three to four year olds from 1 to 3 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and at the same time on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Bonds to be Sold For New Schools

The first bonds from the November referendum for building three new schools in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary Dist. 15 will be sold at a special meeting of the school board Wednesday night.

The school building bonds will total $1 million plus interest over a 10 year period, beginning Jan. 1, 1972. For three years, $25,000 of the total amount will mature each year. In 1975 and 1976, $100,000 will mature each year and from 1977 to 1980, $150,000 will mature. The last year, 1981, the final $125,000 will mature.

The bonds will be used to finance construction of Pepper Tree Farms School and part of the Smith Street junior high school now being planned by district officials.

PTYC Will Hold Evaluation Meet

Members of the staff and the committee of the whole of the Palatine Township Youth Committee (PTYC) will hold an evaluation meeting Feb. 7 at the Holiday Inn, Rolling Meadows.

The purpose of the meeting is to evaluate the PTYC in terms of its functions and future, according to Emerson Thomas, director.

THOMAS SAID BECAUSE the PTYC is five years old, members thought it was time to invite 70 community leaders, who represent a wide range of community organizations, to a meeting in order to discuss new directives for the youth committee.

An informal discussion will begin at 10 a.m. and will continue until around noon. After the discussion, PTYC members will try to evaluate and interpret any suggestions, criticism or praise that might have evolved from the discussion, Thomas said.

Must Dial 'Correct' For Pickup Service

Residents who have old papers for the paper drive of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows will be able to call for pickup service at 235-5510, the phone number of the church.

Individually, the Rolling Meadows Herald Friday listed the incorrect telephone number of the church.

The paper drive, scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Feb. 14, is being spearheaded by junior and senior high school fellowships of the church. The youths are raising money for a trip to Washington, D.C. in June.

Also, it was noted in addition to calling for pickup service, a "welcome bin" for papers is available at the church.

Fremd Boosters Slate General Meeting Date

Fremd High School Booster Club members will hold a general meeting Feb. 4, at 8 p.m. in Room 129 of Fremd High School. "School Daze" will be the topic of a panel discussion. Participating on the panel will be Carl Weimer, principal of Fremd High, and assistant principals Tom Hillishelm and Jerry Newman.

Bobby Rush Will Speak On Black Panther's Work

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz

Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism: Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

Faculty, Pupils Musical Slated

Faculty and students at St. Theresa School, 445 N. Benton St., Palatine, will present a musical program for the St. Theresa Home-School Association meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the parish hall.

A first grade vocal group will sing "The Frog Song," "Loving Jesus Prayer," "I Like To Sing," "A Valentine," "Put Your Finger In The Air," and "Sally Go Round the Stars." The group will also recite three poems: "Color," "The Goldfish," and "The Five Senses."

A polka will be performed by a fourth grade group and a square dance, "Promenade Through Georgia," by eighth graders.

A second vocal group of eighth graders will sing "Leaving On a Jet Plane," "Gentle On My Mind," "Sounds of Silence," and "If I Had A Hammer."

Faculty members will participate in singing "Edelweiss," "This Land Is Your Land," "Day Is Done," and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Parents have been invited.

Blue and Gold Cub Pack Dinner Slated

Cub Scout Pack 286 will hold its Blue and Gold Pack Dinner at the Elks Club in Arlington Heights at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 26.

Cubmaster Ralph Broseth announced the dinner plans at the monthly pack meeting Jan. 22 which was held at the Virginia Lake School in Palatine.

Sour Candy Sellers?

Apparently school candy sales are getting more competitive.

A sign on the front door of a Palatine apartment house read: "All other Sanborn School candy sellers, keep out. This is my territory because I live here."

"COUGH" IS THE code name for anti-pollution headquarters at Lincoln Junior High School where students are waging a campaign against water and air pollution. Mike Sullens, left, Monique Trinkle and Patty Mutert are students in the seventh-grade journalism class which is sponsoring six petitions to send to public officials endorsing anti-pollution legislation.

Carl Hansen Attends First Meeting—Gets A Surprise

Mount Prospect's Carl Hansen attended his first Cook County board meeting as a commissioner Monday, and to his surprise, got his name on more legislation than any other board member.

To the uninitiated, the speed at which the county board conducts its business keeps a person wondering, where on the agenda, the board is. The only time to catch up is when commissioners take the president's chair to conduct committee meetings.

It is also common for the committee chairman to make and second the motions needed, giving credit for the motion to a commissioner of one party and the motion's second to a commissioner of the other party.

THUS, WHEN Commissioner Charles Bonk, Public Service committee chairman, said "seconded by Hansen" in rapid fire delivery Monday, the new commissioner looked up startled. Hansen turned to fellow Republican Floyd Fulle as if to ask what had happened.

Noticing Hansen's reaction, Bonk grinned and Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne smiled broadly. Hansen's name was used twice again by then, Hansen was grinning.

After the "initiation" meeting, Dunne, on vacation Friday when Hansen was sworn in, came over to shake the new commissioner's hand.

From 'Crimebuster to Bum'

"Yesterday, they called me a crimebuster. Today they call me a bum," began Charles Siragusa, executive director of the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission, speaking at the Urban Lighting Forum last night at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

The outspoken Siragusa was talking about his recent involvement in statewide crime investigation, but he was also talking about the problems facing law enforcement officials throughout the country.

"Militants, radicals, so-called dissenters and those advocating revolution are using tactics aimed at overthrowing our government," Siragusa said. "Radical groups are a threat to our security whether they be in the cities or on the residential streets."

"There is a relationship between light and crime," he continued. "Less than 2 per cent of our residential streets are adequately lighted, and 12 times as many crimes occur at night as in the daytime."

Siragusa told a roomful of businessmen and public officials that of all the problems confronting law enforcement officials, adequately lighted streets seem to have the most direct relationship with decline in crime statistics.

"In Gary, Ind., there was a 70 per cent drop in crime after lights were installed in that city. Arlington Heights, Rockford and Oak Lawn all have benefited from lighting, and in the small town of Patriot, Ind., with a population of 277, the citizens got together to purchase 11 street lights," Siragusa said.

"I do not advocate putting a policeman on every block, but let's use our money wisely. Most police chiefs would welcome the idea of putting a good streetlight on every corner."

"But the causes of crime," Siragusa continued, "are many. Police have the awesome responsibility of protecting the innocent. Crime will continue to rise if there are witnesses who refuse to get involved. And crime will continue to make our streets paths of fear."

Siragusa continued to cite examples of what he called "continued need for community involvement" in the fight against crime.

"A policeman costs a municipality a quarter of a million dollars in the period of his career and retirement," Siragusa said. "And surely that money is being spent wisely. But more money must be devoted to helping the police officer with all the tools he can use."

The bid for the George Street bridge will probably be awarded tonight to Ziegler and Sons, Inc., at the Mount Prospect village board meeting.

Ziegler was low bidder on the project, coming in at $79,253. The bridge is to be paid for with state motor fuel tax funds.

In other business, the board will consider a request to buy four new police vehicles and give a first reading to an ordinance granting a variation so a 10-story office building can be constructed at Randhurst.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

We'll Drown In Pollution

by GERRY DE ZONNA

Pollution is a dirty word, especially at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

And students in the seventh-grade journalism class there are waging a campaign against water and air pollution by enlisting more than 500 student signatures for an anti-pollution petition.

And just as soon as the six petitions are endorsed by students, copies will be sent to President Nixon, Sen. Charles Percy, Sen. Ralph Smith, Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Rep. Philip Crane, 13th Dist., and the delegation at the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

"We're serious about this. The air pollution's gonna get so bad that the sun's rays will be trapped in the air and the heat will melt the glaciers at the polar caps. Then we'll all drown to death," said Jim Lill of 207 S. Pine Street.

The anti-pollution campaign is the result of a class assignment. "I asked my journalism students to write an editorial on the most significant event or issue in the last decade which is most likely to affect our lives in the 1970s," journalism teacher Ernest Bloomquist explained.

"And I was really surprised to find the majority of the class chose pollution. I think there were only three or four students who wrote about the space program or the assassinations of President Kennedy and Martin Luther King," he said.

Bloomquist suggested the students circulate petitions to let public officials know how concerned they were about pollution. The anti-pollution campaign snowballed into a project in which the students could "practice" what they learned in journalism class.

"WE MADE POSTERS to advertise our petition and asked all our friends to sign it. But some of them didn't want to get involved because they didn't want to take the time to sign their names. Anyway, we just want the President and everyone to know we care about pollution," said Monique Trinkle, 204 W. Orchard.

"And do you know that anyone who lives in Chicago has lungs like smokers, even if they don't smoke. Driving on the expressway in all the traffic is like smoking two packs of cigarettes," Dan Allison of 539 E. Lincoln Street, said.

"We have to promote public sentiment if we want to do something about pollution. Money isn't everything we need to stop pollution because the people have to cooperate first," Bob Lederleitner, 207 S. Pine Street, added.

THE STUDENTS AGREED pollution would affect them more than the space program, political assassinations and the civil rights movement. "Civil Rights doesn't hurt everyone, while pollution affects us all. There isn't a civil rights problem in the suburbs but there is a problem with pollution," Mike Sullens of 206 S. Candota added.

"And besides, we won't have to worry about these other problems unless we stop pollution. There won't be any civil rights demonstrations or moon walks because we'll all be dead," Bob said.

"We should have a Communist party to do something about pollution because what the Communists say goes with the people, or they get sent to Siberia. Our government isn't doing anything about it because we're a free country and everyone talks too much or the big companies who do most of the polluting take the government to court," Mike explained.

THE STUDENTS said there's just too much pollution and it's all coming to the suburbs from Chicago.

"We could help stop pollution if we had electric cars with no exhaust, but the gasoline companies would probably go broke, so they don't want them. Do ya know that there was a race across the country between an electric car and a gas car, and the electric car won because it didn't have to stop for gas on the way," Jim said.

Patty Mutert of 119 N. Eastwood said they were all concerned about pollution, but most of all they don't want to die from dirty water and air. "We didn't cause pollution, but we have to grow up with it," she said.

"It's really not fair because we didn't make pollution. Our parents never talk about pollution and they're not worried about it, but it'll get all of us kids. And we'll have to pay for it, not the older people," Mike said.

"And besides the snow turns black," they added.

Men: Still Top Dogs

Who wears the pants in your family? If you live in Mount Prospect and you're a man, you probably do.

According to a recent survey compiled by the Mount Prospect Jaycees, men in Mount Prospect are still holding their own.

Of those questioned (9,000 homes), 40 per cent responded to the survey. And of those who responded, 94 per cent of the men are the head of the house, while only 4 per cent of the women are.

And perhaps most surprising, only 2 per cent of all families who responded were undecided and didn't bother to answer the question.

BLACK PANTHER leader Bobby Rush will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday night. Appearance of Rush was arranged by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

Black Panther, Rush, To Talk

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism: Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs be-

PTA to Leave State Unit?

by EDITH FREUND

Lions Park PTA, the largest in Mount Prospect Dist. 57, will hold a special meeting Feb. 19 to decide whether to withdraw from the state and national PTA.

The meeting is an outgrowth of a study committee formed last spring to review the relationship of the local unit to its national affiliates. The meeting is open to all parents who have children attending Lions Park School.

An opinion poll was sent to parents of Lions Park students by the study group. It drew 107 votes for an independent group such as a "parent-teacher organization," 24 votes for the retention of the PTA, and one who favored neither. The poll was used by the committee to avoid reflecting its own opinions.

Barry Ekman, principal at Lions, said, "I feel the parents are very involved in educational goals here and are very concerned about education in Dist. 57. But it does seem as if the PTA demands that much of the extra time they have available be spent on workshops, meetings, and activities that are of little productive benefit to anyone."

EKMAN SAID THERE are 500 families represented at the school. He said many PTA members contribute hours to the school library program, work as teacher aides, supervise the lunch hour, and work to raise money for school needs. Much of this activity is frowned on by state and national PTA, if it is not actually against their stated policy.

Mrs. Robert Novy, Lions PTA president, said, "The PTA requires that we earn funds only to further PTA purposes. We should not raise funds to provide things for the school that should be provided by the school district through tax funds allocated by the school board. This would include library books, gym equipment, sound systems, and so forth. Since the board should provide teacher aides and librarians full-time, this would undoubtedly be ruled out, although we have two active programs in these areas. Cultural arts programs are represented in our budget by a healthy $500."

Lions Park PTA is a member of the National Council of PTA, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Randhurst Council of PTA and the Mount Prospect PTA Coordinating Council.

AT PRESENT, the National PTA collects 10 cents of every dues dollar raised through the local clubs. An additional 20 cents is paid to the ICPT. The money is used to obtain favorable legislation on both national and state levels for "the benefit of youth," according to supporters of the PTA affiliation.

Those who support local organization say that for the 1969-70 school year, Lions Park sent the state and national PTA $167 in dues, $110 for the scholarship fund to educate new teachers (this amount also includes a Founders' Day contribution), $60 in incidentals to PTA membership, totaling $337.

Local board members at Lions say they would not recommend that their school send representatives to the state convention requiring an additional amount that would be spent for transportation and lodging.

One parent criticized the conventions of the state association as being unresponsive to problems of the local units. Units must go through strict channels to present legislation on the floor, which eliminates spontaneous debate, they say.

"THE PTA SAYS it represents 10 million members in its lobbying, but local members are asked in their literature from the state to write as individuals, not as PTA members," a Lions Park member said.

Mrs. Novy said the Lions Park group objects more to this lack of responsiveness than it does to the cost of the outside affiliation.

"Our PTA objected most strongly to 'Green Tuesday,' but in the time allowed to us, we had no way to make this objection known without dropping all the other work we are doing locally," she said.

On "Green Tuesday" the ICPT asked the local units to hire buses and send local representatives to Springfield on specific Tuesdays to seek legislation through joint lobbying. Additional school funds were to have been obtained through legislation raising the state aid levels paid to local school districts.

Lions Park board members said they felt the money and time spent on the bus-ing of lobbyists might have provided some of the same effect locally as the state money obtained through the joint action, Mrs. Novy said. Instead, the board at Lions reacted by considering the resolution.

MEMBERS OF THE study group were Mrs. Harrison Hanson, chairman, Mrs. Martin Hering, Mrs. Allen Schmid, Mrs. William Kuivinen, Mrs. Jack Ronchetto and Mrs. Michael Symeonides.

The resolution to be considered Feb. 19 has been forwarded to the ICPT, Mrs. Novy said. She believes they will have representatives at the meeting. They have acknowledged receipt of the proposed action, but have not reacted in any other way.

The study and the resolution have been published by the PTA at Lions since last May. Reports were made at two general meetings and the information was carried in three issues of the school paper, Mrs. Novy said.

"We are not trying to railroad this through," she told the Herald. The resolution, if passed, would dissolve the Lions Park PTA by April 15, 1970.

Kindergarten OKd At Gregory School

The Dist. 57 Board of Education last night voted to establish a kindergarten program at Gregory School and to utilize the existing multipurpose room for the necessary facilities.

The board acknowledged the necessity of the program and most of the discussion was about where to hold the classes.

During a special meeting Jan. 26, the board introduced a plan to use a room set aside for a new library for the program.

Supt. Eric Sahlgren frowned upon the idea, saying that the building plans for the building were earlier approved by the board and that "the best long range plan would be to continue with the plans as originally approved."

THERE ALSO WAS discussion as to the idea of tearing down a wall between two existing classrooms on the lower level and remodeling them including the installation of a new washroom.

J. C. Busenhart, business manager for Dist. 57, roughly estimated the cost of remodeling the two rooms at $4,000, adding that the toilet facility itself would cost about $2,000.

It was then moved that because of the high cost estimate the existing multipurpose room be utilized for the kindergarten program.

Sahlgren told the board architectural estimates for equipping the multipurpose room would be obtained by the next meeting.

The kindergarten program, which will go into effect next September, will involve approximately 53 preschoolers.

THE PROGRAM WILL BE separated into morning and afternoon sessions with about 26 students in each shift.

Sahlgren said, "The present Gregory School boundaries for grades one through six would become the K-6 (kindergarten through sixth grade) boundaries."

About 25 members of the Gregory School PTA presented a statement to the board voicing their support for the kindergarten program.

The members voiced no complaints concerning their children having to cross Route 83 daily.

There are presently three kindergarten classes at Busse and Fairview schools, Busse has 87 children enrolled and Fairview has 70.

Candidate-Apathy Link?

"Surprisingly, in a town the size of Mount Prospect, relatively few people seem to be interested in an active part in our school system," Robert Novy, chairman of the nominating committee of the School Dist. 57 general caucus, explained.

Novy directed his criticism to community apathy during the committee's current campaign to recruit qualified candidates to fill three vacancies on the school board in April elections.

Terms of Chairman Harrison Hanson, Ralph Walberg and Charles Houchins will expire in April. Although Walberg and Houchins announced they will not seek another term, Hanson has not indicated he will seek reelection.

Novy asked the caucus for additional time to interview candidates, and the general meeting of the caucus was postponed one week to accommodate the nominating committee. The caucus will meet Feb. 25 at 8 p.m. at Busse School, 101 N. Owen Street. The meeting was originally scheduled for Feb. 18.

"THERE ARE HUNDREDS of people qualified for a position on the school board in Mount Prospect, and I'm at a loss to understand why these qualified people don't come forward. It would seem there's a rising degree of apathy on their part."

"Time is extremely short. We have less than two weeks in which to interview candidates and recommend them to the general caucus in February," Novy said.

The general caucus will choose three candidates from the list of candidates submitted by the nominating committee and endorse those candidates in their bids for a seat on the school board.

The names of persons interested in seeking a position on the school board may be submitted to Novy at 392-3181 or placed in one of the caucus boxes located at the Mount Prospect Library, Van Driel's Pharmacy at Route 83 and Route 14, or the Jewel Tea Food Store on Northwest Highway.

were there Sunday because of a dispute between Levitt and Lake County School Dist. 96 over lack of school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove.

Model Home Site Will Be Picketed

More pickets are planned for this week-end at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

The program will consist of 10 weekly lessons each Wednesday evening beginning Feb. 11. Cost to the participant is $15. An additional charge of $1.50 will be asked of the beginners for the purpose of purchasing an instructional booklet.

Guitar lessons will be held in Maple Room of the Mount Prospect Community Center each Wednesday. Beginner lessons

Municipal Vehicle Vandalism Probed

Palatine police were yesterday investigating damage to two village cars parked in the village hall parking lot over the weekend.

Police said that one of the cars had its right front tire punctured and the glass of a headlight broken. The other car had 17 puncture marks on its left side, seven of which penetrated the metal, police reported.

Both cars belonged to the village's building department. The damage was discovered Sunday morning at 10:30 by Henry Apidra, the village's building and zoning administrator.

Woodley Resigns His Post

The resignation of Earl Woodley, principal of Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights was accepted by the School Dist. 59 board of education last night.

Woodley has been principal of the school for two years. As of late last night, school members were still in executive session discussing the resignation, reasons for which had not yet been announced.

Earlier in the evening the board was criticized by an Elk Grove Village parent for being "too money minded." Mrs. Sharri Hildebrandt, active in the district Parents-Arts Council said the board always had questions related to monetary issues but never anything on curriculum.

The board had just briefly discussed a mid-year curriculum report, presented by Robert Brower, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

Harold Harvey, a board member, commented, "the board is not made up of professional educators. It is difficult for us to evaluate curriculum. We also can't have any curriculum unless we think of some way to keep the schools open."

Al Waltman, acting superintendent, added the board would be returning to a more balanced review of all aspects of the schools. He implied steps in that direction were being taken now.

There was no response from Mrs. Hildebrandt.

Construction coordinator Donald DeBlase announced bids for additions to Juliette Low School and Lively Junior High School will be opened Feb. 26 at 2 p.m. at the district administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

Decision Friday Whether Board Violated Law

by TOM WELLMAN
The Cook County state's attorney's office will hold an informal hearing Friday to determine if High School Dist. 214 board members and officials should be charged with violating the Illinois Open Meeting Law.

Dan Miroballi, an assistant state's attorney, said he was acting on an oral complaint filed by Mrs. Lynne Heidt, 6 Marberry St. in Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Heidt asserted that the Dist. 214 school board, which met last Monday night, violated a portion of the Illinois Open Meeting Law during a portion of the closed meeting.

Miroballi said the hearing was called to determine whether or not to prosecute officials and board members in the district. He explained that hearings such as this are set up to screen and investigate complaints.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the district said Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent, would cooperate with the state's attorney's office. He explained that letters have been sent to board members and Dr. Gilbert by the state's attorney's office.

Arthur Aronson, board president, said he was surprised by the news of the state's attorney's action. He said he had not received any notification from the state's attorney's office of the action.

The hearing, closed to the press, is set for 10 a.m. in Chicago.

The closed session which is the basis for the informal complaint began at about 12:50 a.m. last Tuesday morning after the board had been in open session for almost five hours.

A personnel matter was discussed in the first portion of the closed session. After that, however, the board members, with several administrators from the district present, continued an earlier discussion of admission of groups to Dist. 214 facilities and the district's insurance coverage. Aronson said later no action was reached in the meeting.

THE CLOSED MEETING discussion followed an occasionally heated discussion of using Dist. 214 facilities for showing films such as "Year of the Pig," an anti-war documentary on the Vietnam War.

Board member Frank Bergen at the beginning of the discussion in the open meeting criticized the showing of the film and asked about the district's insurance coverage in case of a confrontation.

The film was shown in several Dist. 214 high schools in mid-January, as well as at Harper College and at several churches.

The Open Meeting Act allows only five kinds of meetings that can be closed to the press and public: discussion of acquisition of real estate, collective bargaining negotiations, discussion of pending court action, discussion of hiring or firing an employee or discussion of a student discipline matter.

THE ACT IS BACKED up by criminal penalties of a fine of up to $100, thirty days in jail, or both for each violation. The court is also empowered to issue civil writs of mandamus requiring improperly closed meetings or meetings held without proper notice be opened and proper notice given.

After Mrs. Heidt filed her informal complaint with the state's attorney's office, a second woman, Mrs. Richard Clawes, 203 N. Parkway in Prospect Heights, attempted to file a formal complaint with the same office.

However, she was told by a spokesman for the office that Mrs. Heidt's informal complaint had already been filed and a formal complaint would not be permitted. Mrs. Clawes said yesterday that she had contacted at least one state legislator and planned to try to contact State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan about filing a complaint.

Mrs. Clawes told the Herald that she wanted stronger action than a hearing merely to determine whether or not to file charges.

manipulations during a recent performance were done by Laura Johnson, at right, and Jo Ann Greil. The youngsters made their own marionettes, con-

District Hires First Fire Chief

by BETSY BROOKER

Prospect Heights now has its first full-time fire chief.

Charles Nick of unincorporated Mount Prospect has been appointed full-time, salaried fire chief for the Forest River Fire Protection District.

The Forest River department was organized in 1941 housing its one pumper in a shed-like building at 207 Lee St. It has grown to a department that now has two pumper units and one rescue unit, housed in new quarters at 1830 East Foundry Road.

The fire district includes residents living in the area bounded by Central Road, Willow Road, Des Plaines River and the Soo Line R.R. tracks.

THE "OLD TOWN" portion of Prospect Heights is covered by the Prospect Heights Fire Department, whose chief is Donald Gould. Gould, however, serves as a part-time chief.

Prior to his promotion, Nick worked for 30 years at Palwaukee Airport, near which he was born 84 years ago. He has been a volunteer fireman for 13 years, holding the position of part-time chief for the last six.

Now that he is in the fire station all day, Nick says he can answer emergency calls faster. "Before I had to take the time to drive to the station from home."

Full-time hours will also give Nick a chance to visit local schools, homeowner associations and neighboring fire departments.

His first step in community affairs is filming a complete 10-week first aid course taught by the fire department. After it is edited, the film will be available to local organizations.

The department he heads includes 33 volunteer firemen. "These men put in their free time and work hard for no pay," said Nick. "They aren't men who are interested in earning a couple of bucks. They are sincerely interested in fire fighting."

ON THE AVERAGE, Nick and his volunteer firemen answer 100 calls a year. Most of these calls are for grass fires, house fires, car fires and first aid.

The time each volunteer spends at the station varies. Nick's roster shows one man coming in 408 times last year, while another man, who started late in the year, came in only six times. No fireman is held to a minimum or maximum number of hours.

One problem the department has is increasing community awareness of "their own local station." According to Nick, a resident might call the departments in either Mount Prospect or Wheeling before they call the Forest River department. This only delays the Forest River department in answering calls.

Another problem the department faces is the possibility of rezoning in its district, permitting construction of high-rise buildings. The department does not have an aerial ladder or a snorkel truck, necessary to fight fires over three stories. Either truck would cost approximately $70,000.

An obvious solution to the problem, and one the department will have to rely on if high-rises are built, is a mutual aid agreement. Under this policy, a department can call for assistance from any of the surrounding fire departments.

Jazz Workshop At Elk Grove High

A jazz band workshop jointly sponsored by the state Department of Public Instruction and the University of Illinois music extension division will be conducted at Elk Grove High School today.

Three members of the University of Illinois group — Howie Smith, alto sax; James Ferrantino, trumpet, and Charles Braugham, percussion, will be working with the Elk Grove High School jazz band.

The workshop will be an open assembly during the lunch period to enable the students to observe the jazz musicians, said George Ergang, high school publicity chairman.

Another workshop is also planned for March 18.

The band, led by Douglas Peterson and L. Wendell King, is participating in a jazz festival in Oak Lawn Feb. 7 and at Millikin University Feb. 14. At Millikin they will be seeking to defend their title where they won first place last year, Ergang said.

Charge 2 With Open Liquor in Vehicle

Two Arlington Heights residents were arrested and charged with possession of open liquor in a motor vehicle by Mount Prospect police Saturday.

Timothy Bork, 19, of 11 N. Dryden Street, and Richard Nickol, 19, of 112 W. Fremont Street, were arrested by police in the parking lot of a gas station on Rand Road near Henry Street.

Police said the men had about four packs of beer in the car at the time of arrest. Bork and Nickol are scheduled to appear in Mount Prospect court Feb. 18. Bail was set at $100 each.

Carl Hansen Attends First Meeting — Gets A Surprise

Mount Prospect's Carl Hansen attended his first Cook County board meeting as a commissioner Monday, and to his surprise, got his name on more legislation than any other board member.

To the uninitiated, the speed at which the county board conducts its business keeps a person wondering, where on the agenda, the board is. The only time to catch up is when commissioners take the president's chair to conduct committee meetings.

Black Panther, Rush, To Talk

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism: Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman. Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs be-

We'll Drown In Pollution

by GERRY DE ZONNA

Pollution is a dirty word, especially at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

And students in the seventh-grade journalism class there are waging a campaign against water and air pollution by enlisting more than 500 student signatures for an anti-pollution petition.

And just as soon as the six petitions are endorsed by students, copies will be sent to President Nixon, Sen. Charles Percy, Sen. Ralph Smith, Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Rep. Philip Crane, 13th Dist., and the delegation at the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

"We're serious about this. The air pollution's gonna get so bad that the sun's rays will be trapped in the air and the heat will melt the glaciers at the polar caps. Then we'll all drown to death," said Jim Lill of 207 S. Pine Street.

The anti-pollution campaign is the result of a class assignment. "I asked my journalism students to write an editorial on the most significant event or issue in the last decade which is most likely to affect our lives in the 1970s," journalism teacher Ernest Bloomquist explained.

"And I was really surprised to find the majority of the class chose pollution. I think there were only three or four students who wrote about the space program or the assassinations of President Kennedy and Martin Luther King," he said.

Bloomquist suggested the students circulate petitions to let public officials know how concerned they were about pollution. The anti-pollution campaign snowballed into a project in which the students could "practice" what they learned in journalism class.

"WE MADE POSTERS to advertise our petition and asked all our friends to sign it. But some of them didn't want to get involved because they didn't want to take the time to sign their names. Anyway, we just want the President and everyone to know we care about pollution," said Monique Trinkle, 206 W. Orchard.

"And do you know that anyone who lives in Chicago has lungs like smokers, even if they don't smoke. Driving on the expressway in all the traffic is like smoking two packs of cigarettes," Dan Allison of 539 E. Lincoln Street, said.

"We have to promote public sentiment if we want to do something about pollution. Money isn't everything we need to stop pollution because the people have to cooperate first," Bob Lederleiner, 207 S. Pine Street, added.

THE STUDENTS AGREED pollution would affect them more than the space program, political assassinations and the civil rights movement. "Civil Rights doesn't hurt everyone, while pollution affects us all. There isn't a civil rights problem in the suburbs but there is a problem with pollution," Mike Sullivan of 206 S. Candota added.

"And besides, we won't have to worry about these other problems unless we stop pollution. There won't be any civil rights demonstrations or moon walks because we'll all be dead," Bob said.

"We should have a Communist party to do something about pollution because what the Communists say goes with the people, or they get sent to Siberia. Our government isn't doing anything about it because we're a free country and everyone talks too much or the big companies who do most of the polluting take the government to court," Mike explained.

THE STUDENTS said there's just too much pollution and it's all coming to the suburbs from Chicago.

"We could help stop pollution if we had electric cars with no exhaust, but the gasoline companies would probably go broke, so they don't want them. Do ya know that there was a race across the country between an electric car and a gas car, and the electric car won because it didn't have to stop for gas on the way," Jim said.

Patty Mutert of 119 N. Eastwood said they were all concerned about pollution, but most of all they don't want to die from dirty water and air. "We didn't cause pollution, but we have to grow up with it," she said.

"It's really not fair because we didn't make pollution. Our parents never talk about pollution and they're not worried about it, but it'll get all of us kids. And we'll have to pay for it, not the older people," Mike said.

"And besides the snow turns black," they added.

Men: Still Top Dogs

Who wears the pants in your family?

If you live in Mount Prospect and you're a man, you probably do.

According to a recent survey compiled by the Mount Prospect Jaycees, men in Mount Prospect are still holding their own.

Of those questioned (9,000 homes), 40 per cent responded to the survey. And of those who responded, 94 per cent of the men are the head of the house, while only 4 per cent of the women are.

And perhaps most surprising, only 2 per cent of all families who responded were undecided and didn't bother to answer the question.

BLACK PANTHER leader Bobby Rush will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday night. Appearance of Rush was arranged by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

PTA to Leave State Unit?

by EDITH FREUND

Lions Park PTA, the largest in Mount Prospect Dist. 57, will hold a special meeting Feb. 19 to decide whether to withdraw from the state and national PTA.

The meeting is an outgrowth of a study committee formed last spring to review the relationship of the local unit to its national affiliates. The meeting is open to all parents who have children attending Lions Park School.

An opinion poll was sent to parents of Lions Park students by the study group. It drew 107 votes for an independent group such as a "parent-teacher organization," 24 votes for the retention of the PTA, and one who favored neither. The poll was used by the committee to avoid reflecting its own opinions.

Barry Ekman, principal at Lions, said, "I feel the parents are very involved in educational goals here and are very concerned about education in Dist. 57. But it does seem as if the PTA demands that much of the extra time they have available be spent on workshops, meetings, and activities that are of little productive benefit to anyone."

EKMAN SAID THERE are 500 families represented at the school. He said many PTA members contribute hours to the school library program, work as teacher aides, supervise the lunch hour, and work to raise money for school needs. Much of this activity is frowned on by state and national PTA, if it is not actually against their stated policy.

Mrs. Robert Novy, Lions PTA president, said, "The PTA requires that we earn funds only to further PTA purposes. We should not raise funds to provide things for the school that should be provided by the school district through tax funds allocated by the school board. This would include library books, gym equipment, sound systems, and so forth. Since the board should provide teacher aides and librarians full-time, this would undoubtedly be ruled out, although we have two active programs in these areas. Cultural arts programs are represented in our budget by a healthy $500."

Lions Park PTA is a member of the National Council of PTA, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Randhurst Council of PTA and the Mount Prospect PTA Coordinating Council.

AT PRESENT, the National PTA collects 10 cents of every dues dollar raised through the local clubs. An additional 20 cents is paid to the ICPT. The money is used to obtain favorable legislation on both national and state levels for "the benefit of youth," according to supporters of the PTA affiliation.

Those who support local organization say that for the 1969-70 school year, Lions Park sent the state and national PTA $167 in dues, $110 for the scholarship fund to educate new teachers (this amount also includes a Founders' Day contribution), $60 in incidentals to PTA membership, totaling $337.

Local board members at Lions say they would not recommend that their school send representatives to the state convention requiring an additional amount that would be spent for transportation and lodging.

One parent criticized the conventions of the state association as being unresponsive to problems of the local units. Units must go through strict channels to present legislation on the floor, which eliminates spontaneous debate, they say.

"THE PTA SAYS it represents 10 million members in its lobbying, but local members are asked in their literature from the state to write as individuals, not as PTA members," a Lions Park member said.

Mrs. Novy said the Lions Park group objects more to this lack of responsiveness than it does to the cost of the outside affiliation.

"Our PTA objected most strongly to 'Green Tuesday,' but in the time allowed to us, we had no way to make this objection known without dropping all the other work we are doing locally," she said.

On "Green Tuesday" the ICPT asked the local units to hire buses and send local representatives to Springfield on specific Tuesdays to seek legislation through joint lobbying. Additional school funds were to have been obtained through legislation raising the state aid levels paid to local school districts.

Lions Park board members said they felt the money and time spent on the busing of lobbyists might have provided some of the same effect locally as the state money obtained through the joint action, Mrs. Novy said. Instead, the board at Lions reacted by considering the resolution.

Kindergarten OKd At Gregory School

The Dist. 57 Board of Education last night voted to establish a kindergarten program at Gregory School and to utilize the existing multipurpose room for the necessary facilities.

The board acknowledged the necessity of the program and most of the discussion was about where to hold the classes.

During a special meeting Jan. 26, the board introduced a plan to use a room set aside for a new library for the program.

Supt. Eric Sahlborg frowned upon the idea, saying that the building plans for the building were earlier approved by the board and that "the best long range plan would be to continue with the plans as originally approved."

THERE ALSO WAS discussion as to the idea of tearing down a wall between two existing classrooms on the lower level and remodeling them including the installation of a new washroom.

J. C. Busenhardt, business manager for Dist. 57, roughly estimated the cost of remodeling the two rooms at $4,000, adding that the toilet facility itself would cost about $2,000.

It was then moved that because of the high cost estimate the existing multipurpose room be utilized for the kindergarten program.

Sahlborg told the board architectural estimates for equipping the multipurpose room would be obtained by the next meeting.

The kindergarten program, which will go into effect next September, will involve approximately 53 preschoolers.

THE PROGRAM WILL BE separated into morning and afternoon sessions with about 26 students in each shift.

Sahlborg said, "The present Gregory School boundaries for grades one through six would become the K-6 (kindergarten through sixth grade) boundaries."

About 25 members of the Gregory School PTA presented a statement to the board voicing their support for the kindergarten program.

The members voiced no complaints concerning their children having to cross Route 83 daily.

There are presently three kindergarten classes at Busse and Fairview schools. Busse has 87 children enrolled and Fairview has 70.

MEMBERS OF THE study group were Mrs. Harrison Hanson, chairman, Mrs. Martin Hering, Mrs. Allen Schmid, Mrs. William Kuivinen, Mrs. Jack Ronchetto and Mrs. Michael Symeonides.

The resolution to be considered Feb. 19 has been forwarded to the ICPT, Mrs. Novy said. She believes they will have representatives at the meeting. They have acknowledged receipt of the proposed action, but have not reacted in any other way.

The study and the resolution have been publicized by the PTA at Lions since last May. Reports were made at two general meetings and the information was carried in three issues of the school paper, Mrs. Novy said.

"We are not trying to railroad this through," she told the Herald. The resolution, if passed, would dissolve the Lions Park PTA by April 15, 1970.

Candidate-Apathy Link?

"Surprisingly, in a town the size of Mount Prospect, relatively few people seem to be interested in an active part in our school system," Robert Novy, chairman of the nominating committee of the School Dist. 57 general caucus, explained.

Novy directed his criticism to community apathy during the committee's current campaign to recruit qualified candidates to fill three vacancies on the school board in April elections.

Terms of Chairman Harrison Hanson, Ralph Walberg and Charles Houchins will expire in April. Although Walberg and Houchins announced they will not seek another term, Hanson has not indicated he will seek reelection.

Novy asked the caucus for additional time to interview candidates, and the general meeting of the caucus was postponed one week to accommodate the nominating committee. The caucus will meet Feb. 25 at 8 p.m. at Busse School, 101 N. Owen Street. The meeting was originally scheduled for Feb. 18.

"THERE ARE HUNDREDS of people qualified for a position on the school board in Mount Prospect, and I'm at a loss to understand why these qualified people don't come forward. It would seem there's a rising degree of apathy on their part."

"Time is extremely short. We have less than two weeks in which to interview candidates and recommend them to the general caucus in February," Novy said.

The general caucus will choose three candidates from the list of candidates submitted by the nominating committee and endorse those candidates in their bids for a seat on the school board.

The names of persons interested in seeking a position on the school board may be submitted to Novy at 392-3181 or placed in one of the caucus boxes located at the Mount Prospect Library, Van Driel's Pharmacy at Route 83 and Route 14, or the Jewel Tea Food Store on Northwest Highway.

CHARLES NICK is the first full-time fire chief in Prospect Heights. He assumed his new position in the Forest River Fire Protection district Jan. 1.

Woodley Resigns His Post

The resignation of Earl Woodley, principal of Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights was accepted by the School Dist. 59 board of education last night.

Woodley has been principal of the school for two years. As of late last night, school members were still in executive session discussing the resignation, reasons for which had not yet been announced.

Earlier in the evening the board was criticized by an Elk Grove Village parent for being "too money minded." Mrs. Sharri Hildebrandt, active in the district Parents-Arts Council said the board always had questions related to monetary issues but never anything on curriculum.

The board had just briefly discussed a mid-year curriculum report, presented by Robert Brower, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

Harold Harvey, a board member, commented, "the board is not made up of professional educators. It is difficult for us to evaluate curriculum. We also can't have any curriculum unless we think of some way to keep the schools open."

Al Waltman, acting superintendent, added the board would be returning to a more balanced review of all aspects of the schools. He implied steps in that direction were being taken now.

There was no response from Mrs. Hildebrandt.

Seek School Program Ideas

The Dist. 57 Citizens' Advisory Council will be visiting junior high schools in other districts this week to find new program ideas which might be used at Lincoln School in Mount Prospect.

Nick's not new to the area. He has been with the fire department 13 years and has lived in the area all his life.

Schools they will visit are: Rand Junior High, Arlington Heights; Middle School, Barrington; Locust Junior High, Wilmette; Chute Junior High, Evanston; Lincoln Hall, Lincolnwood; Old Orchard Junior High, Skokie; Central Junior High School, Glenview; and Wilmet Junior High, Deerfield.

Municipal Vehicle Vandalism Probed

Palatine police were yesterday investigating damage to two village cars parked in the village hall parking lot over the weekend.

Police said that one of the cars had its right front tire punctured and the glass of a headlight broken. The other car had 17 puncture marks on its left side, seven of which penetrated the metal, police reported.

Both cars belonged to the village's building department. The damage was discovered Sunday morning at 10:30 by Henry Apida, the village's building and zoning administrator.

Model Home Site Will Be Picketed

More pickets are planned for this weekend at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs. Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SATURDAY'S DECISION followed several months of discussions among the school district, Levitt representatives, and occasionally village officials, over the lack of a sufficient number of school sites in Buffalo Grove's Lake County portion.

LAST FRIDAY, Levitt offered to sell the district either one of two 10-acre sites in the area, according to Mrs. Adeline Geokaris, the school district attorney, the price for the 10 acres would have been about $255,000. That offer was termed "obviously ridiculous" by Arthur Edmunds, school district president.

might take a week or two to get the idea across, but we feel it is one of the ways we can help."

Pot-Luck Supper To Include Talks

A pot-luck supper, sponsored by the Mount Prospect-Prospect Heights Human Relations Committee, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6 in Community South Baptist Church, 501 S. Emerson St., Mount Prospect.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

Almost all of the village's Lake County portion is taken up with Levitt's Strathmore development. The Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove is included in Dist. 96. That district's lone facility, Kildeer Countryside School, is located in Long Grove.

The land which the school district wants is located in the northwestern portion of the village on Arlington Heights Road, south of Highway 83.

The school district had offered to pay Levitt for the land at the price of $3,000 an acre. Levitt officials, however, said they were "dismayed" at the offer.

Following the board's decision Saturday to file the condemnation suit, the SHA decided to go ahead with a plan formulated earlier last week to picket and hand out leaflets at Levitt's model homes site.

According to Mrs. Alltop, "The (week-end) picketing will be continuous until negotiations between Levitt and the school board start again."

Anyone who wishes to attend the supper is requested to bring vegetables, fruits, salads or desserts to serve eight persons. The main dish will be ordered from a chicken or beef carry-out restaurant at a small fee to everyone.

Issues to be discussed after dinner include low and moderate-income housing, consumer union activities and peace. Entertainment will include a sing-a-long following the discussion.

The public is invited.

Continue Drum, Guitar Plan

The Mount Prospect Park district will continue its drum and guitar lesson program through February and March.

Paul Caldwell, assistant director of parks and recreation, said the lessons will be open to beginners and intermediate musicians, 7 or older.

The program will consist of 10 weekly lessons each Wednesday evening beginning Feb. 11. Cost to the participant is $15. An additional charge of $1.50 will be asked of the beginners for the purpose of purchasing an instructional booklet.

Guitar lessons will be held in Maple Room of the Mount Prospect Community Center each Wednesday. Beginner lessons will begin at 5 p.m. and at 4 p.m. for intermediates.

Drum lessons will be conducted at the Lions Park Field House, 411 S. Maple, on consecutive Wednesdays. Beginner lessons are scheduled for 6 p.m. and intermediates will be taught at 7 p.m.

Interested persons may register for the music courses in person at the park district office or by attending a special meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Maple Room at the Community Center.

All lessons will be conducted by instructors from the Kames Music Co. of Niles.

Applicants may bring their own instruments or rent them.

were there Sunday because of a dispute between Levitt and Lake County School Dist. 96 over lack of school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove.

Panther Rush To Tell Work

The heir apparent to the leadership of the Illinois Black Panther Party will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday as part of a series of speakers involved in the "Sidewalk Academy" at Forest View High School.

Bobby Rush, considered the leader of the local Black Panthers since the death of Fred Hampton, will speak on "The Politics of Change and the Work of the Black Panthers in Illinois."

Also on the program will be Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X Shabazz Community College, formerly Crane Junior College, in Chicago. Hurst will speak on "White Racism, Institutional, Cultural and Personal."

RUSH CAME to prominence in the Black Panther Party as its "Minister of Defense" while Hampton was chairman.

Rush was one of a group of Black Panthers who brought the organization to public attention in Chicago early last year when the local chapter was protesting the continued policy of holding Panther founder Huey P. Newton in jail.

Rush also figured in the recent disturbances in Chicago that surrounded the death of Hampton in his apartment.

As the Panthers' "Ministers of Defense," Rush was sought by police and federal agents before surrendering to police authority in front of an audience at the Chicago headquarters of Operation Breadbasket. Rush turned himself over to the head of the Afro-American Patrolman's Association, a group of black policemen within the Chicago Police Department.

THE FOREST View Sidewalk Academy is a series of meetings featuring speakers brought to the suburbs by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

One of the members of the organization said Rush was invited to the suburbs because "he is a prominent figure and has a lot to say. I think we should know some of the positive things the Panthers are saying," she said.

The Academy describes itself as a learning laboratory to enable concerned citizens to rebuild society for man.

Last week the organization heard Rev. George E. Riddick, director of research for the Southern Leadership Conference Operation Breadbasket. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Admission to the Sidewalk Academy is $1 for students, $2 for adults. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Road.

From 'Crimebuster to Bum'

"Yesterday, they called me a crimebuster. Today they call me a bum," began Charles Siragusa, executive director of the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission, speaking at the Urban Lighting Forum last night at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

The outspoken Siragusa was talking about his recent involvement in statewide crime investigation, but he was also talking about the problems facing law enforcement officials throughout the country.

"Militants, radicals, so-called dissenters and those advocating revolution are using tactics aimed at overthrowing our government," Siragusa said. "Radical groups are a threat to our security whether they be in the cities or on the residential streets."

"There is a relationship between light and crime," he continued. "Less than 2 per cent of our residential streets are adequately lighted, and 12 times as many crimes occur at night as in the daytime."

Siragusa told a roomful of businessmen and public officials that of all the problems confronting law enforcement officials, adequately lighted streets seem to have the most direct relationship with decline in crime statistics.

"In Gary, Ind., there was a 70 per cent drop in crime after lights were installed in that city. Arlington Heights, Rockford and Oak Lawn all have benefited from lighting, and in the small town of Patriot, Ind., with a population of 277, the citizens got together to purchase 11 street lights," Siragusa said.

"I do not advocate putting a policeman on every block, but let's use our money wisely. Most police chiefs would welcome the idea of putting a good streetlight on every corner."

"But the causes of crime," Siragusa continued, "are many. Police have the awesome responsibility of protecting the innocent. Crime will continue to rise if there are witnesses who refuse to get involved. And crime will continue to make our streets paths of fear."

Siragusa continued to cite examples of what he called "continued need for community involvement" in the fight against crime.

"A policeman costs a municipality a quarter of a million dollars in the period of his career and retirement," Siragusa said. "And surely that money is being spent wisely. But more money must be devoted to helping the police officer with all the tools he can use."

BLACK PANTHER leader Bobby Rush will speak in Arlington Heights Thursday night. Appearance of Rush was arranged by Educational Laboratories of Elk Grove Village.

Board Slate Thins

The field of nominees seeking endorsement as school board candidates by the School Dist. 25 Caucus nominating committee has narrowed to 11. Daniel Roig, 707 E. Valley Lane, Arlington Heights, withdrew from the race last week.

The other nominees were interviewed individually by a nine-member subcommittee during the last two weeks and written reports on the meetings were mailed to all nominating committee delegates yesterday.

There will be a slight change in the interview reports this year. In the past nominees were rated in several categories, such as awareness of current problems confronting the school board. In addition to the ratings in each category, an over-all appraisal rating was included in the reports sent to the delegates. This year the over-all rating will be eliminated.

Each nominee will speak briefly to the delegates tomorrow at an 8 p.m. meeting at Miner Junior High School. Following the talks a vote will be taken to determine the candidates whom the nominating committee will officially endorse.

There are three board seats at stake in this April's school board elections, and only one incumbent, H. Robert Powell, is running for re-election. Other men placed in nomination on Jan. 14 are Charles Anderson, William Beck, James Hoffnagle, J. R. Mascarella, Jay Master, Ross Scherer, Joseph Schiffhauer, R. J. Schlot and Donald Underwood.

DELEGATES VOTED TO keep nominations open for a few days and the name of Mrs. George McKenzie was submitted before the deadline.

The nominating committee is made up of two delegates from approximately 50 organizations within the school district. Participating groups must be nonpolitical, nonreligious and have been operating with elected officers for the past two years. Recommendations for candidates may be submitted only by committee delegates.

After the vote tomorrow nominating petitions will be circulated. The Caucus has successfully nominated candidates in the school district's elections for the past 16 years.

Decision Friday Whether Board Violated Law

by TOM WELLMAN

The Cook County state's attorney's office will hold an informal hearing Friday to determine if High School Dist. 214 board members and officials should be charged with violating the Illinois Open Meeting Law.

Dan Miroballi, an assistant state's attorney, said he was acting on an oral complaint filed by Mrs. Lynne Heidt, 6 Marberry St. in Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Heidt asserted that the Dist. 214 school board, which met last Monday night, violated a portion of the Illinois Open Meeting Law during a portion of the closed meeting.

Miroballi said the hearing was called to determine whether or not to prosecute officials and board members in the district. He explained that hearings such as this are set up to screen and investigate complaints.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the district said Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent, would cooperate with the state's attorney's office. He explained that letters have been sent to board members and Dr. Gilbert by the state's attorney's office.

Arthur Aronson, board president, said he was surprised by the news of the state's attorney's action. He said he had not received any notification from the state's attorney's office of the action.

The hearing, closed to the press, is set for 10 a.m. in Chicago.

The closed session which is the basis for the informal complaint began at about 12:50 a.m. last Tuesday morning after the board had been in open session for almost five hours.

A personnel matter was discussed in the first portion of the closed session. After that, however, the board members, with several administrators from the district present, continued an earlier discussion of admission of groups to Dist. 214 facilities and the district's insurance coverage. Aronson said later no action was reached in the meeting.

THE CLOSED MEETING discussion followed an occasionally heated discussion of using Dist. 214 facilities for showing films such as "Year of the Pig," an anti-war documentary on the Vietnam War.

Board member Frank Bergen at the beginning of the discussion in the open meeting criticized the showing of the film and asked about the district's insurance coverage in case of a confrontation.

The film was shown in several Dist. 214 high schools in mid-January, as well as at Harper College and at several churches.

The Open Meeting Act allows only five kinds of meetings that can be closed to the press and public: discussion of acquisition of real estate, collective bargaining negotiations, discussion of pending court action, discussion of hiring or firing an employee or discussion of a student discipline matter.

THE ACT IS BACKED up by criminal penalties of a fine of up to $100, thirty days in jail, or both for each violation. The court is also empowered to issue civil writs of mandamus requiring improperly closed meetings or meetings held without proper notice be opened and proper notice given.

After Mrs. Heidt filed her informal complaint with the state's attorney's office, a second woman, Mrs. Richard Claves, 203

N. Parkway in Prospect Heights, attempted to file a formal complaint with the same office.

However, she was told by a spokesman for the office that Mrs. Heidt's informal complaint had already been filed and a formal complaint would not be permitted. Mrs. Claves said yesterday that she had contacted at least one state legislator and planned to try to contact State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan about filing a complaint.

Mrs. Claves told the Herald that she wanted stronger action than a hearing merely to determine whether or not to file charges.

Down Deep, You May Like Scuba

Interested in scuba diving? Do you want to see the bottom of the ocean and cruise with fish through the wreck of a long forgotten ship?

The Arlington Heights Park District is currently seeking inquiries from local residents about community interest in a local scuba diving club and the establishment of scuba and diving classes at the soon to be completed Olympic Park pool.

JACK PELECK, a recreation supervisor for the Arlington Heights Park District, says if enough interest is generated locally for a club, he and a few other divers may form such an organization.

Scuba instruction at the pool could result from the formation of the club of people interested in diving, or learning how to dive.

If you now own a pair of flippers and a face mask and don't know what to do with them, call Jack Peleck at 255-8850. He may introduce you to a whole new world.

47 New Voters Turn Out to Register

Forty-seven residents of Arlington Heights will be voting for the first time, soon. They just turned 21 and were part of the 328 local residents who turned out to register as voters between November and Jan. 19 at the Arlington Heights village hall.

Response to the recent drive for voter registration was "very encouraging, particularly for a nonpresidential year," said Mrs. Betty Revard, village clerk of Arlington Heights.

Although the date is past for village clerks to take voter registration, local residents who missed the deadline may still register with their township clerks through Feb. 16.

TO BE ELIGIBLE to register to vote, a person must be a United State citizen, be 21 years of age by the time of the next election, and must have been a resident of Illinois for one year.

The resident must also have been a resident of Cook County for 90 days, and of his precinct for 30 days.

The next election applicable to all Arlington Heights residents will be the March 17 state-wide primary. A school referendum will be placed before voters in Dist. 21 on Feb. 7.

In addition to actual registrations, many persons sent the clerk's office the necessary changes of address following a move from one Cook County precinct to another. The estimated total number of Arlington Heights registered voters is now 28,000 or about 43 per cent of the estimated population of 65,000 in the village.

After questioning at random some of the 21-year-olds who came to the village hall to register, Mrs. Revard said she got the impression that most were uncertain about lowering the legal voting age, although some were vehement in their opinion that the law should be consistent nationally for a voting, and drinking, age.

Budget Hearing Slated Tonight

The first of four budget hearings before the finance committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board will be held tonight.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson told the Herald that he has found it easier to schedule the various village departments at four separate sessions rather than hearing them all at once.

The board of trustees, the fire department and the village clerk's office will be among the departments considered at tonight's meeting.

Futurities

The Village Board finance committee will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Bldg., 33 S. Arlington Heights Road.

The Board of Local Improvements will hold a special meeting at the Municipal Bldg. at 8 p.m. today.

Seek Church Unit Candidates

St. James Catholic Church in Arlington Heights is seeking candidates for the Parish Advisory Council.

Any registered parishioner of St. James parish may submit his or her name, or the name of any other registered parishioner, to the nominating committee. In April's election three lay men, one lay woman, and one nun will be chosen for two-year terms.

Suggestions may be written to the nominating committee, in care of St. James Rectory, 841 N. Arlington Heights Road, or called to the rectory office, 253-6306. The committee, consisting of The Rev. Edward Laramie, pastor; Frank Splitt, Bob Scanlon and Mrs. Marilyn Crump, will ask those recommended to submit a resume and schedule a personal interview.

FOLLOWING THE interviews the committee will prepare a slate of candidates to run in the election.

Leaf Burning Now Illegal In Arlington

If you live in Arlington Heights, be careful what you burn.

The Arlington Heights Village Board passed an ordinance last night prohibiting the burning of leaves. Village Atty. Jack Siegel explained that the only things that could be legally burned outside now would be a barbecue or a cigarette.

In other action the board revived the floundering Frenchmans Cove multi-family development on Dundee Road outside village limits.

Last year a board subcommittee recommended passage of the needed annexation and zoning, but the board vote at its last meeting was one short of approval. The petitioners attorney, Joseph Ash, withdrew his petition after the board's vote.

SINCE THAT TIME the petitioner has moved for reconsideration of the matter which needs the approval of those on the board who voted against the zoning.

Trustee Charles Bennett, who voted against the proposal, moved for reconsideration and the board agreed. Village Pres. Jack Walsh appointed Bennett, Jim Ryan and Burt Thompson to a special committee to reconsider the matter.

The board approved a plan commission recommendation when it voted yes on the final plat of subdivision for the Arlington Financial Park, a seven building complex to be located at Wilke and Campbell.

The board learned from Siegel that on Jan. 28 the Interstate Commerce Commission approved the installation of a grade crossing at Ridge-Walnut. The board discovered that the village would be assessed about $55,000 for the crossing but voted to approve it. Village Manager L. A. Hanson told the members that he did not think the crossing would be finished before 1971. The state and the railroad will also contribute to the installation of the crossing.

Prior to the meeting Walsh officially swore in Jim Ryan, the newest trustee. After the Ryan swearing in, Walsh formally appointed Mrs. Madeline Schroeder to fill Ryan's seat on the village plan commission. Mrs. Schroeder's term will expire April 30, 1973.

Man Is Charged In 3-Car Crash

Robert M. Matzl, 3001 Park Court in Rolling Meadows, was charged by Arlington Heights police with driving a vehicle not under control Sunday afternoon after he was involved in a three car accident at Wilke and Campbell.

According to police reports, Matzl was driving southbound on Wilke when an unknown car heading northbound swerved into the southbound lane and caused Matzl to swerve and hit another car.

The car hit by Matzl's vehicle was driven by William P. Sierawski, 913 Bartlett in Streamwood. Sierawski's car hit a car driven by Betty M. Fink, 1034 S. Belmont in Arlington Heights.

Matzl was taken to Northwest Community Hospital with cuts on his head. There were no other injuries.

Sirens Are Effective Reducing Vandalism

The ear-splitting sirens of School Dist. 25's radar warning system are proving effective in reducing vandalism inside Arlington Heights schools.

Jim Monroe, Dist. 25 director of building and grounds, said that the shrieks of the sirens, which are triggered when unauthorized persons are inside the schools on nights and weekends, have reduced vandalism in the district from previous years.

WHILE CHILDREN sometimes still enter the buildings, desks, aquariums and audio-visual equipment are left intact.

Monroe said that the true test of the new warning system will come when the weather is warmer and students are tempted to linger outdoors.

Women Band on Local Affairs

A group of women who are active or interested in local government will meet at the home of State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) Thursday afternoon.

Purpose of the session is to gather ideas on how other women in the area may become more informed about and involved in local issues.

Co-hostess for the meeting is Mrs. Katherine Muller, 418 S. Lincoln Lane, Arlington Heights. When Mrs. Muller sent a letter to Village Pres. Jack Walsh recently, urging that he consider a woman for a vacancy on the board of trustees, she sent copies to local papers.

Many women in the area who read the letter called Mrs. Muller to express their concern on local issues and to ask how they could be more effective in influencing decisions and policies. Mrs. Muller contacted Mrs. Chapman and the idea for

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS policeman helps take out a drawer full of clothes from a burning home at 115 S. Pine Street last week. The fire started in the basement and was discovered by occupant William Lane. Lane quickly took his wife and child next door to safety while the village fire department battled the blaze. Firemen were called to Pine Street the day before the fire when a home at 109 S. Pine was aflame. No one was hurt in either fire.

3 of Four Boys Arrested Face Burglary Counts

Arlington Heights police have apparently solved a series of burglaries in the village with the arrest of four youths Saturday afternoon.

Arrested were Robert R. Palmer, 18, of 1732 N. Wilshire; William G. Rosenberg, 18, of 1007 N. Schoebek; Dennis M. McDonald, 18, of 1710 N. Wilshire and a 16-year-old juvenile.

The burglaries occurred in late December and in January. All the youths except the juvenile were charged with burglary and placed in custody with bond set at $2,500 each.

More than $3,000 was taken in the nine burglaries along with stereo phonographs, radios, cameras and coin collections.

The three are to appear in Arlington Heights Circuit Court Feb. 20. The minor was turned over to the county Family Court.

Thieves Like Ice Cream and Money

No one likes plain ice cream anymore.

Breslers Ice Cream, 8 S. Dryden in Arlington Heights, was burglarized late Sunday night and approximately $150 was stolen, according to Arlington Heights police.

William Ramsdale, 201 N. Dryden, who owns the store, contacted police early Monday morning and told them the robbery must have occurred between 10 p.m. and midnight.

Police said that entry was attempted through a rear door unsuccessfully. The burglars apparently entered through a broken front door smashing it open with a shopping cart.

Model Home Site Will Be Picketed

More pickets are planned for this week-end at the Strathmore subdivision model homes site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Dundee Road, according to Mrs.

Lou Alltop, chairman of the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) schools committee in Buffalo Grove.

SHA also plans to call for pickets to be set up at the firm's construction office in the Lake County portion of the village.

Levitt and Sons is building the Strathmore subdivision. The development includes almost 1,500 homes in the two-county village.

The homeowners set up pickets last Sunday at the model homes site, after Lake County School Dist. 96 decided Saturday to file a condemnation suit against the building firm in an attempt to secure 20 acres of land for a school site.

SATURDAY'S DECISION followed several months of discussions among the school district, Levitt representatives, and occasionally village officials. Over the lack of a sufficient number of school sites in Buffalo Grove's Lake County portion.

Almost all of the village's Lake County portion is taken up with Levitt's Strathmore development. The Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove is included in Dist. 96. That district's lone facility, Kinder Country School, is located in Long Grove.

The land which the school district wants is located in the northwestern portion of the village on Arlington Heights Road, south of Highway 83.

The school district had offered to pay Levitt for the land at the price of $3,000 an acre. Levitt officials, however, said they were "dismayed" at the offer.

Spelunking Scouts Visit Wisconsin

Arlington Heights Boy Scout troops 34 and 135 spent last weekend exploring caves in southwest Wisconsin's Blackhawk country.

Under the supervision of John Cornell, Arlington Heights, and Ned Harkness, Prospect Heights, the 60 boys spent Saturday night in the caverns of Eagle Cave, the largest in the state. The scouts also went tobogganing and hiking in the park surrounding the caverns.

They cooked their own meals in a new log dining lodge adjacent to the cave. The local scouts were part of a group of 200 boys from the midwest who visited the area this weekend.

were there Sunday because of a dispute between Levitt and Lake County School Dist. 96 over lack of school sites in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove.

LAST FRIDAY, Levitt offered to sell the district either one of two 10-acre sites in the area, according to Mrs. Adeline Geokaris, the school district attorney, the price for the 10 acres would have been about $255,000. That offer was termed "obviously ridiculous" by Arthur Edmunds, school district president.

Following the board's decision Saturday to file the condemnation suit, the SHA decided to go ahead with a plan formulated earlier last week to picket and hand out leaflets at Levitt's model homes site.

According to Mrs. Alltop, "The (week-end) picketing will be continuous until negotiations between Levitt and the school board start again."

SHE SAID THAT, in all, about 25 persons picketed last Sunday. Pickets were set up in shifts, with each "shift" working for an hour. She said that "We're working with about 150 people, in all, next weekend."

Of the picketing, Mrs. Alltop said, "We think it will influence the situation. It might take a week or two to get the idea across, but we feel it is one of the ways we can help."

'We'll Drown in Pollution'

by GERRY DE ZONNA

Pollution is a dirty word, especially at Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

And students in the seventh-grade journalism class there are waging a campaign against water and air pollution by enlisting more than 500 student signatures for an anti-pollution petition.

And just as soon as the six petitions are endorsed by students, copies will be sent to President Nixon, Sen. Charles Percy, Sen. Ralph Smith, Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Rep. Philip Crane, 13th Dist., and the delegation at the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

"We're serious about this. The air pollution's gonna get so bad that the sun's rays will be trapped in the air and the heat will melt the glaciers at the polar caps. Then we'll all drown to death," said Jim Lill of 207 S. Pine Street.

The anti-pollution campaign is the result of a class assignment. "I asked my journalism students to write an editorial on the most significant event or issue in the last decade which is most likely to affect our lives in the 1970s," journalism teacher Ernest Bloomquist explained.

"And I was really surprised to find the majority of the class chose pollution. I think there were only three or four students who wrote about the space program or the assassinations of President Kennedy and Martin Luther King," he said.

Bloomquist suggested the students circulate petitions to let public officials know how concerned they were about pollution. The anti-pollution campaign snowballed into a project in which the students could "practice" what they learned in journalism class.

"WE MADE POSTERS to advertise our petition and asked all our friends to sign it. But some of them didn't want to get involved because they didn't want to take the time to sign then names. Anyway, we just want the President and everyone to know we care about pollution," said Monique Tinkle, 206 W. Orchard.

"And do you know that anyone who lives in Chicago has lungs like smokers, even if they don't smoke. Driving on the expressway in all the traffic is like smoking two packs of cigarettes," Dan Allison of 339 E. Lincoln Street, said.

"We have to promote public sentiment if we want to do something about pollution. Money isn't everything we need to stop pollution because the people have to cooperate first," Bob Lederleitner, 207 S. Pine Street, added.

THE STUDENTS AGREED pollution would affect them more than the space program, political assassinations and the civil rights movement. "Civil Rights doesn't hurt everyone, while pollution affects us all. There isn't a civil rights problem in the suburbs but there is a problem with pollution," Mike Sullens of 206 S. Candota added.

"And besides, we won't have to worry about these other problems unless we stop pollution. There won't be any civil rights demonstrations or moon walks because we'll all be dead," Bob said.

"We should have a Communist party to do something about pollution because what the Communists say goes with the people, or they get sent to Siberia. Our government isn't doing anything about it because we're a free country and everyone talks too much of the big companies who do most of the polluting take the government to court," Mike explained.

THE STUDENTS said there's just too much pollution and it's all coming to the suburbs from Chicago.

"We could help stop pollution if we had electric cars with no exhaust, but the gasoline companies would probably go broke, so they don't want them. Do you know that there was a rate across the country between an electric car and a gas car, and the electric car won because it didn't have to stop for gas on the way," Jim said.

Patty Mutert of 119 N. Eastwood said they were all concerned about pollution, but most of all they don't want to die from dirty water and air. "We didn't cause pollution, but we have to grow up with it," she said.

"It's really not fair because we didn't make pollution. Our parents never talk about pollution and they're not worried about it, but it'll get all of us kids. And we'll have to pay for it, not the older people," Mike said.

"And besides the snow turns black," they added.

Carl Hansen Attends First Meeting—Gets A Surprise

Mount Prospect's Carl Hansen attended his first Cook County board meeting as a commissioner Monday, and to his surprise, got his name on more legislation than any other board member.

To the uninitiated, the speed at which the county board conducts its business keeps a person wondering where on the agenda, the board is. The only time to catch up is when commissioners take the president's chair to conduct committee meetings.

It is also common for the committee chairman to make and second the motions needed, giving credit for the motion to a commissioner of one party and the motion's second to a commissioner of the other party.

THUS, WHEN Commissioner Charles Bonk, Public Service committee chairman, said "seconded by Hansen" in rapid-fire delivery Monday, the new commissioner looked up startled. Hansen turned to fellow Republican Floyd Fuller as if to ask what had happened.

Noticing Hansen's reaction, Bonk grinned and Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne smiled broadly. Hansen's name was used twice again by then, Hansen was grinning.

After the "initiation" meeting, Dunne, on vacation Friday when Hansen was sworn in, came over to shake the new commissioner's hand.

Pine Wood Cars Roar Down Track

Braving subzero weather, an estimated 125 parents and friends cheered for the 83 entrants in Cub Scout Pack 363's second annual Pinewood Derby, Jan. 19.

The competition was held in the gymnasium at Edgar Allen Poe School, 2800 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights.

The race was the culmination of weeks of work by fathers and sons in designing, whittling, sanding, lacquering, lubricating and transforming a block of pine wood into a miniature racing car not exceeding five ounces in weight.

Scott Olson won the derby after successfully completing the eliminations within his den and the tension-filled finals. Second place was won by Matthew Reidy, third place was won by Charles Stewart and fourth place was won by Wayne Eschen.

TROPHIES WILL be presented to the three top winners at the pack's blue and gold dinner on Feb. 20 at the Arlington Heights Elks Lodge, 2323 N. Wilke Rd.

The winning entrant in each of the 12 dens will be awarded a ribbon at the dinner. Scouts to receive ribbons include Chuck Hornaday, Donald Perrin, Charles Stewart, Greg Hamilton, Bobby Carter and Robert Eschen.

son, Jerry Lannoye and Bill Smart. Winners of the second heat include Jim Gilland, John Breeden, George Mann, Robert Low, Tom Vrennos and Matthew Reidy.

More included Randy Vitales, Bob Sampson, Dean Nelson, Wayne Eschen, Blake Chaney and John Cieslewicz.

CHUCK REINHOLD, the pack's steering committee chairman, officiated at the event with the assistance of derby judges Ronald Sposato, Jerry Lannoye and Ray Williams. The derby's guided track was designed and built by Ben Williams.

Achievement awards were presented prior to the race. John Connelly and Tim Brannock received gold arrows.

Weber's badges that were awarded included Don Wilke, showman and outdoorsman, Bob McAnnally, aquanaut, Blake Chaney, athlete and naturalist, and David Sahli, athlete.

John Connelly, Kevin Galligan and Bill Christenson advanced to webelo rank.

Woodley Resigns

The resignation of Earl Woodley, principal of Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights was accepted by the School District 50 board of education last night.

Woodley has been principal of the school for two years. As of late last night, school members were still in executive session discussing the resignation, reasons for which had not yet been announced.

Earlier in the evening the board was criticized by an Elk Grove Village parent for being "too money minded." Mrs. Sharon Hildebrandt, active in the district Parents-Arts Council said the board always had questions related to monetary issues but never anything on curriculum.

The board had just briefly discussed a mid-year curriculum report, presented by Robert Bowser, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

Harold Haavey, a board member, commented, "the board is not made up of professional educators. It is difficult for us to evaluate curriculum. We also can't have any curriculum unless we think of some way to keep the schools open."

Al Waltman, acting superintendent, added the board would be returning to a more balanced review of all aspects of the schools. He implied steps in that direction were being taken now.

There was no response from Mrs. Hildebrandt.

Construction coordinator Donald DeBiase announced bids for additions to Juliette Low School and Lively Junior High School will be opened Feb. 26 at 2 p.m. at the district administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.
